FLEET IS GIVEN ROYAL WELCOME

Half Million Australians Watch for Its Arrival.

MANY REMAIN UP ALL NIGHT

Smoke on Horizon Draws All to Hilltops.

Every Point of Vantage Along the Water Front Is Taken To Watch the Approaching Armada—Bay Is Filled with Steamers and Pleasure Craft Which Are Gaily Decorated for the Occasion.

Sydney, Aug. 20.—At 5:35 this morning official notification was sent out that the American battleship fleet had been sighted, a thin veil of smoke on the horizon being the first signal of its approach given to the watchers on shore. It was yet 20 miles outside of Sydney harbor, but this word, which had been awaited eagerly by tens of thousands, stirred Australians like a call to arms, and almost instantly those who had not left the city to take up points of vantage along the bays were moving in droves to line the quays, rooftops and other places on the harbor front, to watch the coming of the guardships from the new world. The day broke bright and clear, and so intense was the interest in the American ships of war that half the population remained awake the entire night, and thousands upon thousands of them, long before the night was over, where on their way to the hilltops outside of the city limits, where they congregated seemingly in unbroken lines along the coast from Mondi Beach to Manly.

Presented Beautiful Sight.

It is estimated that hardly less than 500,000 people assembled to give the visitors a royal welcome. Sydney harbor, with its innumerable bays and coves, never looked more beautiful, nor did the American sailors ever witness a more inspiring sight than that which met their eyes as the white ships came through the channel, past the great headlands, into Port Jackson.

A hundred thousand people, the greatest single assemblage of all, gathered on the south heads, where a magnificent view of the whole scene was to be had. Hundreds of craft of all kinds moved up and down the harbor, all the waters, with the exception of the Fairway and the anchorages, being dotted with little and big vessels, decorated in every conceivable manner with flags and bunting.

Real Festivities Not On.

Sydney, Aug. 20.—Though the real festivities in connection with the visit of the American fleet, which anchored amid a scene of wonderful enthusiasm this morning at 11:45 o'clock, will not really begin until tomorrow, the city and surrounding country are already buzzing with excitement and giving every indication of undergoing the same feverish week that was experienced by the people of Auckland.

The only event on the entertainment program for today was the dinner to Admiral Speery and his staff by Governor General Northcote tonight. It was one of the most brilliant social events in the history of Sydney and was made memorable by the interchange of the most friendly sentiments on behalf of America and England.

There were toasts to President Roosevelt, Admiral Speery, the fleet and the country from which it sailed, and equal felicitation from the admiral for all things English.

The official landing of the admiral and his staff at Farm Cove and of the officers, sailors and marines at Farm Cove and Woolloomooloo bay, will take place in the morning. There will be a huge parade through the streets, joined in by all official bodies and thousands of sailors and marines.

It was feared that the parade would be abandoned owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the committee on arrangements. Just what the trouble was has not been explained, but it is said that the situation has been cleared up and that the parade will be held. A public reception in the afternoon and a state dinner in the evening will complete the day.

It is estimated that there are nearly 200,000 visitors in Sydney and that double this number crowded the levees and piers this morning to watch the fleet drop anchor.

Against Yellow Peril.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 20.—The battleship fleet arrived here at noon today after a splendid voyage. A half million people literally blackened the hills surrounding the harbor. The demonstration in its honor was truly wonderful and unmistakable in its sincerity.

Today's editorials in all the leading papers comment on good results certain to follow the visit of the fleet and urge a cementing of the ties between America and the English-speaking nations of the Pacific, which will assure white rulership in the Far East and banish forever the yellow peril.

Trouble Understood Settled.

London, Aug. 20.—London was rife today with speculation as to whether the reported attempt of the authorities at Sydney, Australia, to prevent the sailors from the American fleet parading through the streets tomorrow would lead to a diplimatic tangle.

Every effort is being made to find out the exact nature of the trouble, but the Sydney officials and officers of the fleet, realizing the possibilities of misrepresentation in the incident, are adopting the most strenuous means to suppress all reference to it.

It is understood that the trouble has been satisfactorily, even amicably settled and that the sailors will march through the streets tomorrow according to the original program. It is said here that the trouble arose over the failure of the reception committee to obtain a suspension of the dominion regulation against the landing of any armed body of sailors of a foreign country. There would have been this same difficulty at Auckland had not the authorities there obtained a temporary suspension of the regulation.

THEY BOYCOTT THE SCHOONER

Which Brings Raw Materials to Curacao

UPON WHICH THEY MAKE A LIVELIHOOD

So Intense Is Feeling of the Islanders.

Dutch Residents Refuse To Buy Hat Straw or Sugar from the Maria Abigail, Believing That, Did They Buy, They Would Contribute to the Coffers of the Hated Dictator, Castro of Venezuela.

Washington, Aug. 20.—As indicating the intensity of feeling against Venezuela among the people of the Dutch island of Curacao, a mail report from Elias H. Cheney, the American consul at Willimstad, received at the state department today is interesting.

It shows that although the people have been reduced to a distressing state through the cutting off of their commerce with Venezuela by the arbitrary decrees of President Castro, they are patriotically refusing to accept the raw material upon the manufacture of which they have been dependent, since they believe that by so doing they would contribute to the coffers of the hated dictator.

The Venezuelan schooner, Maria Abigail, appeared off the port of Willemstad July 29 with a cargo of sugar and hat straw. She had been loading at Maracaibo and, because of the fact that Castro had prohibited other merchants of that town from trading with Curacao, it was concluded that this schooner was operating under a special permit. Word was at once sent around the town of Willimstad to boycott the schooner.

A dozen merchants sent a letter to the captain advising him not to enter the port. He persisted, however, but was no sooner within the "bridge" than stones began to fly. A squad of soldiers was sent to guard the vessel.

Most of the stores in Willimstad which dealt in sugar and hat straw closed when the schooner entered and stayed closed until it was known that it would leave. No one having offered to buy one pesetas worth of the goods, the captain and owner finally concluded to return to Maracaibo.

Johnson Will Accept.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 20.—Governor Johnson will accept the nomination for governor, made by the Democratic state convention tomorrow. He will issue a statement this afternoon.

DISCUSSING SITUATION

Sherman and Hitchcock Are at Oyster Bay

TO CONFER WITH THE PRESIDENT

Regarding New York Gubernatorial Situation.

Sherman Is Said To Be Anxious To Have Governor Hughes Renominated—Shabby To Employ Him in the Western Campaign While His State Convention Turns Him Down—Worrying Over Foraker.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 20.—President Roosevelt, James S. Sherman, Republican candidate for the vice presidency, and National Chairman Frank Hitchcock are here today to discuss the Hughes situation and to decide as to the best means of replenishing the campaign war chest. It is expected that the attitude of Senator Foraker will also come up for discussion and that plans will be made to placate him.

It is said that Sherman is anxious to have Governor Hughes renominated. He is said to believe that it would be shabby to employ the governor in the western campaign while his state convention turned him down at home, and that, in his opinion, Hughes is needed to make the state sure for Taft. In this attitude he is expected to be seconded by Secretary Cortelyou, who, it is understood, will come to Sagamore Hill by automobile this afternoon to join the gathering.

Treasurer Sheldon's complaint that not more than $20,000 has so far been contributed to the Republican fund, is to be discussed and Hitchcock will put forth a plan for the organization of the campaign contribution propaganda by which every state, county and even every village in the country will have its committee to gather in the necessary cash.

The statement yesterday issued by Foraker that he would make no campaign speeches is also causing Hitchcock some uneasiness, and the neglect of the Ohio leader to come to national headquarters in New York as requested, has led to a fear that his attitude may prove harmful.

Both Sherman and Hitchcock believe that Foraker would be a very great help, and it is probable that at today's conference means will be sought to cause his return to the Taft fold.

EVERYTHING IS GOING THE GOVERNOR'S WAY

Senator Platt Today Comes Out Against Hughes.

New York, Aug. 20.—Senator Thomas C. Platt is out today against the renomination of Charles E. Hughes. Lauding the organization leaders who oppose the governor as "good boys," he said:

"These leaders are perfectly correct in predicting that Hughes cannot be reelected and I am with them in maintaining that his candidacy will seriously jeopardize Taft's chances of carrying New York.

"Bryan is now whistling through a graveyard, but he may come out of the cemetery and have a chance of election if Hughes again heads the ticket. I have no candidate, but I believe that if Speaker Wadsworth were nominated, he would not only help Taft, but would be the next governor of New York."

ABOUT TO BUY A GREAT ESTATE

Countess Szechenyi Will Invest About $1,800,000.

Vienna, Aug. 20.—Countess Szechenyi, who was formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt of New York, is about to buy a great estate in the Magyar country near the free city of Komorn, fifty miles southwest of Budapest.

The estate which is in a remarkably fertile and picturesque country, is situated at the junction of the Danube and Waag rivers. The price of the new seat is said to be $1,800,000.

All Data Necessary.

London, Aug. 20.—The joint financial commission, made up of American senators and representatives and headed by Senator Aldrich, announced today that it had secured all the necessary data regarding Europe's financial currency systems here and would not continue its investigations on the continent.

JOHN A. JOHNSON.

Renominated for Governor by the Democracy of Minnesota, Wednesday.

THE PROTEST IS TO BE IGNORED

No Attention To Be Paid by King Edward.

TO COMPLAINT OF THE PROTESTANT ALLIANCE

Against Reception at Windsor of Vannutelli.

The Alliance, Which Is Deeply Offended Because King Attends a Requiem Mass for Late King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis, Holds That King Automatically Vacates Throne by Recognizing the Pope.

London, Aug. 20.—Practically ignored by the government in its protest against the contemplated reception of Cardinal Vannutelli at Windsor castle, the council of the Protestant alliance today notified the secretary of state for home affairs that it proposes to appeal to parliament unless King Edward heeds its warning not "to violate for a second time the Protestant constitution of the kingdom established by the bill of rights and act of settlement."

The council's contention is that any British monarch who recognizes the Pope automatically vacates his throne. Edward offended the organization deeply by attending a requiem mass for the late King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis, of Portugal.

On learning that Cardinal Vannutelli, the papal delegate to the Eucharist congress in September, was to be received by his majesty, the secretary sent a strong protest to the foreign office, presumably hoping that it would be communicated to Rome. The only answer was:

"The under secretary of state for foreign affairs presents his compliments to the secretary of the Protestant alliance and, by direction of the secretary of state, acknowledged receipt of his letter of the thirty-first ultimo."

The king's advisors take the stand that, while required to swear at his coronation that he is not a Catholic, nothing in the constitution prohibits him from acts of courtesy toward Catholic governments, the see of Rome or their representatives.

Frisco Is Selected.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Brigadier General James B. Aleshire, quartermaster general for the United States army, left here for Washington today after making the announcement that this city would hereafter be the headquarters for the Philippine stores service.

FARLEY TO BE MADE CARDINAL

Archbishop Will Be Elevated Late in October.

POPE WITHDRAWS HIS OPPOSITION

He Is Convinced of His Wisdom in So Doing.

The Changed Attitude of the Pope Is Rumored in Rome—Said To Be Result of His Italian Advisors—Possible That, in Addition to Elevation of Farley, a Third Cardinal Will Be Named.

Rome, Aug. 20.—Convinced of the wisdom of acceding to the demands of the Catholic church in America, Pope Pius X, it was learned from a high ecclesiastic today, has finally withdrawn his opposition to the elevation of Archbishop Farley, of the New York diocese, to the cardinalate, and this honor will be paid the American prelate at the meeting of the consistory late in October.

The changed attitude of the Pope was persistently rumored in Rome today. The Pope urged the alleged modernistic tendency of the church in America as an argument against another American cardinal, but his Italian advisors are credited with convincing him that such was not the case; that the so-called modernism was merely the increased efforts of the church along practical lines.

It is possible that in addition to the elevation of Archbishop Farley, a third cardinal will be given the North American continent, though whether he will be for Mexico, United States or Canada it was not stated. The identity of the possible third cardinal is not even hinted at.

At Point of Death.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—George H. T. Jackson, a wealthy clubman and manager of the Napa soda business, is at the point of death here today following a hunting accident in the Siskiyou mountains. Jackson was shot by John Smith, his guide, while on a deer hunt. It is probable that he will die as the result of a long trip over mountain trails after Smith's unlucky shot.

Working in Relays.

Wigan, Eng., Aug. 20.—Though there is no hope of finding alive any of the fifty men entombed in the wrecked Maypole mine, rescuing parties are working with such desperation that it is feared a second calamity may overtake them as a result of encountering smoke and gases in the mine shaft. The rescuers are working in relays.

PARALLEL OF FERNIE FIRE

May Be Blaze Now Raging in British Columbia.

WHOLE NOOKSACK VALLEY IS ABLAZE

Feared Loss of Life and Property May Be Heavy.

Soldiers and Settlers in the Yosemite Valley Thursday Fighting a Great Forest Fire Which Threatens the the Giant Redwoods of the National Park—Little News from Sections Where Fires Are Worst.

Bellingham, Wash., Aug. 20.—Forest fires which threaten to parallel the disaster at Fernie, are raging today all along the coast of this state and far up into British Columbia. News was received today from Glacier, a town near here, that the whole Nooksack valley, in which the town lies, is ablaze and it is feared that if no rains come and the present winds continue that not only the loss of property, but also that of life, may be heavy. Help has been asked from Bellingham, and measures are already being taken to aid the fight against the flames. The inhabitants are fighting for their lives.

From Victoria, British Columbia, comes the news that enormous fires are raging in the vicinity of Nanaimo, a populous mining town on the coast just east of the northern part of Vancouver island. It is feared the coal mines are in danger.

At Bowen island, also Canadian territory, the inhabitants are fighting fire and it is feared that some of the fishing and canning settlements along the coast have been cut off and destroyed.

Redwoods Threatened.

Yosemite, Calif., Aug. 20.—Soldiers and settlers in the Yosemite valley today are fighting a great forest fire which threatens the giant redwood trees of the national park. All through the reservation the drouth and the intense heat has caused conflagrations, the worst of which are in the Hetch-Hetchy and Lake Ellnor regions.

There, a party of San Francisco supervisors who went out to inspect a proposed water supply region have been turned back by the flames. They escaped from the burning timber with difficulty.

But little news is coming in from the sections where the fires are worst as all the wires are down.

QUEER KIDNAPING STORY OF FATHER

Is Discredited by Statement of Stepmother of Children.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 20.—After an all-night search extending throughout the county, no trace has been found of Gertrude and Dorothy Biehn, aged fourteen and eleven, daughters of Jacob Biehn, a wealthy farmer, who mysteriously disappeared from their home near here. The father believes his daughters have been kidnaped.

According to the father's statement, he and his wife had retired about an hour before the children's disappearance. A closed carriage is said to have stopped before the house, and a man demanded that the two girls enter the carriage, which they did. No motive is known to exist for the kidnaping, unless the girls are being held for ransom.

Biehn today arranged for detectives to aid in the search for the children. Mrs. Biehn, their stepmother, with whom they are said by neighbors to have always been on friendly terms, said today she was not certain they had not left home of their own volition.

Ten-Year-Old Suicide.

Arthur, S. D., Aug. 20.—Using a double-barreled shotgun with which Andrew Cogoloin killed himself several months ago, the ten-year-old daughter of John Stoltz committed suicide yesterday. That the child had been contemplating the deed for sometime was shown by the diligent inquiries she is known to have made as to the use of the gun.

Three Score and Ten Club.

Mason City, Ia., Aug. 20.—Two members over ninety, seven over eighty and twenty-one over seventy are here attending the fourth annual meeting of the Three Score and Ten club Treron Palmer and S. M. Richardson are the two who have reached the ninety-one year mark.

800 SOLDIERS STAY THURSDAY

All the Rest of the Troops Leave Springfield.

MILITARY PATROLS WILL BE WITHDRAWN

Thursday Everything in the City Is Quiet.

Business Is Fast Resuming Its Normal Conditions—The Saloons Are Still Closed, but Will Be Allowed To Reopen Saturday — Seventh Regiment and Few Mounted Troops Will Guard City.

Springfield, Ills., Aug. 20.—Only 800 soldiers remain in Springfield at noon today. All the rest of the 4,000 troops which have been guarding this city since the riots of last Saturday, have packed their tents and departed. The first and Fourth regiments left yesterday. The Second and those companies of the Third regiment which were here and the entire Fifth regiment left this morning at different hours. The Second returned to Chicago on special trains. The other regiments went out by companies by different routes to the various towns and cities of central and northern Illinois.

The grand jury resumed its sessions this morning with fifty witnesses waiting in the ante-rooms to be heard. Indictments will be voted this evening against a number of persons. The jury is working every minute and the testimony before the military court is also reduced in writing.

All military patrols will be withdrawn from the city. Last night everything was quiet, and business is fast resuming its normal conditions. The saloons are still closed, but will be allowed to reopen Saturday.

The Seventh regiment and the few mounted troops of cavalry will guard the city for an indefinite period. They are not likely to be withdrawn until the grand jury has completed its work.

The colored population is today returning to its usual sections, except those who have left town permanently.

IGNORANT OF FACT HUSBAND IS DEAD

The Leper Widow of General Wardwell Raves for Him.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 20.—Ignorant that the husband who braved leprosy for her sake is dead of cancer, Mrs. Isabelle Wardwell, widow of the late General David C. Wardwell, is raving here today in the contagious ward of the county hospital and crying piteously for her life's partner.

Mrs. Wardwell, who is far gone in leprosy, escaped mysteriously from an iron cot to which she was chained in the hospital at Tombstone, Arizona, Tuesday night, and in disguise rode in an automobile to Benson, where she boarded the train for this place, where she believed her dead husband was confined in the soldiers' home.

Guards of the contagious ward of the county hospital, who had been notified by the railroad authorities, met Mrs. Wardwell on her arrival here, and despite her cries and entreaties, took her struggling to the isolation quarters at the hospital.

What will become of the unfortunate woman has not yet been absolutely settled, but it is probable that she will within a few days be transported to a leper settlement. She is already greatly emaciated by the disease.

Five Children Poisoned.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Five children ranging in age from two to ten years of Thomas W. Holman, of this city, were poisoned by ptomaine yesterday afternoon. Alton Grady, aged two years, died and Katie, five years, is not expected to live. The other three will probably recover. Physicians pronounced it ptomaine poisoning but it has not developed what the children had eaten.

Automobile Explodes.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 20.—Thomas Denman, a wealthy farmer, and Ralph Sear of Boswell, Indiana, were seriously injured and William Coffenberg, Leo Schuesler and Warren Mankey, also of Boswell, were burned by the explosion of an automobile near here. The explosion occurred while the machine was going at thirty miles an hour, causing it to run into a fence.

COMMON PLEAS.

In the divorce suit of Laura May Morrison, the defendant, William Morrison, filed a sensational answer and cross-petition in the common pleas court, Tuesday afternoon. He claims that his wife was so jealous of him that he had no peace of mind; that she threatened to kill him and even accused him with immoral conduct. He states that he is in poor health and unable to pay alimony as prayed for in his wife's petition. Therefore he asks that her petition be dismissed and that he be granted a divorce on his cross-petition.

The suit of Lucius A. Carhart against Martha Bauer and others has been dismissed in the common pleas court. The cause, a suit on account, has been settled out of court.

Effie Barkalow, through her attorney, L. E. Myers, brought an action for a divorce from Charles Barkalow Thursday morning, in common pleas court. She charges him with gross neglect of duty and three years' willful absence. The plaintiff avers that the defendant deserted her in Cleveland. She asks a decree of divorce, alimony and custody of their five-year-old son. They were married in this city, October 6, 1901.

In the foreclosure suit of Lucius A. Carhart against Martha J. Bowen the matter was dismissed and the costs assessed against the plaintiff, Wednesday.

JAMES VAUGHAN KILLS HIMSELF AT PIQUA

A Printer Who Is Well Known in This City.

DRINKS ACID AND DIES VERY QUICKLY

Young Man Leaves a Widow and One Child—Relatives Think the Acid Is Taken by Mistake, Although He Is Despondent and in Ill Health Prior to the Act.

James Vaughan, aged thirty-two years, formerly of this city, and a nephew of James H. Vaughan, proprietor of the Vaughan Printing House, is dead as a result of drinking carbolic acid. He was buried at Piqua, Wednesday. James H. Vaughan, of this city, Mrs. Elizabeth Huffman and Mrs. Annie Vaughan, of Richwood, attended the funeral.

The dead man was employed as a printer in this city by the Mirror Publishing company several years ago. He had also been employed in the Gazette office at Richwood. He had a number of friends in this city.

According to information received from Piqua, Vaughan became despondent and committed suicide. His relatives, however, believe that his death was accidental.

"He had been in poor health some time," said Mr. Vaughan, his uncle, Thursday, "and had several kinds of medicine in the cupboard. He came home from the newspaper office where he was employed as a printer and went to the cupboard. His mother thought he went to get his medicine. He called to her. When she ran into the kitchen he told her to get an egg down him as quickly as she could. This fact leads us to believe that he took the carbolic acid by mistake."

The young man only lived fifteen minutes after taking the fiery liquid. He is survived by a widow and one child.

C. M BECKETT TO LEAVE MARION SOON

Will Not Teach in the Local Public Schools.

C. M. Beckett, who has been the head of the commercial department of the Marion High school, will not teach here the coming school year. Mr. Beckett, with his family, is now visiting relatives in the southern part of the state, but it is announced authoritatively that he will not make application for his position next year. He has several positions offered him, but up until the time he left the city on his present visit he had not made up his mind just where he would go. Among the positions offered him is one in New York City. Some time ago he sold his property on south Seffner avenue and the household goods are now all packed ready to be moved.

During the time that Mr. Beckett has been a teacher in the local High school, he has made hundreds of friends among school patrons and students who will regret to learn that he will not again accept a position in this city.

EDWARD FERGUS QUITS BUSINESS

City of Marion Loses Another Saloon Thursday.

Marion county's saloons are dwindling in numbers. Thursday, Edward Fergus called at the office of County Auditor Charles L. Allen and drew $271.98 tax refund money. He has locked the doors of his saloon on north Main street.

With Fergus quitting the business, forty-seven saloons are left in the county. A year ago there were fifty-two. The Alkin tax of $1,000 a year has put out of business those who have "threw up the sponge."

In Marion there are now thirty-four saloons. In the smaller towns of the county there are thirteen, as follows: Caledonia, four; LaRue, three; Agosta, one; Prospect, four, and Waldo, one.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST BOTH

Will Be Asked in Cases of Hains Brothers,

SO THE PROSECUTOR ANNOUNCED MONDAY

Calls Annis' Killing Deliberate and Premeditated.

It Is Claimed the Hains Family Has a Confession of the Wife of the Army Officer Which Leads to the Tragedy of Last Saturday—A Description of the Two Brothers. One Tried for Life Once Before.

New York, Aug. 17.—Pale to the lips, but without the slightest other evidence of excitement, Captain Peter C. Hains, United States army, and his brother, T. Jenkins, this morning faced Magistrate Gilroy in the Long Island City police court, charged with the murder of William E. Annis on the float of the Bayside Yacht club, Flushing, Saturday afternoon.

Contrary to the expectation of sensational lovers, who crowded the court-room to its utmost capacity, overflowing the corridors, the stairways and even the narrow alley that leads to the cells, the hearing begun with formal questions on the part of the magistrate, was cut short after a whispered consultation between District Attorney Darrin of Queens, and W. E. Percy, the lawyer for the Hains family. The result of the conference was then reported to the magistrate, who adjourned the case until one week from today.

To Plead Unwritten Law.

Though neither the prisoners, their aged father, General P. C. Hains, or Lawyer Percy would consent to an interview, it was learned upon absolute authority that the "unwritten law" will be invoked, and a report has it that early this morning the alleged confession of Mrs. Hains, in which she is said to have admitted wrongdoing with Annis, was placed in a safe deposit vault in Manhattan. Two copies were enclosed in a similar receptacle in Brooklyn and a third copy will be sent to Baltimore, there to be held in safe-keeping in like manner.

Not even Mr. Percy will be permitted to hold a copy of the document, it being the intention of the family to hold it until the trial. No chance is to be given to Mrs. Hains to deny the alleged confession in detail, she herself declaring that she does not exactly remember the contents of the document.

Brothers in Handcuffs.

The Hains brothers were brought into court handcuffed, but released after they entered the court-room. Upon reaching the corridor after their arraignment, the manacles were again put on them.

Sheriff Harvey, who holds the brothers in custody, says that neither seems to be worried over the outcome of their case. They both slept well last night, and after summoning a barber and being shaved, this morning, announced that they were ready to go to court.

Extra precautions are being taken by General Hains at Fort Hancock to prevent his son's discarded wife from kidnaping her three children from their grandmother's care. One attempt was foiled yesterday, and it is feared others will be made.

Deliberate Murder.

Just prior to the arraignment of the Hains brothers, today, District Attorney Darrin declared that he would ask for indictments for murder against both men. "It was deliberate, premeditated murder," he said. "Both men are guilty of murder in the first degree."

In support of this view, police officials are today examining members and attaches of the Bayside Yacht club in the effort to prove that T. Jenkins Hains, representing himself as a real estate man, had visited the club and laid out the plan for Annis' murder.

Harvey G. Rockwell, Annis' friend, today will turn over to the district attorney letters received recently by the victim of the Hains brothers, in which it is said he was warned that death was near. Rockwell refuses to state the nature of the threats.

An Important Witness.

Winthrop, Mass., Aug. 17.—The discarded wife of Captain Peter C. Hains, whose alleged confession, he says, drove him to kill William E. Annis, Saturday afternoon at the Bayside Yacht club, will be one of the most important witnesses of the prosecution when her husband and brother-in-law come to trial. The young wife is expected to return home today after being repulsed in her efforts to get possession of her three children, for whom she made a hasty trip to New York as soon as she learned of the tragedy.

The only statement thus far obtained from Mrs. Hains was the bitter interview she gave the United Press, Saturday night, when she declared her belief that both the Hains had made a terrible mistake, and that she hoped they would swing for it.

Charles H. Libbey, her father, is a lawyer, and he is busy today gathering evidence to disprove Hains' assertions, which are likely to prove as important at the trial as the famous confession of Evelyn d'd in the Thaw case.

Captain Hains is remembered here chiefly because he married a Winthrop girl. He was a nervous, retiring little man who paid attention to no woman until he met Miss Libbey, then but sixteen years old. The glamour of brass buttons, says her friends, shortened the courtship and the couple were quickly married and went to live in the officers' quarters attached to Fort Banks. Mrs. Hains is popular here and nobody believes the story of her relations with Annis.

Exception to Rule.

Washington, Aug. 17.—If Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., should pay the extreme penalty for the killing of William E. Annis, it would be the first time that an officer of the United States army, in time of peace, has met a felon's death.

The news of the tragedy came as a great shock to the friends of the young officer, and his aged father, Brigadier General Peter C. Hains, retired, whose home is in this city.

Men who are acquainted with the two brothers, say they are almost opposites in disposition. Peter has always been regarded as a mild-tempered, easy-going fellow, while his brother Thornton has been noted for his domineering and headstrong qualities. The opinion is freely expressed in army circles today that Peter would never have committed the crime had he not been urged to it by his brother, whose vindictiveness against Peter's wife and her supposed betrayer was well known.

Andrew A. Lipscomb, a noted criminal lawyer of this city, who assisted in the prosecution of Thornton J. Hains, seventeen years ago, at Fort Monroe for the killing of Fred Hannegan while the two were out in a sailboat, described Thornton as the most dangerous man he has ever known, and his acquittal by the Virginia jury as a gross miscarriage of justice.

Temper of Devil.

"He has the spirit and the temper of a devil," said Lipscomb today. His idea of duty toward men appears to be that he was created to rule. 'Do as I say or I will kill you;' appears to be his motto, not only with his friends and acquaintenances, but with members of his own family.

"All the facts brought out since the trouble between Peter Hains and his wife became public talk, indicates to me that Thornton is the man who had planned and drove the captain to this manner of taking revenge. It may be that a New York jury will extend the protection of the unwritten law to a member of an injured man's family who can have only collateral interest in the injury, but if it does, it will stretch it farther than any upholder of it ever advocated. Whether that law can be invoked for the shielding of a wronged husband who deliberated on the matter for more than two months after he learned the facts, is a question. Apparently in cold blood, he instituted suit for divorce and then nearly three months thereafter, decided to kill his former friend. The theory of the unwritten law is that when a human being, under the sting of a great wrong, kills his enemy, he is not to be so heavily punished as when he deliberates on the subject and comes to a conclusion months after the discovery."

The only plea made at the trial of Thornton Hains was that he shot Hannegan in self defense. This was combatted by Admiral Evans and his son, both of whom were eye-witnesses.

Joke May Prove Fatal.

Marysville, O., Aug. 17.—Iva Wenver, 16, stepdaughter of Walton McMahon of Taylor township, may lose her life as the result of a joke played on her by Mr. McMahon. The girl was returning home through a lane at night from a picnic in company with her brother and sister, and the stepfather thought to have some fun scaring them. He got down behind a large stump and growled like an animal. Iva was frightened so that she at once became unconscious and has sensory paralysis, being unable to use her voice and limbs. She screams out most of the time.

Confesses to Burning Store.

Marietta, O., Aug. 17.—Isaac Taylor, a well-known merchant of Belpre, has been arrested by the state fire marshal for setting fire to his store some months ago. He has confessed, saying that slow collections made it necessary to burn the property in order to get the insurance.

Disappears From Bucyrus.

Bucyrus, O., Aug. 17.—Herbert Shaffer has disappeared from his home in this city and can not be located. It is feared that he has been killed or committed suicide.

WILL SURPASS ALL TELESCOPES

Enormous Instrument Is Soon To Be Constructed

BY BUILDERS OF THE YERKES INSTRUMENT

Model Is Half the Size of Yerkes Tube.

Work of Preparing Model of the New Searcher of the Heavens Is in Progress at the Home of Professor Wood of John Hopkins University. Many Unsuspected Secrets of the Heavens May Be Revealed.

New York, Aug. 17.—At the home of Professor Wood of Johns Hopkins university at East Hampton, Long island, is being built today the model for a telescope which will far surpass both the great Yerkes and Lick tubes, and which, it is believed, will reveal unsuspected secrets of the heavens.

What Professor Wood calls a "small working model," but what is really a giant telescope half the size of the Yerkes tube, is now being made ready by the builders of the seventy-four foot Yerkes instrument. It has a new type of reflector, a basin of mercury which is to be rotated by an electric motor. The centrifugal action forms the surface of the mercury into a concave paraboloid which is said to have a better reflecting surface than that of any concave silvered mirror.

There is said to be practically no limit to the size of a telescope thus constructed and it is believed that in a few years what are now secrets of the starry spaces, will, by means of the new instrument, be laid to scientists as never before.

OF THE CHICAGO MILK DRIVERS

Three Union Officials Placed Under Arrest.

They Are Charged with Being Accessory to the Attempted Murder of Wirt B. Speyer, Who Is Waylaid Upon His Refusal To Join the Union and Shot Above the Heart by a "Wrecking" Crew.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Stephen C. Summer, for many years prominent in trades union affairs and candidate for the nomination of appellate court clerk in the recent Democratic primaries, with two other union officials, is out on a $5,000 bond charged with being an accessory to the attempted murder of Wirt B. Speyer, a Kensington milk dealer.

Speyer was waylaid and shot down in the barn at his home by three men early yesterday.

The shooting is declared by the police to have been done by a "wrecking" crew, consequent upon the refusal of Speyer to join the milk wagon drivers' union. He was shot above the heart, and is expected to die.

Harry Ferry, business agent of the teamsters' local, and George Turner, secretary of the milk drivers' local, are the others being held by the police in connection with the affair. The three men will be arraigned this afternoon. All deny knowledge of the killing. The police allege that certain officials "instigated" the assault, though they did not actually do the work.

Summer, Turner and Ferry were identified by Mrs. Speyer, who declared: "Yes, they are the men who have worried the life out of my husband trying to get him to join the union and threatening him. They are responsible."

200 PRISONERS ARE MASSACRED

Most Convenient Way To Dispose of Them.

THAT'S VIEW OF THE SULTAN OF MOROCCO

Whose Army Defeats That of the Pretender.

Reinforcements for the Army of Abdul Aziz Arrive at a Critical Time and the Army of the Pretender Is Shattered, Three Hundred of Pretender's Force Killed and Five Hundred Wounded.

Tangier, Aug. 17.—Reports just received from the army of Abdul Aziz, the sultan of record, say that the 200 prisoners that it captured in the recent engagement with the forces of Mulai Hafid, the pretender, were massacred as the most "convenient" way of disposing of them. Several foreign officers, who are fighting with the sultan, protested strongly against such a barbarous course, but Abdul himself, it is stated, ordered their death in retaliation for the losses his army sustained in the early stages of the battle. The battle, which will undoubtedly terminate the war in the sultan's favor, was fought near Marrakesh and it was at first reported as a sweeping victory for the pretender. Such it would have been had not a heavy body of reinforcements come to the sultan's aid after his army had been put to rout. The arrival of reinforcements was unexpected, and the tide of battle turned wholly against Mulai. Abdul Aziz reports that 300 of the pretender's force was killed and 500 wounded and much booty taken. The prisoners who were put to death were members of the Rehamna tribe which had been supporting Mulai from the first.

Abdul is following up his victory, determined not to give the pretender an opportunity of reassembling a formidable army.

KNOWS NOTHING OF ALLEGED DEAL

Bryan Gives Lie Direct to Pittsburg Story,

THAT HE SELLS OUT TO THE KERR FACTION

In Order To Accomplish Defeat of Guffey.

Bryan Declares That He Had Never Heard of the Offer of Agreement and He Suggests That the Proper Persons To Consult Are the Members of the Committee on Credentials Which Decides Contests.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—William J. Bryan entered an emphatic denial to a story recently printed in Pittsburg that he had "sold out" to the Kerr faction of the Pennsylvania Democracy in order to accomplish the defeat of Colonel James M. Guffey for national committeeman. The price alleged to figure in the transaction was $200,000 as a campaign contribution. The charge is said to have been made that Mr. Bryan "made good," but that Mr. Kerr and his supporters had not come forward with the money. Mr. Bryan declared that he had never heard of the offer or agreement, and he suggested that the proper persons to consult were the members of the committee on credentials which decided the Pennsylvania contests.

Mr. Bryan would not permit himself to be drawn into a further discussion with James W. Van Cleave, president of the manufacturers' association, who came out in the press with additional reasons why the business men of the country should not support the Democratic national ticket. This decision was based on the fact that Mr. Van Cleave had failed to defend his former contentions, but had shifted the discussion to other questions.

Restraining a River.

The Platte river has made trouble for Nebraska railroads ever since the railroads were built. It wanders around over a wide plain with no channel to speak of and is likely to rip out a piece of bridge three or four times a year. The Burlington railroad is just trying a new scheme at Fremont and apparently with great success. Heavy embankments have been built on either side, and all of the water is being forced through one main channel. This scheme is making the river dig a decent bed for itself.

THE LATE IRA D. SANKEY.

Ira D. Sankey, who died in Brooklyn, was famous all over the world as an evangelist and writer of gospel songs. For the last five years he had been blind. His health began to fail shortly after he lost his sight, and for a year he had been very weak. Mr. Sankey was born at Edinburg, Pa., in 1840. His fame began in 1870, when as delegate to a Y. M. C. A. convention at Indianapolis he first came under the notice of Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist. Sankey's best known hymns are "The Ninety and Nine" and "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," but his collected songs fill several volumes and have been translated into almost every known language.

BLACK HAND MAN CAUGHT IN THE ACT

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Vincent Crapa, alias Cipcarelli, forty-four, a Sicilian of New Orleans, said by the police to be one of the leading spirits of the Italian Mafia in this country, was captured Monday by Detectives Longabardi and Bernachi, while in the act of getting a box supposed to contain $1,000, which had been placed under a sidewalk at Eighty-Eighth street and Cottage Grove avenue by Benadetto Caro, a wealthy Italian grocer.

Caro informed the police Sunday that he had received several threatening letters signed by the Black Hand, instructing him to deposit the $1,000 as directed. The instructions were to place the money under the sidewalk about midnight, Sunday, but to wait until he should see a man wearing a mask and carrying a red handkerchief.

Longabardi and Bernachi had been waiting in the bushes, in the rain and mud, less than an hour when Crapa made his appearance. He had a small silk cap pulled over his head. A big red handkerchief was hanging from his pocket. When they placed their revolvers at his head, Crapa showed fight and attempted to draw a knife, but he was quickly disarmed and placed under arrest. He pleaded to be shot.

Crapa is said to be wanted in New Orleans for several successful Black Hand hold-ups.

$5,000,000 LOST IN THE GREAT FIRE

Which Has Raged Since July 4 in Mexican Oil Field.

Tampico, Mex., Aug. 18.—Five million barrels of oil, worth a dollar a barrel, have been lost in the great oil fire in the San Geronimo district, which has been raging uninterruptedly since July 4. The efforts to put the fire out by means of powerful pumps throwing mud and sand into the fire crater, have not yet proved of any avail, though the American engineers in charge of the work are confident that they will succeed. By the end of the week they say they will have the flames, which are spouting 500 feet high, under control.

SHELDON SPURNS TAINTED MONEY

Returns Contributions to the Corporations.

ACCEPTANCE IS A VIOLATION OF LAW

Matter Is Covered by the Federal Statutes.

Mr. Sheldon Refuses To Give the Names of Any of the Contributors Whose Offerings Are Returned or To Tell to What Extent the National Campaign Fund Has Been Reduced by Return of Money.

New York, Aug. 18.—Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican national committee is authority for the statement that a number of contributions to the campaign fund have been returned to corporations because to accept them would be a violation of the federal law. He said his attention was drawn to the provisions of the law by an inquiry addressed to him regarding the matter. He sent to Washington for a copy of the statute and found that its provision is very comprehensive as to any campaign funds from corporations or from officers thereof as such. Thereupon he returned the contributions in question. The law, however, does not prohibit contributions from individuals connected with corporations, provided such contributions are personal donations to the fund.

Mr. Sheldon refused to give the names of any of the contributors whose offerings were returned or to tell to what extent the national campaign fund has been reduced by the returned contributions.

They're Off.

We used to study up each horse,
The record he could clip,
Then pick our choice with due regard
To chart and dream and tip.
And when the ponies got away
What man could look and scoff?
It thrilled the heart to hear the cry
"They're off!"

The anti-gambling bill has passed,
And we shall sin no more,
Nor shall we very deeply care
To steep in equine lore.
Now gone alike the chance to lose
And Fortune's cup to quaff.
To wicked bets a long farewell—
They're off!

REPRESENTS GOVERNMENT

Prince Hirobumi Ito Supposed To Speak for Japan.

POINTS OUT POLICY THAT SHOULD OBTAIN

Warns Japanese Against Criticism of Foreign Policy.

Feeling Is Growing in Japan That Sooner or Later the Mikado Will Clash with the United States on the Question of Their Respective "Spheres of Influence" in Orient. Japan Realizes China's Importance.

Tokyo, Aug. 17.—Following the declaration of Count Okuma that the naval expansion of the United States is aimed directly at Japan and the agitation in America of a closer alliance with China to thwart Japanese ascendancy in the Orient, Prince Hirobumi Ito, Japanese resident general in Korea, declared today that the increasing military and naval strength of Japanese indispensible for the maintenance of peace in Asia and on the Pacific. The prince professes to believe that his sacred mission is the reformation of Korea and that the suppression of insurrection there by the slaughtering of native rebels is a part of this reformation. He warns the Japanese people against a superficial criticism of the country's foreign policy.

Ito's views are supposed to represent the attitude of the Japanese government, which is thus clearly one of continued expansion and domination in the East. His utterances are likely to add fuel to the anti-Japanese discussion in the United States.

Notwithstanding the preparations that are being made to welcome the American fleet, the feeling of gratitude at the American appropriation of $1,500,000 for the Japanese exposition and the expressions of good will and amity by both Japanese and American statesmen, the feeling is growing in Japan that sooner or later the Mikado will clash with the United States on the question of heir respective "spheres of influence" in the Orient.

Japan realizes as she never did before the vital position that China holds in the momentous question now confronting the two countries. The later's friendship for America and the apparent impossibility of Japan gaining the support of China except by a military demonstration are seriously perturbing the Japanese equanimity.

ADMIRAL CERVERA WANTS TAFT ELECTED

Prays for the Success of the Republican Candidate.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 18.—Among the letters received by Judge Taft is one from Charles D. McGuffy, Chattanooga, Tennessee, who says in part:

"You have, of course, been receiving all sorts of good wishes from your countrymen, perhaps you will be interested in some from beyond the water. Admiral Cervera, so dear to all of us from his treatment of Hobson and his men, writes me from Puerto Real as follows:

"I pray for the election of Senor Taft for president. I should have written you a letter,, but have not had time. I know very little personally about the United States and can not, for that reason, give an opinion of my own concerning the election. But there is no doubt, from what I hear about his election, because he is a very distinguished man."

"The admiral is a man I wish you could meet. You would like him."

A Postoffice on Every Warship.

A committee has been appointed by Postmaster General Meyer to formulate regulations for the installation upon every warship in the United States navy of a fully equipped postoffice and a postmaster. Provision for these postoffices was contained in the legislative, judicial and executive appropriation bill, which also provided that enlisted men of the navy might, upon selection by the postoffice department, act as navy mail clerks, postmasters and assistants. Enlisted men designated as postmasters will receive as compensation $500 per annum, and assistants $300 per annum.

National Cemetery on Deer Island.

A new national cemetery analogous to the Arlington cemetery at Washington is to be laid out on Deer island, according to present plans of the war department, says a Boston dispatch. It will be reserved wholly for soldiers, sailors, officers and civilians who died while in the employ of the United States. Many sailors who died of ship fever and a number of soldiers who succumbed during the war of 1812 and the rebellion were buried on the island.

THE FOREST SERVICE ANSWERS ITS CRITICS

Comes Back in a Press Bulletin Just Issued.

BULLETIN APPROVED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Foresters Are Resourceful in the Face of Criticism of Their Press Service and Secure an Opinion from Attorney General Bonoparte as to Its Legitimacy.

Washington, Aug 17.—The forest service comes back strong against its critics in the house and senate in a press bulletin just issued and one that is backed up by an opinion of the attorney general, by the way

At the last session of congress, the lawmakers threatened to cut down the appropriations for the service because of the so-called "press agency," which Chief Forester Pinchot had been conducting in connection with the forest work. It was freely charged that the service maintained a corps of expert writers, former newspaper men, and editors, who wrote nice little puffs, advance notices, etc, telling what a great organization the forest service was, what a pile of good it did the public, what a great man Gifford Pinchot was, and what rascals those men were who opposed the forest policy. To prevent this, the lawmakers inserted a "joker" in the appropriation bill, apparently shutting out the "agency" completely.

But the foresters were resourceful They turned to Attorney General Bonaparte, and now flourish in the faces of carping critics his official opinion that the news bureau—they call it the bureau of information down at the service—is perfectly legitimate and right. Congress thought it had stopped all the "press bulletin service" of that branch, but with the attorney general's opinion, the forest service is going right on, issuing a bulletin nearly every day with all sorts of information, from how to cut down a tree to how much alcohol may be extracted from a pine wood chair.

Washington correspondents are real grateful for all the "stuff" that comes in forest service envelopes. If the matter is not available, the back side of the paper on which it is mimeographed makes good "copy" paper

Congress is not likely to become reconciled to the publicity work of the forest service. Every branch of the government has some sort of a press agency for dissemination of information—the only trouble is that the forest service has gone a step further and organized the agency so well that it is now in the highest form of efficiency; so far as distribution of news is concerned

SAYS HE KNEW ALL THE TIME

ment was added which required a member of congress to file a statement showing to what extent the lawful voters of his district were restricted in the exercise of their franchise. As thus amended, the measure passed the house, and coming to the senate, was referred to the committee on privileges and elections, of which committee I am chairman. While the Republican membership of that committee favored the passage of the measure, every Democratic committeeman was opposed to it and under no circumstances, by reason of the Democratic position, could it have been passed through the senate.

Popular Vote for Senators.

"Mr Bryan declares that the people do not approve of the present method of electing United States senators It is sufficient to say that in many if not the majority of the states, the people are permitted today to indicate their preference for United States senators, and the preference so expressed is necessarily potential with the legislature

"Finally, he asserts that the rules of the house of representatives do not permit the people through their representatives to freely legislate. No statement can be farther from the fact Under the old law it was practically impossible to transact public business. You, Mr. Sherman, and myself have been held in the house of representatives, day after day, and night after night, because the Democratic minority insisted upon the right, while remaining in their seats, to refrain from answering roll calls, thereby destroying a quorum.

"When Thomas B. Reed became speaker he counted those present not voting as a part of the body, to determine the question whether a quorum was present. By this simple process, he put an end to one of the most effective means of filibustering.

Reed Rules Good.

"The rules adopted, known as the 'Reed rules' are enforced today and under these rules it is possible for the majority representing the people to transact the public business with promptness. It hardly lies in the mouth of Mr. Bryan or the Democratic party to criticise these rules, in view of the fact that upon as cension of the Democratic majority in the house of representatives, and the election of Mr. Crisp of Georgia as speaker, these same rules were endorsed and adopted and enforced with vigor.

"These are the three things Mr. Bryan mentions as evidence that the people do not rule.

"'Shall the people rule?' This question was settled more than half a century ago when Abraham Lincoln stood by the sacrificial altar at Gettysburg, declaring the purpose of the party then in power to continue the contest in behalf of popular government and against the rule of an armed minority, that in the end there might be established in this country 'a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.'"

At the conclusion of Senator Burrows' speech, Congressman Sherman delivered his address of acceptance, as follows:

Senator Burrows and Gentlemen of the Notification Committee

Your chairman, speaking for the committee, has notified me of my nomination by the Republican national convention, held in Chicago in June, as the party's candidate for vice president As I chanced to be in Chicago in June, I had an inkling of the convention's action, which was confirmed by a warm-hearted reception tendered me by my neighbors on the occassion of my home-coming on July 2 This official notification, however, is welcome and the nomination you tender me is accepted, accepted with a gratitude commensurate with the great honor conferred, accepted with a full appreciation of the obligations which accompany that honor, an honor greater because my name is linked with that of William H Taft, whom I respect and esteem highly and who approaches the high office of president exceptionally well equipped to discharge the duties and bear the varied and weighty responsibilities of that exalted position My acceptance could not be made with honor unless I were in full accord with the declaration of principles adopted by the convention Not only am I in full and complete accord with my party's platform, but I indorse every word of the statement made by Mr Taft in his address of acceptance when notified of his nomination as the Republican candidate for president

That speech fully and comprehensively discusses the issues of this campaign as presented by the platforms of the two great parties, so that it is appropriate that my statement should be short Those not convinced by the presentation of Mr. Taft I could not hope to persuade It is, however, in conformity with custom that I refer at least briefly to some of the important issues of the campaign

First, then, let me say that I am a protectionist I especially commend that plank of our platform which promises an early revision of tariff schedules That pledge will be fulfilled in an adjustment based in every particular upon the broad principles of protection for all American interests, alike for labor, for capital, for producers and consumers The Dingley bill, when enacted, was well adapted to the then existing conditions The developments of industrial prosperity in a decade, which in volume and degree have surpassed our most roseate expectations, have so altered conditions, that in certain details of schedules they no longer in every particular mete out justice to all

Nation Learns a Lesson.

Experience, that effective teacher—effective save with the one-man power now parading under the title of the Democratic party—has taught the nation a valuable lesson, and the result of the coming November election will once more prove the American people to be apt scholars What the laborer of the land, skilled and unskilled, desires is the opportunity at all times to exchange his brain and brawn for good pay in good money A protective tariff and the gold standard, both now the existing achievements of the Republican party, in spite of Democratic opposition, give the laborer that opportunity

The Republican party believes in the equality of all men before the law, believes in granting labor's every request that does not seek to accord rights to one man denied to another Fair-minded labor asks no more, no less and approves the record of the Republican party because of that party's acts.

I can not hope to better state my position on injunctions than by a specific indorsement of Mr Taft's Cincinnati declaration on that subject That indorsement I make

As a nation our duty compels that by every constitutional and reasonable means the material and educational condition of the colored race be advanced.

This we owe to ourselves as well as to them.

I believe in the maintenance of such an army, the upbuilding of such a navy as will be the guarantee of the protection of American citizens and American interests everywhere, and an omen of peace that at every exposed point we may be so fortified that no power on earth may be tempted to molest us

Roosevelt Policies Indorsed.

Our platform, as it should do, pledges adherence to the policies of President Roosevelt, promises to continue the work inaugurated during his administration, to insure to persons and property every proper safeguard and all necessary strengthening of administrative methods will be provided to furnish efficient inspection and supervision, and prompt righting of every injustice, discrimination and wrong

I emphasize as my party's creed and my faith that in legislation and administration favor should be extended to no class, no sect, no race, no section as opposed to another To foster class hatred, to foster discontent, is un-Republican and un-American Our party stands on the declaration that all men are created with equal rights and it will have no part in the enactment or execution of any law that does not apply alike to all good American citizens, whatever their calling or wherever they live

The work that has been given the Republican party to do has been of immense importance. Much of that work has been fully accomplished some has yet to be completed Republican declarations once in our platform and no longer there, are omitted because they have become accomplished facts On the other hand Democratic declarations have been abandoned because the voters have pronounced them to be unwise and unsafe and unsuited to our times and our country.

'Shall the people rule?' is declared by the Democratic platform and candidate to be 'the overshadowing issue * * * now under discussion It is no issue Surely the people shall rule, surely the people have ruled surely the people do rule No party rules. The party, commissioned by the people, is simply the instrument to execute the people's will, and from that party which does not obey their expressed will, or which lacks the wisdom to lead successfully, the people withdraw their commission.

SECRETARY-OF-WAR ENDORSES DISMISSAL

Dr. Jose E. Alemany Out of the Civil Service.

THE PHILIPPINES ARE DISTURBED OVER ACT

Governor General Smith Removes Alemany Because of Charges that the Spaniard Is Inimical to Administration in the Islands—Sharp Sayings by Native Press.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary of War Wright will uphold Governor General Smith, of the Philippine islands, in his summary dismissal from the public service of Dr. Jose E. Alemany, assistant director of the Philippine civil service, and leader of the Progressist party. The axing of Alemany has stirred the islands as nothing else has done in years, the population being largely divided into two factions, but Secretary Wright had enough experience with Alemany, while in the Philippines, to be able to accept Smith's action without much questioning.

Smith removed Alemany because of charges that the Spaniard had been inimical to his administration, deriding his policies, and hindering his efforts to govern the islands successfully The principal offense of Alemany was his movement to ask Washington to punish Smith for pardoning Assistant Collector of Customs McCoy, accused of falsifying a public document.

The removal of Alemany has marked the end of the Progressist party. The board of directors of that party has resigned, and although a new one was elected, the party is regarded now as without power and as sure to disappear from the political arena in a few months.

"I should have done it had Alemany been my own brother," explained Smith when appealed to by members of the Progressist party. "I might not approve of the Philippine policy of the president of the United States, or of the secretary of war. If I were to announce my adverse opinions to the press openly or secretly, or to advice my friends to make propaganda against these officials, my superiors, how long do you suppose I should remain here? I should soon get a two-word cable, "Your resignation"

The native press in Manila has said some sharp things about the affair El Mercantil said that Smith's action compared with the deportation of Rizal, the Filipino hero, by Governor General Despujol, in 1892 "There is no comparison of the grandeur of the motives," says this paper. "The deportation of Rizal was for the crime of lese patria while this case is a personalism. As long as Dr Alemany passed his time in strewing flowers in the Governor General's path, neglecting the duties of his office, all went well; but when the political whirlwind created by the government itself struck the governor general, he replied with a stigma."

The Cable News American defends the governor. It said: "When the governor general did strike, he hit the whole tribe of time-serving, opportunist politicians who hold office for gain only, and who resent other feet in the public trough Let the good work go on. Let official sawdust fly from the stuffed prophets who arrogate to themselves the right to run the governmental buzz-saw."

Among the members of the Progressive party is Senor Legardo, one of the Philippine comissioners to congress.

Electorate Is Not Venal.

For half a century, with but two exceptions, the people have commissioned the Republican party to administer the national government. commissioned it because its declared principles appealed to their best judgment, commissioned it because the common sense of the American people scented danger in Democratic policies. Ours always has been, always must be, a government of the people That party will, after March 4 next, execute old laws and enact new ones as in November it is commissioned by the people to do That commission will be from an untrammeled American electorate Shame on the party which shame on the candidate who insults the American people by suggestion or declaration that a majority of its electorate is venal

The overshadowing issue of the campaign really is: shall the administration of President Roosevelt be approved; shall a party of demonstrated capacity in administrative affairs be continued in power, shall the reins of government be placed in experienced hands or do the people prefer to trust their destinies to an aggregation of experimental malcontents and theorists, whose only claim to a history is a party name they pilfered

With a record of four decades of wise legislation, two score years of faithful administration, offering its fulfilled pledges as a guaranty of its promises for the future, the Republican party appeals to the people and, with full confidence in their wisdom and patriotism, awaits the rendition of the November verdict

Secretary of State Elihu Root delivered brief remarks at the conclusion of the vice presidential nominee's speech as did also President M. W Striker, of Hamilton college. Luncheon was then served in Mr. Sherman's home to the members of the notification committee and other guests and at 2:30 o'clock a start was made for Utica park, where a program of athletics and aeronautics was pulled off before a crowd of many thousands.

At 6:30 tonight Mr. Sherman will entertain his guests at dinner at Yahnundahsis Golf club Tonight will witness a magnificent electric display throughout the city.

RIVALS, YET FRIENDS.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for August 23 Is, "The Friendship of David and Jonathan." I Sam. 20.

Jealousy, which is the mother of much of the world's bitterest woe, made King Saul, of ancient Israel, hate the young slayer of the giant Goliath. Saul's intense animosity toward David would naturally be expected to crop out with increased virulence in Saul's son, Prince Jonathan, for the latter was heir apparent. At the worst, David could only succeed to the throne on which Saul had once sat; but Jonathan he could keep off the throne entirely. If ever there were reason for jealousy, it would seem to be in the case of Jonathan. He was the natural successor to the crown, yet David's head had been anointed to wear it.

As refreshing as an ocean breeze on a hot August day comes the revelation—a type of what, happily, we sometimes find in this old world—that men are often nobler than we expect them to be. By all the world's standards David and Jonathan should have been engaged in a feud; instead, we find them affording one of literature's finest examples of friendship. Wherever the language of civilization has gone, there the shepherd youth and the king's son proverbially represent ideal friendship. The story is one that the world loves. Brave and selfless Jonathan risked his father's royal wrath for the sake of his friend; and to him he cheerfully relinquished his claim upon the kingdom.

Millions Versus Wealth.

The strenuosity of these times militates against the formation of deep, true friendships Many men are too busy to bother with affairs of sentiment. A man may make a million in a hurry; but it takes time to make a friend, and a friend is the best fortune. The loveless lives of some multi-millionaires would lead mankind to pity them were the plight of their hearts truly known. Gold has never been able to buy love. And whoso is poor in heart, is poor altogether By the standard of real and abiding values, bankbooks and stocks and lands do not weigh very heavy.

In contrast, how enviable was Jesse's son! A fugitive from royal wrath, condemned to an outlaw's life, subject to deprivations and hardships and misunderstandings, harried in spirit and hunted in person, he yet was rich in that he possessed the best riches—a friend with a royal heart. Station matters little in love; Jonathan's standing was of small moment, as compared with his spirit. He was a prince of friends; which is higher rank than to be a prince in estate.

Loyal, lavish, lovable, Jonathan was both beacon and refuge to the storm-tossed David. When life seemed hardest to the latter, and least endurable, he found refreshment and inspiration in the company of his heart's comrade. He could have said, with a later poet, in explanation of his life, "I had a friend"

One Soul, Two Bodies.

This friendship came near to meeting Aristotle's definition of friendship as "one soul abiding in two bodies." For the record runs that Jonathan "loved David as his own soul." And David himself cried, "Thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women." Ordinarily, the complementary friendship is that between a man and a woman: occasionally, though, two virile men conceive for each other an affection that is "strong as death." The favorite instances of friendship in literature have been those of man for man

Such a friendship is an interchange of life. Each shares his highest self with the other Ideal friendship is only lived in this upper air of idealism, no matter how practical its manifestations. The best friend is the one who helps a man be his best self. That is why religion plays such a large part in friendship; two men who hold the great verities of eternity in common find that their friendship is profoundly influenced by their faith, and their faith by their friendship The two qualities become so interwoven as to be really one. Even the slangiest of moderns would scarcely call these sturdy Hebrew warriors "mollycoddles;" yet David and Jonathan were sincerely and profoundly religious. There was a third party to their compact of friendship —God.

A Friend as a Prize.

A fine big word that has been found much in bad company of late is "affinity" There is danger that since lust and lawlessness have been wearing this cloak the unthinking may come to lose faith in the genuineness of that high passion, which, seemingly acting by no laws but the soul's initiative, marks two persons as destined for each other. The mysterious electric current of love flashed from Jonathan and David, overleaping all barriers of rank and natural conditions They were affinities Out of all the men in the kingdom, each found himself drawn to the other as a bosom friend.

Both young men were in a position to have many followers and admirers. Each seems to have had only one friend In our young days we speak loosely about having "hosts of friends," really we mean acquaintances. Judged by the higher standard now before us, few persons ever have many friends, a man is rich who has one. A friend is a prize of life, and happy is he who wins one at any price No man has lived in vain who has achieved a friend. A gift for loving, and for getting out of one's self, and for entertaining great admirations, with sincerity underlying all, is an indispensable qualification for noblest friendship.

People, Not Things.

An observer of our busy age must remark the common pursuit of the tangible and the material. There is a manifest tendency to find one's pleasures in things rather than in people Thus our thronged pleasure resorts, which grow up near all large cities, are awhirl with novel devices for affording entertainment Ingenious inventions that will divert people from themselves are so largely patronized as to make fortunes for their proprietors. Once it was the fashion to find pleasure in the company of a friend or a book, now we seek it in the pursuit of a new sensation. Wiser are they who still cling to the way of David and Jonathan, and in the communion of kindred and devoted spirits realize the heights of felicity that are possible to mortal.

HARMON IS FALSE BEACON FOR UNWARY

Johnson's Organ Makes Attack on Candidate.

JOHNSON'S ATTITUDE TOWARD HARMON

Denunciation of the Candidate at a Recent Party Convention Is Matter Well Known—Platform of Democratic Party a Meaningless Jumble of Words for Harmon.

In Cuyahoga county the Tom L. Johnson patriots find the outlet for their exuberant spirits in the Sycamore club, a Democratic organization recognized as one of the largest in the state It is officered by city employes, the present head being Gus Hanna, superintendent of the street cleaning department with several hundred municipal jobs at his disposal. State Representative Henry Maulbeiger is one of the trustees The club is the rallying place for all the Johnsonian Democrats and periodic meetings are held to stimulate interest in the mayor and his various undertakings.

The denunciation of Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor, by Johnson at his party's state convention, is recent history And in view of subsequent developments in the Democratic factional fight, this paragraph from the last number of "The Observer," the Sycamore club's official organ, is enlightening:

"Finley, Garber, Ross of Columbus, and all the other satellites in the Democratic combination are active in suppressing progress within the Democratic party * * * It is scarcely necessary to return a bill of particulars here. The result of that suppression is found in the political atmosphere of the state—an atmosphere muggy with plotting, intrigue and deals, rotten with dishonesty, graft, sham reform and open defiance of public opinion. The Democratic candidate represents nothing so much as a false beacon erected to lure the unwary into danger To him the platform is a meaningless jumble of words that were adopted to conceal the real purpose of his candidacy—the stifling of progress, the defeat of the legions of party purity, the elevation to power of the 'standpatters' and the corruptionists"

ARCHIE ROOSEVELT IN DEEP DISGRACE

Carves His Initials on Back of Father's Pew.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug 17.—Because he carved his initials and the name of his tutor, W. D. Parker, on the back of his father's pew, Archie Roosevelt is in disgrace with President Roosevelt and in trouble with Charles Seeley, the sexton of Christ Episcopal church, which the president attends.

When the president discovered yesterday what Archie had done, he reproved his son sharply and took away from him his knife, a new one presented by Parker. Sexton Seeley remarked that he would have a warm session with the lad when he saw him again.

THE SOLDIER POET IS AT HOME IN STATES

The Poet Bears an Unusual Mark of Distinction.

HE SERVES TERM IN PRISON FOR WRITING

Story of A. L. Price Who Writes Poem as a Private Soldier in the Philippines and Is Promptly Locked Up Because of the Sentiments Expressed—Still Courts Muse.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The only poet that the army ever locked up because there was too much sting in his lines has decided to earn his bread and butter, and perhaps some fame on the side, by devoting himself exclusively to rhyming A. L. Price is his name, and he has just landed in the states from the Philippines, where he earned the title of "The Soldier Poet," by wooing the gentle muse while serving under the god of war.

Price sprang into fame through a poem that he published about two years ago. It was based upon the alleged rendition of "Always in the Way" at the funeral of a private in the marine corps. Himself a private, Price resented this reported insult. The poem was dedicated to the officer who was said to have ordered the playing of the piece and the verses related how the officer "was further down below us than a dog a nigger owns" The next thing Price knew he was in jail.

After his term in the army had expired the Cable News American, in Manila, employed Price to write poems for stated occasions like Decoration day and the Fourth of July. When he left the Philippines, he left this as his parting lines.

"Farewell to the work that bleeds me, farewell to the gods that grind;
Farewell to the work that you cannot shirk, and the spirit stings that bind.
I'm back again to the white man's land which the white man's hand controls;
So I wave my hand to the black man's land, to the land of sluggard souls."

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE DEATH OF GIRL

It Is Believed She Is a Victim of Foul Play.

Palmer, Mass., Aug 17.—Mystery in the fate of Faith Davis, sixteen years old, whose body has been found in a pond here, is stirring this neighborhood today.

The girl disappeared from her home on Friday last She was dressed only in a house dress and had taken no money with her. When the body was discovered, no marks of violence were visible, but the action of Medical Examiner Schneider in refusing his report to the public and his statement that the district attorney would give out such facts as he sees fit, have spread the idea that the girl met with foul play. The police are active, but give out no statement.

As a rule, people are good enough except in the little things in life. So many of them lack the ability to be agreeable; so many of them are bores, and have foolish notions that an hour's study might rid them of. So few people realize the importance of politeness—of a little common sense.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the state of Ohio relative to the passage of bills.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio.

SECTION 1. A proposition shall be submitted to the electors of this state at the next election for members of the general assembly, to amend the constitution of the state of Ohio so that sections 28 to 32, both inclusive, of article II, shall respectively be numbered as sections 29 to 33; and sections 16 and 18 of such article be so amended as to read as follows:

ARTICLE II

Sec. 16. Every bill shall be fully and distinctly read on three different days, unless, in case of urgency, three-fourths of the members elected to the house in which it shall be pending, shall dispense with this rule, but the reading of a bill on its final passage shall in no case be dispensed with. No bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title; and no law shall be revived or amended, unless the new act contain the entire act revived, or the section or sections amended; and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

Sec 18. Every bill passed by the general assembly shall, before it can become a law, be presented to the governor for his approval If he approve it, he can shall sign it. If he do not approve it, he shall send it with his objections in writing, to the house in which it originated which may then reconsider the vote on its passage. If two-thirds of the members elected to that house then agree to repass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections of the governor, to the other house which may also reconsider the vote on its passage. If two-thirds of the members elected to that house then agree to repass it, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. If a bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days, Sundays excepted, after being presented to him, it shall become a law, unless the general assembly by adjournment prevent its return, in which case, it shall become a law unless, within ten days after such adjournment, it shall be filed by him, with his objections, in the office of the secretary of state The governor may disapprove any item or items in any bill making an appropriation of money, and the item or items, so disapproved, shall be stricken therefrom, unless repassed in the manner herein prescribed for the repassage of a bill

SEC. 2. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, A. D. 1909.

JURORS ARE SELECTED FOR SEPTEMBER TERM

Drawing of Names by Sheriff and Clerk.

THE DRAWING MADE BY OFFICIALS MONDAY

Those Who Will Serve on the Grand and Petit Juries—The Grand Jury Will Convene September 8 and the Petit Jury September 21—Some Court Notes.

The following names were drawn by Sheriff E. E. Drown and Clerk W. W. Klinefelter for the grand and petit jurors for the September term of court, Monday morning:

Grand—Schiller Fogleson, John M. Green, George Ruth, Richard D. Irvin, J. K. Leeper, John Laippley, E. E. Brady, C. T. Linn, S. L. Bond, Jesse Kimber, H. K. Brown, W. P. Ward, J. D. Fetter, Henry Kibler and Jacob Loyer.

Petit — Samuel Schwaderer, Charles Mapes, W. P. Lauer, Richard Squibb, Willis Clark, Henry A. Schuler, H. A. Mason, John Buck, Isaac Dickason, John Hoberman, T. J. Cronley, S. J. Mahaffey, H. H. Kirchner, Eli Winters, Charles Taylor, Lewis Berringer, Patrick Sweeny, John Baldinger, Philip Loyer, and William Bauchman.

The grand jury will convene, September 8, and the petit jury, September 21.

Samuel G. Kleinmaier; Richard Horn, E. E. Bush, Thomas J. Ryan and A. C. Holland, trustees of Marion Lodge, No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, through Attorneys Mouser & Quigley and Jacoby & Donithen, Monday, in the common pleas court, instituted suit against the Grand Opera-House company to get possession of a small strip of land said to be occupied by the south wall of the opera-house block.

The ground immediately south of the opera-house was purchased by the Elks some time ago. When an engineer took the measurements of the ground bought by the lodge, he reported that the opera-house occupied a strip about eighteen inches wide belonging to the lodge. Months ago the trustees of the lodge were authorized to bring suit against the opera-house company.

Jane E. Hughes, executrix of the last will and testament of Robert G. Boyd, through her attorney, L. B. McNeal, filed a petition in the common pleas court, Monday, asking the court to determine the construction of the will left by Mr. Boyd, who died December 1, 1906. His will was admitted to probate, December 7. It provided that an eighty-acre tract in Elk county, Kansas, be sold to the highest bidder, and that out of the proceeds of the sale $300 be paid to the trustees of the Pisgah Presbyterian church at Prospect, in $50 annual payments, toward supporting a Presbyterian minister, providing the congregation paid money enough to meet the balance of his salary: $100 to the treasurer of Home Missions for Freedmen in the United States of America; $100 to the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, and $25 to the Woman's Home Missionary society of Pisgah Presbyterian church.

The will further provided that in the event of there not being sufficient money to meet these bequests, from the sale of the eighty-acre tract, that two lots at Lincoln, Nebraska, be sold to carry out his gifts, the balance to be equally divided among the heirs.

The plaintiff represents that upon her taking over the property of the decedent she discovered that he had sold the eighty-acre tract, together with one of the lots in Lincoln, and that there was nothing to sell save one lot. Therefore plaintiff says she is in doubt whether the testator desired the bequests to be paid out of the personal property of his estate. Sarah A. Otis, Mary M. McNeal, Kate Boyd, Tod Boyd and Harry Boyd, children of Joseph S. Boyd, the trustees of the Pisgah Presbyterian church, and others are named as defendants.

In the damage suit of John W. Clark, administrator of the estate of Elmer Burch, against John O. Owens and others, an answer was filed by the defendants, through Copeland & Bartram, Monday morning, in the common pleas court. The defendants deny that the decedent met his death through their carelessness, and affirm that he died of injuries sustained through his negligence in entering a dust bin.

In the suit of Jacob P. Barnthouse against C. E. Mount, motions asking the court to dissolve the temporary injunction and to throw out the answer and cross-petition of the defendant, were filed by the plaintiff's attorneys, J. H. Eymon and Crissinger & Guthery, Saturday, in the common pleas court. This is an action, in which the plaintiff obtained a cognovit judgment against Mount, and as the sheriff was about to levy on horses owned by Mount the latter obtained a temporary injunction in the probate court in the absence of Judge Young.

An appeal transcript, in the damage suit of Martha M. Schaaf and others against Charles Brundige, has been filed in the common pleas court. In the court of Justice William Michels, at Waldo, the plaintiffs were awarded judgment for $45. The evidence showed that Brundige had broken down a fence and driven in a wheat field, destroying much of the grain.

Charles H. Halsey and others, through Attorneys Crissinger & Guthery, Tuesday, filed a petition in the common pleas court asking that a temporary injunction be granted restraining the board of county commissioners of the Brooks free turnpike from selling bonds to construct the pike. The proposed road is located in Grand Prairie township. The plaintiffs allege that less than a majority of landowners are in favor of the improvement.

COLONEL SAMUEL GRAY DIES IN INDIANAPOLIS

Former Commander of an Ohio Regiment.

Mrs. Frederick Hoch and other relatives residing in the county have received a message announcing the death of Colonel Samuel Gray in Indianapolis. Colonel Gray will be remembered by many of the local veterans of the civil war. He commanded the Forty-Ninth regiment, O. V. I., after the retirement of Colonel Gibson. His death was the result of a stroke of paralysis.

MAX ELSNER RAIDS EMPLOYER'S HOME

A Baker Disappears With Articles of Value.

HARVEY HARRIOT BEFORE THE MAYOR

Gets Drunk and Tries To Start an Erie Yard Engine for Green Camp. Edward Roland Is Arrested on Two Charges—Some Police Court News Notes.

Max Elsner, a baker employed at the bakery of H. J. Kahl, on north Main street, left the city, Saturday evening, and took with him a number of articles belonging to his proprietor. Since his employment with Kahl, Elsner has resided at the Kahl home on Pearl street. While the members of the Kahl family were attending to business at the store, Saturday night, Elsner went to the residence and taking two gold watches, a rifle and a bicycle belonging to Mr. Kahl's son, left the city. It is supposed the man rode the wheel out of town. The police were notified, Saturday night, after the robbery was discovered by Kahl. The authorities of the surrounding towns were informed of the robbery.

Harvey Harriot, a resident of DeCliff, was taken off an Erie yard engine, at noon, Sunday, by J. E. Hostetter, a detective of the Erie, and taken to the city prison to answer to a charge of intoxication and loitering. The trains on the Erie did not run to the convenience of Harriot and his desire to reach his home was so great that he boarded the engine while the engineer was cleaning and oiling it and tried to start it. Harriot was given a hearing by the mayor, Monday morning, and was fined five dollars on the drunkenness charge and five dollars for loitering. By arranging for the fine he was released.

J. W. Ulsh, officer for the Humane society, filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Saturday afternoon, charging Calvin Greenland with failing to provide for his two minor children, Rosa, aged thirteen, and Roy, aged fifteen. The affidavit relates that Greenland has failed to provide for his children for the past year. Greenland was arrested, Saturday night, and taken before the mayor for hearing Monday morning.

At the hearing it was shown that Greenland had secured his daughter to attach his wife's name to a mortgage on their household furniture, that he might secure a loan from the Marion Chattel Loan company. Greenland was also guardian for his son who was awarded $100 for injuries sustained while working in a quarry. It developed that Greenland spent part of the money, paid some debts and bought a cow with the remainder, later selling the cow and spending the money. As a result of his past record he was fined $10 and the costs in the case and sentenced to three months in the workhouse.

Charles Moss, who was fined five dollars and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse for the theft of four shirts, and Calvin Greenland, who was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to three months in the workhouse, on a charge of failing to provide for his two minor children, were taken to Columbus Tuesday afternoon by Chief Cornwell.

J. E. Hostetter, a detective of the Erie, arrested S. B. Moore in the yards of the railroad company, Monday evening, and a charge of disorderly conduct was placed against him. Moore appeared to be a nice sort of a fellow and after a lecture by the mayor he was released.

Frank Myers was arrested on east Church street, Monday evening, by Officers Hostetter and Babcock and a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct was placed against him. Myers pleaded guilty before the mayor, Tuesday morning and was fined five dollars. Having no money he was sentenced to stand committed until the amount is paid.

Maggie Whiley, residing on north Main street, filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Saturday, charging Charles Moss with stealing four shirts from a line. Moss is a full-blooded Indian and has been living in a barn near Lincoln park. He has been making a living by stealing, it is alleged, and has been apprehended a number of times while trying to carry away articles from residences in that vicinity. When arraigned before the mayor, Moss pleaded guilty to the charge against him. Sentence was withheld pending an investigation of the reputation of Moss.

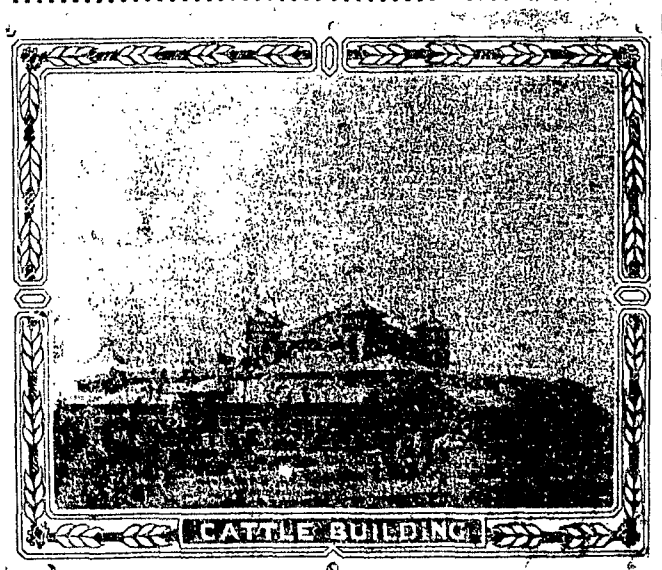
SCENES ON OHIO STATE FAIR GROUNDS



OHIO'S fifty-eighth annual State Fair and Industrial Exposition will be held in Columbus, Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3, 4, next, and, that our readers may form some conception of the stupendousness of the Exposition, above we reproduce a photographic view of one of the leading live stock structures. The buildings devoted to live stock exhibits are five in number, of similar architectural design, grouped in the northern section of the grounds. They are connected by covered walks of artistic design, enabling visitors to pass from one building to another without inconvenience even during the most inclement weather.

While the greatest interest annually centers in the displays of live stock, equally interesting features will be found in each of the seventeen distinct departments of the Exposition, and especially is this true of the displays of labor saving shop and farm machinery, and the extensive exhibit of road and threshing machines. Three structures, with a combined floor space of one hundred and sixty thousand square feet, are devoted to the first named class of exhibits, while for the heavier forms shown in actual operation twenty acres of platted lots in the open are required.

Shall I Buy a Cream Separator?

WILL IT PAY ME IF I DO?

Butter is too valuable a product to feed to calves or pigs.

Originally the calf got all the cream.

When the milk was set on the cellar shelf, the calf got half the cream and the other half was made into butter.

By setting the milk in spring water, the calf gets one-third the cream and two-thirds goes to butter.

The patent creamer, with ice, gets three-fourths of the cream for butter and one-fourth goes to the calf, in the skim-milk.

The Sharpless Tubular Separator gets all the cream for butter making, and the calf can be fed on perfectly skimmed milk.

THE SHARPLESS CREAM SEPARATOR is absolutely a big money maker, because it prevents waste of cream—and in a 10 cow dairy, you might sell enough cows to pay for a separator, and the cows remaining will make you far more money than when you had the whole herd, and no separator.

TWO LA RUE CITIZENS ENDORSE BAD CHECKS

E. W. Manley and C. H. Sutton Out $50 Each.

A PICTURE FRAME SALESMAN'S GAME

Presents Two Checks at LaRue Banks for Payment and Residents of the Village Endorse Them Without Question—The Fellow Then Comes to Marion and Disappears.

LaRue, Aug 15.—[Special.]—E. W. Manley and C. H. Sutton, both prominent residents of this place, are each out of pocket $50 as a result of endorsing checks for identification purposes.

Early this month a young fellow, who said his names was W. E. White, made his appearance in LaRue as an agent. He made a house to house canvass, taking orders for picture frames. He became very well acquainted. August 5, he presented a check for $50 on a Mansfield bank to the cashier of the LaRue bank. The same day he presented a similar check to the cashier of the Campbell bank In each instance, he was required to get some responsible LaRue citizen to endorse it. After procuring the money, the agent told Mr. Sutton, who endorsed one of the checks, that he had to come to Marion to get some picture frames. He asked Mr. Sutton if Paul Sutton, aged nine, could not go to Marion with him. Master Paul drove him to Marion, where the agent disappeared The boy waited a long time for him, then telephoned for his father Communication with the bank at Mansfield developed that the checks were worthless.

PHYSICIANS OF CITY BUSY WITH EPIDEMIC

Difference of Opinion as to the Disease.

MAY BE CAUSED BY EXTREME HEAT

Some Physicians Think the Malady Is Tonsilitis While Others Call It Summer Grip, Brought on by Sleeping in a Draft of Air—Many Are Ill—Symptoms.

The physicians of the city are at present having a rush of business that has not had an equal in many a day The rush is due to an epidemic which is sweeping over the city and for which the doctors are unable to account. In nearly every case the symptoms of the disease are the same and at present about 300 people in the city are affected. That it is contagious is evident from the fact that entire families are afflicted and many who work together are suffering

The physicians seem to differ in opinion as to the disease and its cause. Some believe it is due to the heat of the past week. This theory is accepted by most of the physicians. Some of the physicians pronounce it a mild form of tonsilitis while others claim it is a summer grip brought on by sleeping in a draft of air. In many respects the epidemic resembles grip and tonsilitis. It starts with a sore throat, followed by swollen tonsils, a slight headathe and aching of the entire body.

Lad Badly Burned.

Mr. and Mrs. George Foster, of Windsor street, received word Monday that their son Harold, aged fifteen, had been badly burned about the face and eyes in an automobile explosion near Lima Sunday night. The particulars and the extent of the lad's injuries were not made known in the telegram. The lad was visiting at the home of his uncle, William Mack, near Lima. He was riding with his uncle when the accident occurred and Mr. Mack was also badly burned.

WAGON IS WRECKED IN ACCIDENT SATURDAY

Collision with Traction Car Followed by Runaway.

Al Green who was holding a horse, hitched to a delivery wagon, luckily escaped serious injury, Saturday, about 9 o'clock, when an interurban car struck the wagon on Davids street.

Earl Uncapher had gone into a restaurant on the corner to deliver an order of meat and had asked Green to hold his horse. The car came around the corner from Center street and struck the wagon, throwing Green out on the pavement. He struck on his shoulder. The horse was jammed up against a telephone pole, and after the car had passed, broke loose and started to run. On the corner of Davids and Center street the animal fell on the car tracks and was badly cut up as a result. The wagon was a total wreck.

CLARIDON TOWNSHIP TEMPERANCE PEOPLE

Organization Is Made for Local Option Campaign.

The Claridon township temperance people organized for the purpose of waging a campaign for local option, at a meeting held in the Presbyterian church at Caledonia, Sunday evening. The church was well filled with people from all sections of the township, and much enthusiasm was displayed.

Rev. David H. Bailey, pastor of the Epworth M. E Church in this city, delivered a powerful temperance sermon.

The following officers were elected: Rev. James Gray, president; W. E. Morral, vice president; George Douce, secretary; James Smith, treasurer; George Ault, committeeman for Claridon north, and W. W Haley, committeeman for Claridon south.

YOUNG FRANK MURPHY IS SLIGHTLY INJURED

Is Thrown from Wagon in Runaway Saturday.

Young Frank Murphy was badly cut up and bruised as the result of a runaway, Saturday morning, about 9 o'clock. Murphy was watering his horse at the trough on west Center street, when the animal took fright and started to run. The lad hung to the reins and attempted to stop the animals, but could not do so. The horse, which was hitched to a wagon, ran up Sharp street to Bennett street, thence over to Uncapher avenue and through Florence street to Davids street, where it was stopped. At the corner of Sharp and Bennett streets the lad was thrown out and alighted on his back. He was taken to his home on Florence street

ELISHA ROWLAND IS KILLED IN OREGON

Is Struck in Chest by a Piece of Timber.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL, WHERE HE DIES

Rowland Is Quite Well Known in This City—He Moves West About Three Years Ago — Unfortunate Man Leaves Three Children and Other Relatives.

Elisha Rowland, a former Marion man, who came to this city from LaRue and afterwards moved West, suffered an accident, July 27, near Salem, Oregon, which resulted in his death a few days afterward.

Rowland was working on an edger for the Spaulding Logging company when a piece of timber struck him in the chest. He was removed to the hospital at Salem, where his recovery was expected. Suddenly he suffered a relapse and died. Examination showed that the man had been seriously injured internally.

The deceased was forty years old. He leaves a father and mother, three brothers and three children. He moved to this city about five years ago and was employed as second cook at Murphy & Kennedy's on west Center street. About three years ago, with his immediate relatives, he moved West. The news of his death was received last Saturday. He was buried at Salem.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MELVIN LEONARD

Morrow County Man Dies Very Suddenly.

The funeral service of Melvin Leonard, who was found dead on a lounge at the home of his nephew, Elza Gruber, at Denmark, Wednesday afternoon, was held at the M. E. church at Denmark, Friday, August 14, at 1:30 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Huffman, of Edison, officiating.

For a number of years Mr. Leonard had been afflicted with varicose veins and last April moved from his home west of Denmark to the home of his nephew. During the past week, he complained frequently of a pain in his side. Wednesday morning, Mr. Gruber left his home to be gone the greater part of the day, and states that his uncle was then seemingly in as good health as usual. He returned home in the afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock, and found his uncle lying on the lounge Thinking that he was only taking a nap as was his habit, Mr. Gruber did not disturb the body, but busied himself out of doors for about an hour when he again entered the house He went to Leonard's side and taking hold of the man's hand was startled to find him cold in death He died as the result of a bursted blood vessel.

The deceased was born in Morrow county in 1818, and had spent his entire life as a resident of Canaan township.

LEVI GEEMER IS HURT NEAR MORRAL

Strikes His Right Leg With an Axe Saturday.

Levi Geemer, a resident of Mound street, who has been employed in a lumber camp near Morral suffered an accident, Saturday, which nearly cost him his right leg. It is not known whether or not amputation will be necessary.

Geemer was chopping wood when he missed a piece of timber and the axe struck him on the right leg between the knee and the ankle. The member was nearly split in twain and the man's suffering before his return to the city was intense. He was given attention by a Morral surgeon and is now resting quite easily at his home in this city.

TYPHO-PNEUMONIA CAUSE OF DEATH

Mrs. Hattie Corey Dies Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Hattie Corey, thirty-six years old, wife of John Corey, died of typho-pneumonia at her home on Union street, Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, after an illness of about two weeks.

The deceased was born in Hardin county, but had lived many years in Marion. She had twice been married. She is survived by two children, who are Miss Emma Wyburn and Ralph Corey, and her mother, Mrs. Emma Collins, of this city.

The funeral service was held at the late residence, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. A. Sutton, of LaRue, officiating. Interment took place in the Marion cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM BULL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Carriage in Which She Is Riding Is Wrecked.

Mrs. William F. Bull had a very narrow escape from death or serious injury while riding with a party of friends in Columbus, Saturday. The tongue of a heavy ice-wagon was forced through the carriage, and but for the presence of mind and quick action on the part of Mrs. Bull would have spitted her. The driver of the ice-wagon was unable to control his brake and an approaching street car added to the complications which resulted in the accident. The carriage was wrecked.

Dog Attacks Child.

Modesta, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Knickle, residing on the Marion and Green Camp pike, was attacked by a shepherd dog, Sunday afternoon. The dog bit her through the lower lip. The little girl was knocked down and badly scratched on the neck by the animal's paws.

WILSON PETERS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Death Is the Result of a Stroke of Paralysis.

DEMISE EXPECTED FOR SOME TIME

A Life-Long Resident of Marion Passes Away—Is Identified with the Business Interests of the City a Great Many Years—The Funeral Was Held Monday Afternoon.

Wilson Peters, one of the best-known residents of the city, died of paralysis at his home on Mt. Vernon avenue, Saturday morning at 8:30. His death had been expected for some time.

The funeral was held from the late residence, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Wilson Peters was born November 27, 1825, at Lancaster, Fairfield county. He was the eldest son of Nathan Peters, who moved to Marion in 1826.

The deceased was educated in the Marion public schools and at Otterbein university and Dr. Williams' academy, near Lancaster. In 1843, after he had finished his schooling, he returned to Marion, and in the same year, with his father, engaged in the drug trade under the firm name of W. Peters & Company in the room now occupied by the Marion County bank.

In 1847 the firm of W. Peters & Company was dissolved. Mr. Peters then admitted his brother as a partner, and the firm of W. & H. Peters continued for two years Mr. Peters then retired from the drug business and gave his attention to farming. His farm contained 103 acres, eighty of which was in the corporation limits of the city.

Mr. Peters was a member of B company, 136th regiment, O. N. G., having enlisted in May, 1864, and was engaged in garrison duty at Alexandria, Virginia, until his discharge in September, 1864. January 22, 1881, he was married to Mrs. Olive S. Southwick, widow of Corydon Southwick. Mrs. Peters was born in Marion county, and survives her husband at the age of seventy-three years.

Mrs. Pauline M. Hummer, Mrs. Mary Ellen Camp and Mrs. Irene L. Beerbower are sisters of the deceased.

CHAUNCEY COLWELL ADMITTED TO HOME

Simple-Minded Deaf Mute's Case Is Settled.

LETTER TO GOVERNOR BRINGS RESULTS

Mrs. Sarah Colwell Finds It Hard To Care for Unfortunate Son and Support Herself by Washing—She Waits a Year Before She Secures Relief Asked.

After more than a year of correspondence on the part of the local authorities with state officials, Chauncey Colwell, a simple-minded deaf mute, is to be admitted to the state institution for the simple-minded at Columbus as a result of a letter written to Governor Andrew L. Harris by Rev. S. C. Bates.

The lad's mother, Mrs. Sarah Colwell was deserted by her husband, and has been compelled to take in washings to support herself and child, who, because of his terrible afflictions, has been a great burden upon her. Probate Judge Foster tried to get the boy into the institution for the deaf and dumb and the home for feeble-minded youths, but the superintendents of both institutions refused to receive him. The fact that the boy was simple-minded barred him from the institution for deaf and dumb, the superintendent declared, and because he was dumb the superintendent of the home for the simple-minded refused to accept him. The boy was then examined by Dr. H. W. Sager, who expressed the belief that an operation would restore the power of speech, in which event he would have to be accepted at the institution for feeble-minded. A consultation of physicians was held, and the conclusion was arrived at that the operation would not have the desired results, and it was never performed.

Rev. S. C. Bates then became interested in the lad's pitiable plight and wrote a long letter to Governor Harris. Monday, Probate Judge Foster received a letter from E. J. Emerick, superintendent of the home for feeble-minded, saying that the boy would be received. He will be sent to the institution at once.

ALLEN HANAWALT IS VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Dies in a Hospital After Long Illness.

LEAVES A FAMILY OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Richwood People Enter Horses in the Races at Urbana—A New Theater Is Opened at Richwood. The Beem Family Holds Annual Reunion—Some Richwood Notes.

Richwood, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Allen Hanawalt, who had been making his home with his son, John Hanawalt, just north of Richwood, during the past several months, and who was afflicted by paralysis, was taken to the Marysville City hospital, Wednesday. His condition was very serious at the time of his removal and he gradually failed until the time of his death, which occurred early Saturday morning. He was sixty-nine years of age. He is survived by seven children, his wife having died several years ago He was a soldier in the civil war. After Mr. Hanawalt's death the remains were taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs Charles Loveless, in Dover township, where funeral services were held, Sunday morning.

A large number of Richwood people attended the fair at Urbana, Thursday and Friday. A number of horses from here were entered in the races but failed to make a showing.

The funeral of Mrs. Catharine Price was held, Saturday morning, from the residence of her son, John L. Price, near Essex. Rev. Philip Biehlman, of Prospect, officiated. Burial took place at Price's cemetery, northwest of Essex.

The opening of the Star theater, Friday evening, was attended by an immense crowd. The new theater is owned by P. J. Speyer and Elmer Hall, and is up to date in every particular.

B. F. Carmean, who purchased the Cottage hotel building, on north Franklin street, recently, is remodeling the same and will use it for a residence for himself and family. Extensive alterations are being made on the interior and when all are complete Mr. Carmean will have one of the finest residences in Richwood.

A son was born, Thursday, to Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery, who reside west of Richwood.

The annual reunion of the Beem family was held, Thursday, at Olentangy park, in Columbus About forty members of the family assembled at the park and spent the day very pleasantly, enjoying an elaborate picnic dinner at noon. Those present at the reunion from Richwood were Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Beem, Miss Lena Beem, Perry Beem, Mrs. W. H. Conboy, B. F. Beem, Miss Ada Beem and Gilbert Beem.

The following veterans from Richwood attended the annual reunion of the soldiers of Marion county, held at Green Camp, Thursday afternoon: S. A. McKell, Eli Sloop, C. H. Jacobs, Melvin Middleton, Gary Meddles, L. R. Livingston, George Tipton, W. R. Robison, B. C Roberts, H. S. Colver, J. A. Phillips, Hylas Moore, Harry Nye, J. J. Ramage and J. C. Stubert.

An interesting lecture course has been planned for Richwood for the fall and winter season, to be given under the auspices of Rising Sun lodge, No. 71, Knights of Pythias. There will be five entertainments, three lectures and two musical numbers. The talent engaged is said to be of the very best. The first entertainment will be given in October. A large number of season tickets has already been sold. John A. Shipley and others compose the committee having charge of arrangements.

Miss Georgia Stults, of Cincinnati, has been the guest of her sister, Miss Lulu Stults, during the past week.

Mrs. Louise Fleming and Mrs. Gertrude Danner, of Chandler, Oklahoma, have been guests of William Smith and family, of west Ottawa street, during the past week. Mrs. Fleming is a sister of Mr. Smith.

Mrs. N. E Smith, of Los Angeles, California, spent last week in Richwood with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Lyons. She left, Saturday evening, for New York City, where she expects to purchase millinery goods for her store in Los Angeles.

Miss Marion Fisher, at her home just southwest of Richwood, entertained a number of young lady friends, Wednesday afternoon, in an enjoyable manner.

Honoring her guest, Miss Helen Osborne, of Westerville, Miss Starling Hall entertained a number of friends at a slumber party at her home on north Franklin street, Wednesday night. Early Thursday morning, Miss Hall and her guests drove to Eagle park, at Magnetic Springs, where they enjoyed a picnic breakfast. Those composing the party, aside from the hostess and the honor guest, were Misses Lamont Baldwin, Ethel Cheney and Mary Eckelberry. The morning was spent at Eagle park.

Mrs E L Holley arrived in Richwood, Thursday, from Chicago, and remained until Thursday night with her friend, Mrs. Harry Peet, of west Bomford street. Mrs. Holley left on midnight train for her home in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Benton moved to Richwood, last week, from East Liberty. Mr. Benton is engaged in buying and selling horses.

E. R. Graham, of Chicago, spent Thursday with his mother, Mrs. Jane Graham, and with his wife and sons, near Richwood.

Mrs. S. M. Edgar, of New York City, has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John A. Shipley, since Thursday.

Miss Esther Reasley, of Columbus, has been the guest of her grandfather, L. H. Stephenson, and other relatives here during the past week.

A large number of Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters of Richwood attended the picnic at Eagle park, Magnetic Springs, Friday. Members of the order were present from adjoining counties and from more distant points. The program began at 10 o'clock a. m. Excellent music was furnished by the Richwood band and by the K. of P. quartet. The address of welcome was delivered by Dr. J. F. Conrad, of Magnetic Springs, and speech were made by Rev. B. F. Hagan, of Magnetic Springs; Mayor C S Norris, of Richwood; S. A. Hoskins, of Wapakoneta, and other prominent members of the order. The third-rank team of Dover and Pharisburg gave a drill. Several important business matters were attended to and it was decided to organize a past chancellors' association in Union county. The picnic was one of the largest ever held by a secret order in this county.

The Misses Wiltsie, at the M. E. parsonage, gave a Japanese garden party, Friday evening, the honor guest being Miss Georgeana Peet, of Richwood, whose engagement to Mr. Roettinger, of Cincinnati, was announced. The lawn at the parsonage was curtained off from the street and was artistically decorated to represent a garden in Japan, the light being furnished by many Japanese lanterns. The hostesses and guests were prettily attired in Japanese costumes.

ANNUAL REUNION AND CELEBRATION

A number from this city and county attended the centennial celebration of the settlement of Troy township, Delaware county, by Captain David Dix, and th twenty-ninth annual reunion of the Dix family held at the Oliver Downing grove, near Troy chapel, four miles south of Delaware, Tuesday.

A splendid program was arranged for the occasion, among the contributors being Clark Dix, of this city, who delivered a response to the address of welcome; Lloyd W. Dix, of Prospect, who spoke on "Choosing an Occupation;", Charles S. Dix, of Prospect, who gave the "Family History;" Mrs. Lena Beverly, of Marion, who gave a reading, and a memorial address for the late Mrs. Albina L. Dix by Mrs. Cook, of Prospect The singing was conducted by E A. Bishop, of this city.

HAROLD TARCHER IS VERY BADLY HURT

Hands Are Run Over by a Heavy Threshing Machine.

Harold, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tarcher of Blaine avenue, was badly injured on Bellefontaine avenue about 5 o'clock Monday evening. The child tried to climb on a threshing machine passing in the street and fell. One of the wheels of the machine passed over his hands crushing the fingers of the right hand and breaking the first finger and thumb of the left hand. Drs. H. J. Lower and C. G. Smith were called. The little finger of the right hand was amputated and the other injured members dressed It is feared another amputation will be necessary.

R. S. QUIGLEY DIES IN COLUMBUS TUESDAY

Death Comes After a Very Long Illness

MR. QUIGLEY REARED IN MARION COUNTY

Passes Many Years in the Railway Service and Rises to Position of Superintendent of the Hocking Valley—Retires Because of Ill Health—Mother Resides Here.

Rue S. Quigley, aged forty-three years, died at his home in Columbus, at 12:40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, as the result of diabetes, of which disease he had been suffering more than a year. The news of his death will be received with the deepest regret by his many friends in this city. Monday morning, the sacrament of the Roman Catholic church was administered to him by Rev. Father A. M. Leyden, of St. Francis parish, of which church the deceased was a member.

The deceased was a son of Mrs. A. V. Quigley, of east Center street, and was born in this city. Until May 1, he was superintendent of the Hocking Valley and was well known in Ohio as a successful railroad official. He started his career as an operator on the old Bee Line at La Rue when only seventeen years of age. He later identified himself with several other roads and in 1892 joined the forces of the Hocking Valley as a chief clerk in the superintendent's office He was advanced to the position of trainmaster of the Hocking division and then to trainmaster of the entire road. His promotion to the superintendency of the road followed later and he fulfilled his duties as such until last August when he took a trip to Michigan for his health. May 1, last, when his condition was growing serious he was given a leave of absence for one year

Last fall, he came to Marion and took treatment at the Dr. C. E. Sawyer sanatorium. He showed signs of improvement and for a time in January resumed his duties as superintendent of the road. He then began to decline and was forced to return to Marion for treatment He was planning a visit to the home of his sister in Oregon, but his condition grew so bad that he felt unable to stand the long journey.

Mrs. A. V. Quigley left, Monday, for the bedside of her son and remained with him until death came. The deceased leaves a widow, six children, his mother and three sisters. The sisters are Mrs T. H. Scott, of this city; Mrs. H. R. Johnston, of Fostoria, and Mrs. William Stose, of Portland, Oregon He was known and loved by every railroad employe in the city.

MRS. SELANDERS IS VERY BADLY SHOCKED

Lightning Strikes a Residence at Waldo.

Waldo, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—During a heavy storm which passed over here, Monday afternoon, the residence of Meigs Selanders was struck by lightning. The house was somewhat damaged and was fired by the bolt, but the heavy rain put out the fire Mrs. Selanders, who was working in the kitchen, was so badly shocked that she could neither stand nor speak for some time.

INCORPORATION OF LEE STREET CHURCH

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Marion Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Marion people testify to permanent cures.

Jos. Voll, tailor, of 129½ north Main street, Marion, O., says: "In October, 1899, I gave a testimonial for publication recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Flocken's pharmacy. That was based on my own personal experience. During the past five years I have learned of many other cases in which Doan's Kidney Pills have done the same thorough work, and during that time I have had no return of the trouble. For the benefit of other sufferers I will repeat that before I used Doan's Kidney Pills my back was so painful, lame and sensitive that to straighten up after bending over caused the most acute suffering. There was also dull, heavy aching in the back of my head and I had much inconvenience and embarrassment from the irregular action of the kidneys. This was my condition when I got Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me and the cure has proved permanent.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AIR TORPEDOES.

Before the airship and the flying machine can be definitely gauged as possible military appliances, the news comes from Europe that the "air torpedo" invented by Colonel Unge, of the Swedish army, is taken seriously enough by the Krupps to be purchased for a great price. This device is said to be effective in mountain warfare as well as in ordinary land fighting and at sea. It is expected to prove particularly effective against fortifications.

Presumably the "air torpedo" is something between an improved and enlarged rocket and a dwarfed and altered airship It must carry its own propelling force or it would be a mere projectile after the fashion of the dynamite tubes which the much-touted and very disappointing Vesuvius poked through the air at the Spanish forts on the Cuban coast, in 1898. If the "air torpedo" carried an engineer or guide it would be a flying machine or airship, not a torpedo. It is evidently a device which is to move swiftly and over a good range by self-contained mechanism, and is to be capable of rising to a considerable height as well as flying in a straight line over level ground or cross water surfaces.

It is easy to perceive that terrible forces of destruction may lie in such an invention as that of Colonel Unge. If a large quantity of high explosives can be carried at great speed for miles, even rising to mountain heights, and can still be directed with fair accuracy, immense havoc may be wrought. It may prove almost impossible to hold any fortifications attacked by such engines of destruction.

However, in war more than in peace, it is needful to put inventions to the test of actual use under the conditions which they are commonly required to meet, before their value can be determined. Even the experts in the service of the Krupps may overestimate the importance of the "air torpedo"—Cleveland Leader.

THE ARCTIC PRESS.

There exist at present several journals that make their appearance only once a year. They are published within the confines of the North Polar circle The Eskimo Bulletin, for example, is edited near Cape Prince of Wales, on Behring strait. Here, in a village inhabited by Esquimaus, the British missionaries have established a school, and, as only one steamer lands at that place, and that only once a year, the news it brings is consigned to a sheet of paper printed with the hectograph. Its size is seven by twelve inches. The paper is very thick and only one surface is used. This Esquiman Bulletin in a subhead claims to be the 'only yearly paper." This, however, is an error, for there is an annual sheet published in Godthaab, Greenland, where a small printing office was established in 1862, whence news sheets and lithographic prints have been issued. The journal in question is entitled Atragagdliit nalinginarmik tusarnminassumik—that is "Something for reading; account of all sorts of entertaining subjects." The language is that of Greenland, a dialect of the Esquiman. There is still another periodical published in Greenland under the name of Kaladlit.—Dundee Advertiser.

Disappointment is often only a turn in the road to the highest appointment.

JAMES H. DOTY DIES TUESDAY MORNING

The Pasing of a Well-Known Citizen.

A VETERAN IN THE RAILWAY SERVICE

Mr. Doty Is a Passenger Engineer Many Years—Held in High Regard by a Host of Friends—A Widow and Children Left—Arrangements for Funeral Service.

James H. Doty died at his home on west Center street, Tuesday morning, at 8 o'clock, after a lingering illness, which dates back to February 9. With Mr. Doty's demise the city loses one of its most highly respected citizens.

Mr. Doty was taken suddenly sick last February and his condition continued to grow worse. When expert examination was made, it was found that he was suffering of a serious infection of the bladder. About two months ago he was removed to the Presbyterian hospital where a thorough examination of his case was made. His condition was extremely serious and an operation was impossible. He was brought home about five weeks ago and since then his condition remained about the same although at times he showed signs of marked improvement. The last few days, he suffered intermitting relapses until death came.

Mr. Doty was born near Ashland, October 10, 1845, and would have been sixty-three years old had he lived until October 10. In September, 1871, he was married to Miss Belindi K. Wharton of Powhaton To the union were born two daughters, Mrs. F. B. Hollenbeck of Lincoln, Nebraska; Mrs Harry Mealey, of this city, and two sons, Claude Doty, of New York City, and John Doty, of Boston, all of whom with their mother survive.

Mr. Doty was a member of the original construction forces of the old A. and G W railway in 1864. His rise in the service of the company was rapid. In 1882 he was made a passenger engineer, in which capacity he was serving when taken sick. He was popular among his fellow employes and was known as a generous and faithful friend. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and of the Odd Fellow.

The funeral was held, Thursday afternoon, from the late residence at No 553½ west Center street with Rev. L. C. Bates officiating. The funeral was in charge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Odd Fellows. Interment was made in the local cemetery

CANADA.

The most vitally and widely interesting feature of the celebration at Quebec is not the three centuries of that city's life—a slow and quiet existence for the most part, despite famous thrilling incidents long ago. It is not the historical significance of the story of British and French rivalry and warfare and final union—with some marked limitations—in Canada. It isn't race and it isn't royalty visiting America in an official capacity. It is Canada.

The Dominion was long a story and a promise—sometimes seeming hardly more than a hope. Now it is a fact—large, virile, expanding, thought-compelling. It is a great empire within a greater, a virtual republic under a monarch's flag, a realm of immense open spaces and unmeasured natural resources only beginning to find itself as a power in the world of industry and commerce and a factor in the progress of mankind.

Canada is still underrated, scarcely understood. It is always belittled rather than exaggerated by outsiders. Its future is read darkly through the narrow lens of an inadequate past.

The fertile land which is not too far north or too high above the sea to have a fairly good climate may constitute a comparatively small part of British America, but it is sufficient for a great population and the creation of great wealth. A thin slice of Canada is bigger than many a famous empire. Add the timber, the minerals, the water power, the fisheries, the waterways and the ports of the Dominion, and it stands out among the newer lands of the earth as richly endowed, vast and of tremendous possibilities.

Every event which centers attention upon Canada turns a searchlight upon crude forces, vast spaces, huge stores of natural wealth—all that makes a young land worth the study of those who concern themselves with the larger movements of human progress. For Canada is essentially young, notwithstanding the three centuries Quebec is celebrating. That city is an ancient gateway to a new empire, a picturesque old fortress guarding a river which drains much untested and unused wilderness.

Make no mistake about Canada A great nation is growing, faster and faster, across the northern boundary of the United States.—Cleveland Leader.

A PRESIDENTIAL SPEECH.

Theodore Roosevelt has made a good many effectiv speeches since he has been president. He has made few, if any, more powerful than his argument for a big and efficient navy at Newport.

The president's naval speeches are always worth listening to. Mr. Roosevelt has been a close student of naval affairs and knows what he is talking about.

One thing that the president said at Newport was particularly interesting. "Ultimately, and, I think, at a not very distant point," he said, "as this country grows up, it becomes more important that we should keep on the highest possible level the plane of living of our workingmen, for the chief end of a national policy in this country should be to keep on the highest level of prosperity the tiller of the soil and the wage worker, for the prosperity of all other classes will follow their prosperity. Therefore, gentlemen, as it becomes more and more important to keep that prosperity on a high level, it is very possible that we shall have to exercise a continually greater rejection among immigrants that come hither and shall, it may be, take an attitude that will at first provoke friction.

"It is absolutely necessary that, if we claim for ourselves the right to choose who shall come here, we shall be in trim to uphold that right if any power challenges it, and it can not be upheld by words, it can not be upheld by a coast-defense navy. It can be upheld only by the possession of an effective fighting navy, a navy able to preserve the honor and the interest of the United States, not by inviting attack and then seeing if we can not repel it, but by taking such action as shall guarantee us against our shores being attacked."

There are many reasons why this country should have a good navy. We don't expect to force a fight on anybody else—and at the same time we don't want to be in a position where it will be profitable for anybody else to force a fight on us. The day when a gunboat policy or a coast defense policy would satisfy a majority of Americans has passed. As a people we know more about naval affairs than we did. That means an adequate number of battleships for the American navy.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

NO LONGER EATS ALONE.

A book has just been published at Milan, entitled "The Pope at Home." It is full of anecdotes, all of which show the Holy Father to be a modest man, who dislikes today as much as he did when he ascended the pontifical throne all display and ostentation. The author says that Urban VIII established the rule that the Pope must take his meals alone, and when Pius X invited his secretary, Monsignor Brisson, to dine with him, a chamberlain cautiously reminded the Pope of the breach of unwritten law. In answer the Pope said to him, "One Pope decreed and one Pope recalled," and there it ended. Since then the Pope has frequently had an additional companion at the table with his secretary, and on extra occasions always has his two sisters, who still call him "Pepi" and still watch over him as they did in the days when, as a slender chaplain, he ate codfish polenta and thick beans at their table seven days in the week. On many occasions he has expressed regret at having been unable to revolutionize his household sufficiently to establish the sisters at the head of the Vatican kitchen.—New York Tribune.

A NONGOSSIPING SOCIETY FORMED

The Pledge Exacted from the Members of Order of the Rose.

Now comes the Order of the Rose as the newest organization for young women. It is based on the universal reputation of the flower for beauty and discretion. Every member of the order has to pledge herself never to gossip, never to say more than is necessary to express her meaning, never to tell anything about anybody that is not kind. All the members wear the badge of the order, a rose of one kind or another, says the New York Press There is no prescribed color. Each girl wears the rose best suited to her complexion and build. The choice ranges from the stately damask to the delicate tea. Every member has a rose embroidered or painted on everything she owns, the idea being that she must be reminded of the order's objects momentarily throughout her waking hours The decorative effect is delicious

Fancy seeing a young woman liberally sprinkled with tiny roses done in the softest of silks and placed in the most bewitching positions. The Order of the Rose was started only a few weeks ago, but already its membership is large, and it is growing steadily. It is safe to say that ere the year ends the organization will have members in every large city in the United States and in most of the smaller towns

When a wamon goes away from home the first thing she talks about on returning is not her trip, but the awful condition in which she found the house.

SERGEANT ABBOTT'S EXCELLENT RECORD

Local Rifleman Wins a Place in Regular Army.

FINE WORK DONE AT CAMP PERRY SHOOT

Sergeant Abbott Makes a Record on the Range that Prompts a Regular Army Officer To Offer Him a Sergeancy, If He Will Enter Army—Offer Accepted.

Sergeant Arthur M. Abbott, of D company, who was the representative of the local company in their regimental shoot held at Camp Perry last week won a nice honor for the local company and for himself. Of the twelve of the best shots representing as many companies of the regiment, Abbott took third honors with 248 points, which was but fifteen points lower than first and eight points below second. In the individual revolver match Abbott won the medal with eighty per cent., and also took the medal in the novice aggregate match with ninety per cent. As a result of his work in marksmanship, Abbott receives the title of an expert rifleman, this being the highest title of the army.

Following the shoot Abbott was approached by an army officer and asked to join the regular army. In order to induce the Marion man to join the regulars, Abbott was offered the position of sergeant and accepted. He will consequently be transferred from the local company to a place in the regular army, this being an unusual appointment as many have been in the regular army years before receiving a sergeantcy and many never reaching the place regardless of hard work for it. Abbott was being looked to as the captain of the local company when Captain E. O. Richardson retires. He is well posted in military drill and discipline and will undoubtedly make good in the regular army.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Lizzie Shultz and Mr. John Selanders.

Waldo, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Mr. John Selanders and Miss Lizzie Shultz were married, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shultz, east of town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Sprackelen, and the wedding march was played by the bride's cousin, Miss Eva Miller. Miss Mame Felty and Mr. Harry Shultz, brother of the bride, the attendants. About thirty guests were in attendance. After a fine dinner the young people left for Cincinnati to visit relatives until the last of the week, when they will return and make their home with the groom's parents for the present. Mrs. Selanders is a popular young lady and Mr. Selanders is one of the young business men of the village. He conducts a restaurant and ice-cream parlor.

People can spend more money on a musical education, and have less to show for t afterward, than anything else on earth.

THE LAW COMPELS THE DEFICIT FOUND

Officers Obliged To Spend Money Unlawfully.

THE GREAT NEED OF A BETTER UNDERSTANDING

The Legislative and the Administrative Offices Should be in Close Touch To Avoid Blunders Such as Is Made Recently in Passing an Important Measure.

Conditions that have just been made public at the offices of the attorner general and adjutant general of Ohio illustrate the need of greater co-operation by the legislature with the administrative offices of the state. After a bit of bombastic preliminary, the newspapers were supplied a few days ago with criticisms by an auditing committee on the expenditure of public money in these offices. The criticisms said in substance: "This money is gone; see that the state is reimbursed."

No effort seems to have been made by the auditing committee to inquire into the facts concerning the alleged deficiencies. The statement is made that the heads of the two departments principally affected disbursed money without authority of law. But the legislature, by its action, has created a peculiar condition whereby it is practically impossible for the departments to conduct the work for which they are created, without some payment being made outside the strict interpretation of the statutes.

In the case of the attorney general's office the alleged deficiency is easily explainable. The attorney general is supplied with a small number of assistants, entirely inadequate to the needs of the office. He is given authority, in emergency cases, to employ special counsel. Of necessity the special counsel must be men of learning and ability and must be paid accordingly. Again, the law compels the attorney general to return to the state treasurer on Feb. 15, all money remaining from his year's appropriation.

Must Pay Bills.

It frequently happens that special aid is employed in important litigation. At the time of the employment the attorney general still has funds appropriated by the legislature at his disposal, sufficient to pay all the charges made against his office. The litigation extends over a longer period than was anticipated, perhaps running two or three years. The claims of the special attorneys are just and well earned. When these bills are paid, the attorney general is placed in the position of disobeying the law by paying for assistance that the law specifically authorizes him to employ.

Complaint is made that the adjutant general has exceeded the amount fixed by the legislature for use in his department. Examining the charges, practically the same condition is met. For instance, the law says the state troops must encamp 14 days every year. The adjutant general must buy food for the men, provender for the animals, provide tentage, pay for transportation and the daily wage of the men. These expenses are fixed and vary slightly from year to year; or only vary so much as the National Guard charges in size. Another law says the department must pay the men 25 cents a night for the weekly drill. These drill payrolls amount to $52,000 a year.

In the two sections of the National Guard law just enumerated, a certain expense is entailed on the adjutant general; an expense that may be acurately calculated from one year to another. The head of the department is compelled by law to spend so much money and he would be violating the law if he curtailed the length of the annual encampment or diminished the amount paid to the members of the Guard for their weekly drill. If, knowing the fixed expenses of the adjutant general, the legislature appropriates for his use a less sum than the law compels him to spend, he cannot be harshly criticized if his report shows a deficiency equal to the difference between his appropriation and his authorized expenditure.

A careful summary of the report of the auditing committee shows that all the deficiencies it charges are due to uncontrolable conditions; that they are fixed charges against the offices that the legislature failed to provide for—charges demanded by law. If the departments do not spend the money they violate one law, and if they do they obey another law.

Pearl Farming.

E. R. Jefferson of Duluth, Mich., has devised a scheme for treating clams so each may prove a pearl bearer. He made a study of the pearl question as applied to bivalves and ascertained the scientific theory of the origin of the pearl in shellfish. Then he figured the cultivation of the gems was possibly a practical venture. Mr. Jefferson actually has grown some pearls, although they are small. It remains to be seen with lapse of time if large ones cannot be cultivated.

Edward Craycroft of Kansas City, Mo., has compiled a multiplication table by means of which the sum of any number from 1 to 100, multiplied by any number from 1 to 100, may be obtained at a glance. He has applied for a copyright.

FORCED!

We are FORCED to slaughter our entire stock, consisting of $39,000 worth of Dry Goods, Shoes, Hardware, Glassware, Graniteware, Furnishings for men, women and children, and turn this great stock into cash in 10 days. The most mighty sale ever attempted on the largest and most complete stock of its kind in the state.

W. B. DeVeny's Great Racket Store Stock,

MARION, OHIO

Never before in Ohio's history was there ever inaugurated such a mighty slaughter sale under one roof where thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of fine merchandise will be almost given away. The magnitude of this mighty event can not be appreciated unless you attend and let your eyes be the judges. It may not seem possible that an immense stock is to be slaughtered so ridiculously, but it is the gospel truth and we merely ask you to test the veracity of our statements by attending this wonderful output of dependable, seasonable goods. This is not a sale on unseasonable goods, but a legitimate cut price sale on every dollar's worth of goods in this great building, including new fall and winter goods of all descriptions. Don't class this gigantic sale with any of the so-called sales that have or will be put on here, for we must and will convert this great stock into cash at once and we realize the fact that low prices alone will do it. We also know that it means a great loss to us, but our loss is your gain and the most bonafide cut price sale ever known will begin Wednesday, August 26th, at 9 a. m. A SALE WITHOUT A PARALLEL—a list of prices never seen before. In order to rearrange and mark down in price each and every little article in this mammoth stock we will close our store Saturday night, August 22nd, and will not open and no one except our large force of salespeople will be allowed in our store building until the grand opening day, when everything will be in readiness, marked down in price and in plain figures and conspicuously displayed for your inspection. Don't buy one dollar's worth of goods until you have attended this great sale, where the MOST MIGHTY AVALANCHE OF MAJESTIC BARGAINS ever known will be found. Don't destroy this circular, but READ IT—SAVE IT—and BRING IT WITH YOU, so there can be no mistake and you get exactly the goods advertised. Remember, this is only a few of the many thousands of bargains to be had at this great distribution of this entire stock. The opening day will be the banner day. Lay aside your business and attend and if you do not find everything as represented we will gladly pay you for your trouble

SOLDIERS QUELL LAWLESS SPIRIT

Outbreaks at Springfield Are of Minor Nature.

TWO VICTIMS MORE SUCCUMB TO WOUNDS

Private Klein Held Blameless by Court of Inquiry.

Kills Young Man at Kankakee—An Attempt To Cut Fire Alarm Wires Is Nipped in the Bud—Fleeing Negroes Spread Terror Through the Country Regions About Springfield—Many Sleep at Arsenal.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—Fire and riot alarms were numerous during the early part of the night, but in no single case was there any circumstance which compelled the use of force. A fire early in the evening at East Mason and Fourth streets brought out the largest crowd, but it was composed mostly of curiosity seekers and was handled easily. Three barns were destroyed by fire, which is supposed to have been started by mischievous boys.

Two deaths from injuries received in previous mob fights, the attempted cutting of fire alarm and telephone wires at the city hall, the exoneration of Private J. B. Klein, Company A, First Illinois Infantry, by a court of inquiry for the killing of Earl Nelson at Kankakee and the pursuit of a mob by guardsmen were the chief developments in the race war in Springfield.

The attempt to cut the telephone and fire alarm wires leading into the city hall was not successful. A policeman saw three men on top of an outbuilding, trying to reach the lines overhead. He turned in an alarm to the headquarters of General Wells, commanding a provisional brigade, and the latter dispatched a wagonload of soldiers to the scene. They arrived before the trio had done any damage. The would-be wirecutters fled, leaving their nippers behind. They escaped.

Two deaths due to the violence of Friday and Saturday occurred at St. John's hospital. William Donnigan, the aged colored man whose throat was cut, expired at 11 o'clock. Frank Delmore, who was shot through the lungs on Friday night, died an hour later. This brings the list of violent deaths during the race troubles up to five.

Say Klein Did Right.

The court of inquiry which considered Private Klein's case was composed of Major James Miles, Captains Jacob Judson and S. F. High and Lieutenant F. A. Gulliford, all of the First Illinois. After sitting all day they reported to Adjutant General Scott that Klein's act was performed in the strict line of duty. Klien had been placed as one of a guard of baggage car on the first section of the Illinois Central train which brought the First infantry to Springfield. The train was a special one and the baggage car contained property owned by the state. Klein, guarding the front door, was instructed by Lieutenant Gulliford to allow no one not officially countenanced to enter the car. At Kankakee four young men, according to the report, climbed to the front platform and attempted to enter the car. Klein barred the way, using the only weapon available—a bayonet. As the train started the four youths left the platform. Klein was not aware that Nelson or any one had been injured.

Four Thousand Guardsmen Present.

With the arrival here of the Second and Seventh infantry regiments, I. N. G., and two squadrons of the First cavalry, all from Chicago, the entire National Guard of Illinois, with the exception of the Sixth infantry and the Eighth infantry (colored), is on duty in the riot-ridden districts. In all, 4,200 guardsmen are in the city.

A council of war was held at the capitol by Governor Deneen, Adjutant General Scott, General F. P. Wells and Colonel H. B. Sanborn.

At a conference in the governor's office steps were taken to notify the negro residents of the s[illegible] tricts to come in to the state arsenal for the night. The scattered settlements extending around the outskirts of the city present too great a field for even the big body of troops now here.

Numerous Attacks Planned.

Another factor in this connection was the large number of warnings of impending trouble. At all the principal stations word was received that attacks were being organized by the lawless element, who, with a complete day of rest, were expected to make the night the time of supreme test between the mob and the troops. Several complaints were received from nearby villages and hamlets of the existence of threatening conditions. The most insistent came from Chatham, a village 12 miles south of here. The negroes there had become frightened at the attitude of their white neighbors and asked that troops be sent. Their spokesman was told that the best plan would be for them to come to Springfield and seek protection at the arsenal.

The authorities are a bit worried by the conditions in the outside sections. Scores of negroes have left Springfield, either on foot or by trolley cars, the latter class riding as far as their means permitted and then striking across country. These tramping parties, aimless and penniless, are causing some complaints from the communities through which they pass. The whites assert that the presence of these negro paupers imposes unnecessary burdens, and also argue that only the shiftless and immoral portions of the Springfield negroes are represented. Minor depredations, it is said, have already increased in the farming districts because of this condition.

Militia Kept on Jump.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—Outbursts of lawlessness in various parts of the city and increased symptoms that the mob spirit still rules Springfield, were followed by the issuing of six proclamations by Governor Deneen, offering rewards aggregating $1,200, for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of the riot victims. The death list now numbers seven, but since one death was due only indirectly to the disturbances, no official notice has been taken of it.

Two More Are Dead.

The two new victims were J. W. Scott and a three-weeks-old negro girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Paine of Springfield. The baby succumbed to exposure when its parents started to walk from Springfield to Pittsfield in an effort to avoid persecution. Scott died in a hospital of wounds received Friday night.

Several scattered sections were in an uproar at different times during the early part of the night. The storm center was Harvard park, where the troops were called on former occasions. Two militiamen were fired upon there from ambush, but neither was hit. Shots were also heard in other sections of the park, which is a new suburb adjoining the city on the southeast. Over in the western end of town, in the vicinity of the statehouse and arsenal, there were several cases of revolver firing by rowdies. The marauders traveled in groups of two and three.

Asks People to Help.

Governor Deneen also issued an address to the citizens of Springfield, as follows: "A special grand jury was called by Hon. James A. Creighton, for the purpose of conducting an investigation into the crimes which occurred here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last. All evidence relating to these crimes should be presented to the grand jury at once, and I urge upon all good citizens to present such evidence as they may have, or information which they may possess or acquire, to the Hon. Frank Hatch, state's attorney of Sangamon county, or to General Edward C. Young, in charge of the military forces here, regarding any crimes which have been committed during that time. It is the duty of citizens so to do, and in view of the extraordinary crimes which have occurred in the city of Springfield during the time mentioned, every good citizen should exert himself that their perpetrators and those who aided and abetted, advised or encouraged their perpetration, are brought to speedy justice."

W. H. Bowe, clerk in the county treasurer's office and one of the most popular citizens of Springfield, is slowly sinking from the effects of the bullet wounds and the beating he received from a crowd of negroes Friday night. Bowe's friends have warned the authorities that "Billy" will be avenged, and the event of his death will cause a redoubling of vigilance by the troop commanders.

NO WORD RECEIVED FOR LAST FIVE DAYS

From Miss Annie S. Peck, Famous Mountain Climber.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 20.—No word has been received for five days from Miss Annie S. Peck, the famous woman mountain climber who, after breaking the moutain climbing record by scaling Mount Huascaran, 25,000 feet high, set out for the peaks of other high ranges. Miss Peck was accompanied by two Alpine guides, and the gravest fears are entertained that some mishap has befallen the party. Searching parties started out today and if no word is received soon, an organized army will hunt over all the mountains that it would have been possible for Miss Peck to reach since last heard from.

FLAMES DRIVE RESCUERS BACK

After Twenty Bodies Are Recovered from Mine,

IN WHICH EIGHTY MEN ARE ENTOMBED

Terrible Explosion Causes Awful Life Loss.

Of the Eighty Men in the Maypole Colliery Near Wigan, England, When the Explosion Occurs, but Four Escape—Effort Is Now Being Made To Subdue the Flames—Rescue Party Is Overcome by Gas.

Wigan, England, Aug. 19.—After the recovery today of twenty burned and mutilated bodies from the Maypole colliery, where a terrible explosion occurred yesterday evening, flames drove the rescuers back, with between fifty and sixty bodies still unrecovered.

Heoric efforts are now being made to subdue the flames so that the rescuing party can reenter the wrecked mine, but there is no hope of finding any of the entombed men alive.

The rescuers are working against fearful odds and at imminent risk of losing their own lives in the flames and gases that fill the mine. The men are equipped with an oxygen apparatus. Many were overcome by the fumes and brought to the top of the mine unconscious. Eighty men were in the mine when the explosion occurred, and but four escaped. Most of the bodies recovered are either headless or limbless, showing the terrific force of the explosion. Many mine ponies were also dismembered.

A frenzied and grief-stricken mob, after an all-night vigil at the mine, is still hovered near the shaft, vainly hoping that some of the entombed miners may yet be alive.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

A party of seven rescuers that attempted to reenter the mine this afternoon was overcome by gas and is now in a critical condition. They were dragged out of the mine unconscious by a second party of rescuers, one of whom is also at the point of death. The mine is choking with noxious gas, this phase of the explosion being more pronounced than in any previous mine explosion in England.

Later in the day still another party of rescuers entered the mine. Midway down the shaft, they found that the roof of the mine had fallen in, completely blockading the entrance to the place, where the miners are entombed.

It will require many days to remove this wreckage, and before the entombed men can be reached they will have starved to death even if they are not already dead from the explosion and asphyxiation, which is altogether probable.

HEALTH OFFICERS HOLD CONFERENCE

Matter of a Site for the Slaughter Houses.

Paul Nanson, assistant engineer of the state board of health, was up from Columbus, Tuesday, and met with the township trustees and Health Officer Chapman. The matter of the slaughter-houses using the brewery ditch was the main subject of the conference. The engineer was given the story of the ditch. He suggested a remedy, as had been previously suggested by the local health officer. It was that the slaughter-houses should be so located that all could use the same sewer or outlet and in locating them, a site convenient to a large sewer should be selected.

A FARMER'S TRAP KILLS HIS MOTHER

She Receives the Contents of a Shotgun.

Eaton, O., Aug. 20.—A trap set by Frank Christman, farmer, for chicken thieves, led to the death of his mother, Mrs. Kate Christman, sixty-eight, Wednesday. Upon opening the gate she received a full discharge from a double-barreled shotgun. She died instantly.

A Jug and a Man.

Samuel Barrett was arrested in the North End, Wednesday night, by Captain Bond and Officer Hostetter on a warrant charging him with stealing a jug of vinegar from the buggy of Clarence Thrush. The affidavit against Barrett was filed by the owner of the rig. Thrush carried the jug to the buggy, which was in front of Carpenter's saloon on north Main street. Barrett thought the jug contained whisky. During the absence of Thrush, he took the jug, and on finding that it contained vinegar he left it at a saloon on north Main street. When arraigned before the mayor Barrett pleaded guilty to the theft and sentence was reserved.

FORAKER INVITED TO SPEAK IN EAST

Chairman Hitchcock Writes That He Is Anxious To Have Him.

New York, Aug. 20.—President Roosevelt today entertained at luncheon Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock of the national committee, James S. Sherman, candidate for vice president, and a number of other men prominent in Republican politics. Among other subjects considered were certain important issues to be discussed during the campaign.

An effort was made by Mr. Hitchcock to communicate with Senator Foraker of Ohio, who was in the city on business, but he had gone to Washington. Before leaving the city the senator indicated that he would speak in support of the Republican ticket if invited to do so under the auspices of the national committee, notwithstanding he had not been invited to speak in the Ohio campaign by the men in charge of the work in his state. Chairman Hitchcock will request the senator to address some important meetings in the east. Failing to reach the senator here he telegraphed to Washington inviting him to visit headquarters when he is again in the city and expressing the wish that he might find it convenient to be here soon.

Senator Foraker repeated the assertion that he felt humiliated at not having been invited to speak at Youngstown at the opening of the Ohio campaign. He said that, regardless of the difficulties he had had with the administration concerning certain questions of policy, he stood ready to do whatever he could to advance the interests of the national ticket.

CASE OUTLINED BY ATTORNEY

Hains' Lawyer Makes Statement for Publication.

WIFE'S VERSION OF CONFESSION DENIED

Attorney Also Denies Any Story of Challenge.

Major John Powell Hains Says Annis Should Have Been Killed Like a Snake—Denies That He and T. Jenkins Hains Instigated the Crime—Say That They Advised Against It for Sake of Parents.

New York, Aug. 20.—That William E. Annis, who was killed at Bayside, L. I., last Saturday, came to his death as a result of pistol shot wounds inflicted by Captain Peter S. Hains, Jr., U. S. A., aided and abetted by Thornton Jenkins Hains, was the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury after having been out 22 minutes. Before the inquest John F McIntyre, chief of counsel for the Hains brothers, made the following statement: "In answer to the statement made by Mrs. Hains that she was made to sign a confession while under the influence of drugs, I wish to say that my clients and their distinguished father have told me that there were four witnesses present when the confession was made, one of them being a prominent New York lawyer. These witnesses will testify at the trial. I am also told that Mrs. Hains talked to several persons regarding the incidents related in the confession some time before she made it, and these persons will be witnesses.

Believed His Wife.

"When Captain Hains was called back from the Philippines he questioned his wife regarding rumors he had heard about her, and he became convinced that his suspicions were wrong. Later, he said, facts developed which made him demand the confession from his wife, and she made it.

"Captain Hains denies that he sent letters to Annis challenging him to a duel. The stories to this effect are absurd. What unbalanced Captain Hains' mind were the countercharges made by Mrs. Hains in a suit she filed in answer to his suit for divorce. Captain Hains believed the statements made by Mrs. Hains in the countersuit were dictated by Annis."

Major John Powell Hains made a statement before the inquest. He was asked if he thought his brother was justified in shooting Annis without giving him a chance to protect himself.

No Better Than a Snake.

"I can best answer that question by recalling an incident that happened to me at Fort Riley," he said. "I was about to put on my boot one morning when I found a snake in it. I quickly drew my revolver and shot the snake. It is the same with my brother; I do not believe he should have given Annis a chance."

"Knowing what you do of the case, would you do the same thing?" he was asked.

"I most certainly would," he answered, emphatically.

"Is it true, as the district attorney says, that your brother, Thornton Jenkins, instigated the shooting?" he was asked.

"Not at all," he replied. "For a long time Thornton and myself have tried to dissuade our brother from killing Annis for the sake of our gray-haired father and mother. Out of consideration for them our brother restrained himself, but finally the strain became too great and he acted. Peter would have killed Annis sooner had it not been for this."

Ready for Reconciliation.

New York, Aug. 20.—Capping the statement of John F. McIntyre, counsel for Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., that the latter's wife made three confessions to her faithlessness, one of which she signed, comes the report today that Mrs. Hains is ready for a reconciliation with her husband. If the clayer of William E. Annis will consent to it, it is said, Mrs. Hains will take the stand in his defense and give startling testimony which will prove the justification claimed by the army officer for the shooting of Annis.

As outlined by the prisoner's attorney, this justification will not only be found in the alleged wrongs to Mrs. Hains at the hands of Annis, but in the blight and the disgrace which threatened to fall on the captain's children through the accusation Annis is said to have induced Mrs. Hains to bring.

According to Hains' attorney, it was the knowledge of his helplessness to defend himself from the charges of degeneracy and loathsome practices inspired by Annis that drove Captain Hains to the point of frenzy where his mind gave way and he became a murderer. It is said that while he was confident that Annis could never get any standing in court with his charges, Captain Hains dreaded the taint of suspicion which would necessarily hang over him if such charges were ever brought.

Purpose of Intimation.

While no statement has been made of her willingness to aid in her husband's defense, the intimation given out by Mrs. Hains are believed to have been for the purpose of inspiring Captain Hains to offer her reconciliation.

Attorney McIntyre, when seen today, declaring that if Mrs. Hains wished to come to her husband's assistance, the latter would be glad to accept her services, but that the only thing she could do would be to take the stand and reiterate the statements she is alleged to have made to the Hains family, and more especially those contained in the signed confession.

"It is our full intention to make public at the proper time the full text of Mrs. Hains' confession," said Attorney McIntyre today, "and when it comes, it will produce the greatest sensation that has broken in a criminal case in New York in the last twenty-five years. They say New Yorkers are cold-blooded, but we will see that this document does not prove that people even here realize that there are some things a man must settle for himself. In view of the fact that the confession was signed in the presence of five reputable witnesses, I don't think we will have much trouble in disproving Mrs. Hains' alleged statement that the confession was wrung from her at the point of a revolver while she was drugged.

Her Many Confessions.

"Not only will the written confession be introduced but the witnesses who were present at three previous verbal confessions by Mrs. Hains will tell of her admissions, which, in themselves, furnish sufficient justification in the minds of any red-blooded American of Captain Hains' act.

"All three of these confessions were made before different people."

The story of Mrs. Hains' alleged confessions as given out today is a dramatic recital of her loneliness following her husband's going to the Philippines, of her looking to her husband's friend for companionship and of his betrayal of that friend, and of the wife as well. It is related how the young wife was taught to smoke cigarets and to drink liquor by her alleged betrayer, and how finally after succumbing to his wiles, she sinned again and again. It is alleged that an effort will be made to show that as a result of her relations with Annis, Mrs. Hains underwent an operation, the expenses of which were borne by Annis. It is also said that when the full statements of the wife are made public, a reason will be set forth for the willingness of the aged parents of Captain Hains to give up the youngest of the three children, for whose possession Mrs. Hains is now fighting.

A GREAT CALAMITY MAY BE REPEATED

Increasing Forest Fires and Towns Fighting for Life.

Cranbrook, B. C., Aug. 20.—Fear is growing today that the great calamity of Elk valley will be repeated in this section at any moment on account of increasing forest fires in all directions. The sky is obscured by smoke and the roar of flames coming from the neighboring hills, are drowning all other sounds. Kimberly, Moyer and other small mountain towns are fighting for their very existence. Refugees are flocking to this city from the surrounding fire zone, having deserted their homes to the flames.

WEARS A PLUME IN HER STOCKING

But It Doesn't Tickle Mrs. Ethel Price a Bit.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Just because Mrs. Ethel Price, who shone brightly at an exclusive military hop on Alcatraz island here last night, chose to vary the fashion and wear an ostrich plume in her stocking, society here today is discussing the most sensational episode of years and Mrs. Price is under $50 bail for theft. The plume belonged to Mrs. Mabel Bates, also a guest at the hop.

When Mrs. Bates missed her plume, there was a great todo. "Search them all," she declared, and while the ball was stopped, they did. The plume was found in Mrs. Price's stocking. But still, she was not tickled to death.

GOVERNOR ISSUES HIS PROCLAMATION

Monday, September 7, Will Be Labor Day.

Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—Governor Harris, Wednesday, proclaimed Monday, September 7, as Labor day. In his proclamation he says the general assembly has most properly provided for this holiday for those who labor, "a day given over to the celebration of the ever-growing dignity, prestige and importance of the working classes."

"Labor conquers everything," quotes the governor.

It is asked that all business be put aside by the people of Ohio on the day designated to pay a fitting tribute to those who toil.

JAPS HANG A REBEL DAILY

In Every Important City Outside the Capital.

EXECUTIONS BEGIN THREE WEEKS AGO

Foreigners Told That the Victims Are Brigands.

To the Natives, However, It Is Made Clear That the Men Hanged Are Political Offenders with Whom the Authorities Deal Less Leniently Than with Common Criminals. Court-Martial Provides Victims.

Seoul, via Tientsin, Aug. 19.—To terrify Korea into obedience to the Mikado, Japan is publicly hanging a rebel daily in every important city outside the capital. The executions began three weeks ago.

The wily Japanese authorities give the foreigners to understand that the victims and brigands. To the natives, however, it is made clear that the men hanged are political offenders and that the authoritics are more strongly disposed to deal leniently with common criminals than with those in arms against Japan. That there may be no interruption in the hangings, all rebels captured are courtmartialed, condemned and doled out as the authorities at the various towns call for them. They are executed with all the publicity possible. Official reports say the Korean revolutionists have murdered 841 Japanese, or pro—Japanese Koreans in the last year, besides the Mikado's soldiers killed in actual battle.

The number of rebels slain in the field in the same time is placed at 16,000. It is conceded that practically no headway has been made toward the establishment of order in the southern interior.

HARRY D. MORRILL FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

A Victim of Epidemic Which Spreads Over City.

H. D. Morrill, of Bellefontaine avenue, a traveling salesman for the J. F. Lust Confectionary Manufacturing company, was the victim of a severe attack of the epidemic of grip or tonsilitis which is going the rounds of the city.

Mr. Morrill was at work at the office of the company, Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock. He was left in the office alone for about ten minutes and, on the return of one of the employes, was found unconscious. Dr. J. A. McMurray was called to attend him and reported that Mr. Morrill had been to his office at noon and secured medicine for his trouble. He ordered his immediate removal to his home. The unfortunatte man was given three hyperdermic injections and it was not until 4 o'clock Thursday morning that he regained consciousness. Since that time he has fallen into intermittent stupors. Mr. Morrill is a sufferer of bowel trouble and it is believed that this has added a dangerous complication.

DOESN'T EVEN TAKE A VOTE

Minnesota Democratic Convention Acts Quickly.

RENAMES JOHNSON FOR STATE EXECUTIVE

The Renomination Is Made by Acclamation.

Convention Is in an Uproar—Demonstration Lasts for an Hour and in Intensity Rivals the Scene at the Denver Convention When Bryan's Name Was Mentioned as a Candidate for the Presidency.

Minneapolis, Aug. 20.—The Democratic state convention, after one of the most notable demonstrations ever witnessed at a political gathering, renominated John A. Johnson for governor by acclamation. When the roll of counties was called for nominations, Aitken county yielded to Ramsey county. Mayor Daniel W. Lawler of St. Paul took the platform and at the conclusion of 10 words mentioned the name of John A. Johnson. This was the signal for the demonstration. Hennepin county tore up its standard and started a wild march about the hall. Everybody else seemed to join in. The standards were carried about and some grouped themselves on the stage about the picture of Governor Johnson. Band music added to the pandemonium and candidates yelled and cheered for Johnson. Frank A. Day, the governor's secretary, ran out of the building to a telephone to get into communication with the governor at the capitol. Minute after minute sped by, but still the delegates yelled excitedly, waved banners, carried the picture of the governor about the hall and practically duplicated the demonstration given to Bryan at Denver. "Marching Through Georgia" and "Cheer, Cheer, the Gang's All Here," were played in rapid succession by the band, and still the crowd yelled. The galleries, which were well filled, joined in the demonstration. After the demonstration had lasted over an hour, order was restored and Governor Johnson was declared the nominee by acclamation.

INTERESTING TALKS GIVEN AT INSTITUTE

Marion County Teachers Get Much of Value.

THE PROGRESS OF WORK OF THE WEEK

The Instructors Secured for the Week Take Up Matters of Real Value to the Teachers and Discuss Them in a Practical Way—Some Notes of the Institute.

The annual meeting of the Marion County Teachers' institute was opened, Monday morning, at the High school building with nearly 240 members present. The week's session promises to be one of the best in the history of the institute. The leaders in this week's program are men of ability and prominence.

The morning session was opened with A. B. Jones, principal of the Prospect High school, presiding, and Miss Alice Louise Dombaugh of the local schools serving as secretary.

M. V. O'Shea, of Madison, Wisconsin, as one of the instructors, gave an interesting discourse on "Errors in the School Room." His remarks were heard by an appreciative audience.

C. H. Albert, of Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, the other instructor, gave an instructive talk on "Five Important Steps in the Teaching Process." Mr. Albert has an enviable standing in institute work and his address contained much of value.

During the afternoon session, Mr. Albert spoke on the topic, "Are We Doing It?" He gave a pleasing talk on the general duties of the teacher. Mr. O'Shea's topic was "Silent Forces in Life and Education." He had an attentive audience. The general question box closed the day's program. During the two sessions musical numbers were rendered.

Monday Afternoon.

The afternoon session of the first day's program of the Marion County Teachers' institute was full of interesting and instructive thoughts by the Speakers O'Shea and Albert. Both of the gentlemen are experienced in this line of work and the teachers in attendance are more than pleased with their efforts.

The session was opened with a song by the assemblage. Mr. Albert gave an interesting talk under the caption "Are We Doing It?" The thoughts he expressed were received with keen appreciation.

Mr. O'Shea's address "Silent Forces in Life and Education," was full of deep thought, and his expressions as to psychological inductive and deductive reasoning in the work of a teacher contained much for the instruction of the practical and successful teacher. The speaker said it was a fact that all thought finds expression through general conduct. He expressed the belief that the policy of holding up a "Don't" to the pupil would tend to inbue them with an ambition to "Do." Illustrating this point he called Mr. Jones, the presiding officer of the institute to stand up before the assembly on the rostrum. He then admonished the teachers not to look at Mr. Jones. Then he pointed out those who were staring directly at the president. He declared that the illustration clearly proved his argument. He did not think a man's character fathomable from what the man consciously does. He held that obedience should be an automatic response. He advised against giving negative rules in the school room, but suggested it practical to give rules as to what could be done. He thought experience in the study of human nature proved that negation generally was a challenge. He thought a masculine influence was needed more and more in the schools; because it is a fact that pupils respect strength. He concluded by saying that the suggestion of power is a great factor in obtaining discipline.

Miss Marguerite Krause gave a piano solo during the intermission. It was much enjoyed.

Tuesday Morning.

A session of the Marion County Teachers' institute was opened with a good attendance, Tuesday. The program was replete with interesting and instructive numbers and the addresses by M. V. O'Shea and C. M. Albert were much enjoyed.

The program was opened with devotional exercises, led by Rev. L. C. Reed. This was followed by a song in which all joined.

During the first period Mr. O'Shea talked on "Active Nature and Needs of Childhood." He said, that the mind and other important factors in the composition of human nature are such that we learn not so much by what we see and hear as by the things we feel. He described in clear and comprehensive style just what the impulses of nature really are. He elaborated on the constant conflict between the adult and child. He thought that it was evident to everybody who had made any study at all of nature, that a child loves, or rather craves action. This craving is so strong that it must have action. It is a natural adjunct to the make-up of a child. The adult, liberal as he may be, fails to thoroughly grasp the situation, especially from the child's point of view. The general effects of organized society in its usual conditions are such that the childs intuitive efforts to live out its natural impulses are thwarted to a great degree. In the school room, the speaker said, experience shows that the child must experience the subjects taught, to fully comprehend and successfully cope with the ultimate results of the education. He showed what dangerous results follow the efforts of instructors and teachers to suppress the motor tendencies in pupils. He was emphatic in his conclusion that any teaching which does not give a child an actual experience is ineffectual.

After a short recess Mr. Albert gave an address which was full of practical information on "Geography." He insisted that it was impossible to learn by definition. The understanding of nature in its very self is an important factor in a comprehensive grasping or learning of a subject in question. He emphasized how important is the studying of astronomy, geology, mineralogy, botany, and zoology to successfully comprehend the points incidental to the study of geography. Geography, he said, is a study of life. To thoroughly grasp the real thoughts of the world, as a study, a child must appreciate the home surroundings and environment in the most intricate detail.

Tuesday Afternoon.

The Tuesday afternoon session of the institute was opened with a song by the teachers, followed by a short address by Charles Argenbright, of Miami university, who talked on the merits of that institution and possibilities for teachers who attend.

After the calling of the roll by the secretary, Miss Dombaugh, Mr. O'Shea enlarged upon his morning talk on "Education for Life." "As the great naturalist, Burbank, of Santa Rosa, California, sees the young plant reproduce all the traits of its ancestors so the young child lives the characteristics of an earlier life," he said. "The education of a child is not a matter of expansion, but a transformation. As Burbank must break up the habits of the ancesteral plant to make possibilities for a new species, so the child, in becoming adult, gradually loses many of his primitive tendencies. The child expresses himself in a narrow, vigorous way, and puts a great deal of force into all action. This is shown in his voice. He loves loudness. A three-months-old child cannot utter a consonant sound. As he grows older, and can express himself in a larger range, he can control fundamental action. The attitudes of primitive man are forceful. When the adult is angry, he falls back 1,000 years in racial development. In observing a man becoming intoxicated you see him fall back to babyhood and primitive man, so to speak. He, like the child, then has none of the finer and intricate sensibilities. The child in his first years has little if any power with his thumb. This is so with the drunken man. Nature destroys a man in the way in which she builds him up, and thus the fundamental tendencies are the last destroyed.

"In reforming the imbecile, the fundamental tendencies are taught first—to walk, climb, throw, etc.'

After a short intermission Mr. Albert continued his morning talk on "Geography." Mr. Albert does not believe in learning of cities as black dots in a map. The old idea that we should study geography and learn three definitions is done away with by the best educators.

"The child should study the world in a relative way. He must know the environment of a country to learn of its people, cities, products, etc.," said the speaker. "He should know where his home is in respect to the rest of the world, and the physical effects. Teaching is bad teaching, which does not make the child see God every day. A good teacher," the speaker said, "could get a better geography lesson in studying the history of a brick than in that mechanical bounding of a state."

In studying the subject in this way Mr. Albert insisted that one gets out of the grind, of learning things by heart from the book.

Mr. O'Shea then illustrated his talk with maps and various collections of plates, of silk development, bees, etc.

After roll call the question box was conducted by Mr. O'Shea and many profitable questions were discussed.

Wednesday Morning.

The third session of the Marion County Teachers' institute was opened this morning at 9 o'clock.

Rev. D. H. Bailey led in devotions and gave a short talk on the teachers' part in the temperance work. He said he would like to suggest an address for Friday morning by Judge Blair of Portsmouth, who will be in the city at that time. Judge Blair has some good pointers for teachers from his past experience in court life. A motion made to have the address was carried.

C. H. Albert took a few minutes from his lecture to tell of his experiences in the temperance cause and predicted that no legal saloon would be in evidence south of the Mason and Dixon line fifty years hence. In taking up the subject of geography Mr. Albert said that teachers should try as much as possible to vitalize the subject, to have the child understand the life of the world is his life, and how he is dependent upon it in his life. In comparing some examples of work on a farm, he declared that work on the farm or in school of the intensive nature was far better than "scatteration." In telling of his methods of treating a geography lesson, he displayed a large collection of specimens used in his class to familiarize the student with the industry of the world. He then went on to trace the finished shoe from the soil up, the kind of soil needed for best pasture, showing that best pasture produces best cattle, best cattle the best leather and so on. A specimen of the each step of the finished shoe was shown to the teachers as were photographs of other industries used in his class. One very interesting specimen was that of the cocoanut. He showed that nature had protected the nut with cushion hulk because of the height of its growth, hence a protection in falling. Exhibiting rope, mats, and kinds of cloth made from hulks, he showed what is done in the industrial world with so-called waste. In speaking of text books he assured the teachers that he certainly would make use of them in the study of geography. He did not want his students, however, to study a book from lid to lid, with no outside reading and observation. He would use his recitation period to create a hunger in his pupils and they would do the rest.

After an intermission Miss Dombaugh called the roll.

In opening his address, "Form versus Spirit," Mr. O'Shea asked his audience to think of the old world, of a world's infancy, growth, and decay. "In passing Gibraltar we get into the old world and see the remnants of a great civilization," he said. "Education means after all the survival of a nation. Rome, the center at one time of law, literature, and art, sank into decay. Visitors in Venice and Naples see the beautiful city of the past in the art galleries, but most fail to see the miserable signs of decay right under the galleries. When a nation or individual fails in self-support, decay sets in. Most Italian cities are in the last stages of decay. Compare the schools of Germany with those of Italy and you may find some reason. England is now trying to solve the problem of national decay. When a nation is new it is full of vigor. The fundamental principles of right and wrong are strong. When luxury and riches come, decay sets in."

Again speaking of the Italian school, he said:

"It is a place of privacy. Parents and visitors are excluded. The question comes to the American people, Will our nation follow the history of other nations in decay? As long as the parent, business man and people in general are allowed to take interest and part in the school system the system will improve."

The speaker urged that while formal and traditional teaching is necessary we must not have too much form.

Wednesday Afternoon.

After songs by the members of the institute, Mr. Albert talked, as in the morning, on the subject of "Geography."

"It has been said," remarked Mr. Albert, "by some one poetic in geography, that when the great mapmaker was making the map, He cut out places for all the great cities. If this saying is true, the continental contour of land, the flow of rivers, fertility, soil, etc., are all contributors to this great principle. Considering some of the great cities, we find their importance is largely a matter of their geography. Study New York City and Albany in an industrial sense and perceive the part the geography of these places plays in industrial importance.

"It is well to go about a geography lesson inductively. There is great truth in the teaching of Socrates, that 'you cannot teach by telling.'"

In discussing the great wheat sections, lumber sections, meat sections, etc., of our country, the speaker showed clearly how teachers in geography can give their students life problems bearing on their own home life. In developing his ideas on the teaching of geography, Mr. Albert brought out some facts worth being remembered by any one, whether teacher or not. England, he said, at one time bought wheat from Chicago for $1.25 a bushel, including freight. She bought and in other ways secured India, and got her wheat for fifty cents a bushel. It was the same story with her cotton.

After a short intermission, a quartet of ladies composed of Mrs. F. E. White, Mrs. Flora Kowalke and Miss Clara Kawalke and Miss Abigail Gast added to the pleasure of the teachers by giving several vocal selections.

"Exaltation Of Form Above Spirit" was the subject of Mr. O'Shea's afternoon talk. Before taking up the lecture, however, Mr. O'Shea told what he thought of the reading circle books and of their value to teachers.

Referring again to the Italian school, he pointed out the formality of their drawing and writing. The Italian child can draw and write with fine accuracy, and draw correctly with skill, but cannot make a reproduction as can many an American child. The Italians, he said, have lost the artistic feeling in drawing, because of their mode in teaching the subject of drawing. The Italian school room is unattractive. You can find more reproductions of Italian art beautifying an American school room than in the Italian room. Love of accuracy, declared Mr. O'Shea, is right in its place, but you can carry it too far. In drawing it is better to get a feeling for color and mass and so reproduce than to draw lines accurately. The American teacher of drawing, as a rule, tries to let the child have freedom of imagination and feeling rather than working for accuracy.

Touching formality in spelling, the speaker said, that spelling books are now being made on a plan of using words learned in sentences. The complaint we so often hear that the old time spellers excell those of today is not altogether true. Many of the technical words learned glibly from the old spelling book had no use in the vocabulary of use. We must be careful not to have our spelling too formal.

In reading the child should be taught to read with pleasure what he reads. If he does this, expression will come out without a formal drill. Nature is too subtle to teach expression formally. Good teachers do not dwell upon expression, but what the child is getting out of seeing. We must not exalt form above feeling urged O'Shea. Speaking of too much formality in grammar, he read some amusing definitions, which showed that the pupils who wrote them were remembering words with no idea of meaning.

With the opening and discussion of the question box by Mr. O'Shea, the teachers adjourned more delighted than ever with the efforts of their instructors.

Thursday Morning.

The fourth session of the Marion County Teachers' institute was opened, this morning, with the usual good attendance. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. P. Currin, of the First Baptist church. After a short address by a representation of the Ohio Teachers' federation, the teachers listened with interest to a discussion on the "Trend of the Teens," by Instructor O'Shea. "Shakespeare," he said, "very poetically told of the great periods of life, infancy, the school-boy creeping like a snail to school, youth singing ballads to his lady's eyebrows.

"Literature is full of the adulation of youth. It is the period of elasticity, of the birth of the soul. Experience shows that greatest impressions for good or evil are made during this crucial epoch in child life. Ask the minister or the man whose business it is to corrupt.

"No civilization has endured," declared Mr. O'Shea, "where the youth has matured early. This entirely offsets the often-heard-complaint, that our boys do not go to work early enough. The great salvation of our people is in lengthening the period of plasticity. The Italian boy has reached maturity generally at the age of fourteen. On the other hand the German boy as a general thing is kept in school far beyond the eight-year idea. The English, too, recognize the importance of this plan. As civilization increases the period of adolescence is lengthened. If our children developed as soon as the Indian, we would fall back to the civilization of our red brother. He spoke of a tendency in American life to put adult practices into child life. This is noticeable in High school and university life. The students ape the habits of adult life and thus lose youthful energy and docility. Nothing is worse than for any students, or persons either, to become blase. History becomes dull, science uninteresting and so our student falls to learn the great fundamental problems of the race. With a boy blase at nineteen or twenty, his own life becomes dominant and his attitude to other things to be learned is an attitude of resistance. Children must have pleasure, but not adult pleasure. Educators should urge parents not to have the High school boy or girl visit the ball-room, or permit the boys to ape adult habits of smoking, etc. In all professions we should try to keep plastic and not become to set in our knowledge and experiences."

Using the physician's life as an illustration of long preparation for his life work, Mr. O'Shea deplored the fact that teachers in a profession of such importance should as a rule go into their work so early and with comparatively small preparation. Discussing the physical changes of adolescence, he showed the teachers very clearly why some seemingly annoying tendencies in their growing boy or girl should be dealt with gently and tactfully by both parent and instructor. The speaker has made a great study of this very important subject.

Mr. Albert then gave a short talk on "Geography." He was asked, he said, by teachers, about formal examinations and questions in geography.

"What of the old-time method?" asked Mr. Albert, "when teachers said, 'Take your book and learn those definitions by heart.' Then she called the class to recite. Recite means tell back. 'Close your books,' said the teacher, but she did not close hers. Was that fair? Was there any sense in learning the length of the Ohio river when its length is not known definitely today?"

Such a method, he declared, is nonsense and again called for vital study in this as well as any subject.

The Enrollment.

The following teachers are in attendance at the institute:

Marion—Ruth Edwards, Elma Howser, Maude Coil, Beatrice Prior, Caroline Wanner, Bessie Moon, Ethel Howser, Gladys Humphrey, Flora A. Kowalke, Lillian Klinefelter, Clara M. MARION WEEKLY STAR.

BY W. G. HARDING.

SIXTEEN PAGES.

SATURDAY - - - - AUGUST 22

Colonel Bryan probably labors under the impression that the American voter admires perseverance above all things.

Although Candidate Chafin poses as the champion of temperance, that little incident in Springfield a few nights ago shows that he is also some shakes as a champion of protection.

Abraham Lincoln can not be blamed because the people of Springfield want to kill the people he made free. It is generally admitted that the place has run down some in the average of citizenship since the "Emancipator's" time.

There appears to be a wonderful unanimity of opinion among the candidates in regard to the propriety of accepting nominations.

The Philadelphia Ledger commenting on the length of the speeches of Taft and Bryan in accepting the presidential nominations of the two old parties points to the 200-word letter of acceptance of Lincoln and the 300-word Gettysburg speech which won him fame. But the Ledger should stop to remember that Lincoln's specialty was ideas and not words.

Although the physicians are not as one on the proposition, there is probably a preponderance of weight in favor of the proposition to boil the water at this season of the year and give a solar plexus to the typhoid germ.

Hardly a day passes that one does not come upon a reference to the state of Governor Harris' health. There is no occasion for alarm. It's simply a political game to cast a doubt upon his ability to stand the strain of another term in office. As a matter of fact, the governor is in far better condition than the kind of people who would resort to that kind of politics would have him.

Judging by reports occasionally received, it will be mighty poor politics on the part of Chairman Hitchcock to let it become known in the Hoosier literary belt that Candidate Taft eats pie with a fork.

Wonder how much the value of property fell off in Springfield as a result of last week's riots?

Is it the real greatness, suddenly developed, which makes some of our newspaper friends see so much strength in Mr. Johnson, of Minnesota, or simply another way to detract attention from the gifted son of Nebraska.

Springfield, Missouri; Springfield, Ohio; Springfield, Illinois. After all, there may be something in a name.

So Colonel Bryan is to make three speeches in Ohio. The colonel probably assumes that Judge Harmon's campaign has reached a stage where it can't be harmed.

Possibly those so-called Republicans down in Oklahoma who do not fancy Colonel Bryan's idea of financing a campaign by general subscription are afraid the thing may establish a precedent.

President Castro says the Kaiser is a man after his own style. Comes pretty near, that, affording a ground for war.

The Washington Post tells about an automobile which became unmanageable, jumped a brook, cleared a stone wall and landed right on the front porch of a poor house. If some of the stories we have heard about people mortgaging their homes to buy autos are not exaggerations, that's where a good many of their owners will land.

No one will question the absolute truth of Mr. Watson's statement—"Mr. Bryan has as much chance of being elected as I have."

How the old prejudices pass away. For instance, Republican National Chairman Hitchcock parts his hair in the middle, yet no one has denominated him a mollycoddle on that account.

Mr. Baldwin's dirigible balloon appears to be quite a success, as dirigible balloons go, but it's hardly probable that people will be mortgaging their homes to buy them before next season at least.

We wish to withdraw the unfeeling things we have said about that Indiana judge who decided that a nightgown was not a necessity. He was living up to his lights. It has since been discovered that he labored under the impression that a nightgown was a sort of a Jumbo "nightcap."

Those Youngstown scribes sent out a story Sunday about a petrified egg laid sixty years ago. Well, we have come upon some "fresh" eggs which petrification couldn't possibly have harmed and might have done some good.

A number of exchanges profess to see in the Hains-Annis tragedy a second Thaw-White case, but we are optimistic enough to hope that it will develop into nothing like the Madison Square tragedy trial. In the first place, New York is not the scene of the shooting and hence it will probably not be given the fictitious value which the news associations are so prone to give anything occurring in the metropolis. In the second place, there is no fifth-class actress in the case possessed of an overpowering desire to attain notoriety.

"Tennessee probably won't go Republican this year," says the Ohio State Journal, "but it is at least interesting to note that, just as soon as the Republican convention down there declared for state-wide prohibition, stories about natives being bitten by rattlesnakes began to appear in the papers." Evidently the claim of the scientists that whisky is not an antidote for snake bite has not reached the Tennesseeans.

Senator Burrows and Candidate Sherman were the first Republicans to get a chance to take a fall out of Colonel Bryan on his "Let the people rule," and they did it beautifully. The colonel had grown so pleased with the sound of his own voice that he must have forgotten and imagined this government of the people was his own invention. Mr. Bryan might be excused for forgetting Jefferson, but he ought to be up on the utterances of Lincoln, after whom his home town is named. If Mr. Bryan has just discovered that this is a government of the people, and has been from the immortal beginning, he is too consumed with self to ever make a good president. Even the soap fakir on the street sells his soap for the benefit of the dear people. The gag has been worked to a frazzle, and still the thinking people go majestically on, refusing to be buncoed.

It is a small crowd of small-fry politicians who are doing their best to muss up the Republican situation in Ohio. The August dullness is conducive to some zealous bidding for notoriety. The period of sober sense and promising harmony will come sooner or later. Just now we are hoping it will be sooner.

There is no great simmering in the political pot, but the county candidates are doing a little missionary work here and there which is expected to count in the November returns.

Ex-Governor Campbell is having such a lively time holding the center of the stage in Democratic hope-promotion meetings, that he is beginning to believe there is actuality in his second time on earth politically. The agreeable thing about it is that the ex-governor is personally a fine fellow and is now so really a returned citizen that even his political opponents refuse to get annoyed about the fuss he is making.

A ROMAN PROCESS TO PREVENT RUSTING

The Process Which Is Lost Many Years Will Preserve Iron Plates.

According to the English newspapers, Inspector Simpson of the Blackburn fire brigade in Lancashire has discovered a liquid which will prevent the deterioration of iron and all other material liable to rust. The new preservative is a paint, the principle of which is believed by experts to be an old Roman secret which has been lost to the world for 700 years.

The liquid, it is declared, will be of great value to shipping, as it will not only prevent the "weeping" or deterioration of inner skins of iron ships, which causes so much damage to cargoes, and applied to the bottom plates it not only prevents oxidation, but allows no marine growths or parasites to attach themselves, while producing and maintaining a glasslike surface, which the discover asserts will add several knots to the speed of Atlantic liners and warships.

A FORMER CALEDONIA BOY BADLY INJURED

Leslie Rinker Victim of Accident in St. Louis.

IS TERRIBLY BURNED BY ELECTRIC CURRENT

Clara May Kightlinger Dies at Home of Her Grandparents—Little One's Father Dies Three Months Ago. Sunday-Schools Arrange for a Big Picnic—Caledonia Notes.

Caledonia, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. George Rinker received word, Wednesday, of a serious accident which befell their son, Leslie, who is working in St. Louis. He is an expert track bondsman and was bonding the street car rails at Alton. While at work in the car barns it became necessary to test the machine. To do this, he was compelled to crawl beneath it and was at work when a workman placed a trolley on the wire overhead. The cries of Rinker attracted other workmen, who removed the trolley and rescued him from his perilous position. His right arm was frightfully bruised and amputation was thought at first necessary. A second telegram, later in the day stated that he was resting well.

Clara May, the nine-months-old daughter of Mrs. John Kightlinger, died at the home of its grandfather, G. W. Kightlinger, southeast of here, Friday morning. Death was caused by cholera infantum. The funeral was held from the residence, Sunday morning, and was conducted by Rev. James Gray. The remains were interred in the Caledonia cemetery by the side of the father, who died about three months ago.

PETTY SPITE WORK AGAINST A FARMER

Humane Officer Has a Fruitless Drive.

FARMER ACCUSED OF STARVING STOCK

Officer Is Given an Opportunity To Look Over Farm and Stock and Finds Everything in the Best of Order—Many Cases of Spite Work in the Country.

Humane Officer J. W. Ulsh drove ten miles into the country, Thursday afternoon, to investigate an alleged case of a farmer's terrible neglect of his stock only to learn that the report was without foundation and the farmer in question was being made the victim of petty spite work.

For several days the humane officer has received persistent reports that a certain farmer in Salt Rock township was starving to death his horses and other stock. Accompanied by a reporter for the Star, Officer Ulsh drove to the alleged scene of cruelty. The house, a large brick, stood back some distance from the road. The farmer, whose alleged abusive conduct toward dumb animals had, it was said, aroused the entire township, met the visitors at the gate. He had a smile of welcome and a hearty handshake. The humane officer lost no time in making his business known.

"I'd give fifty dollars to know who reported such a thing," said the owner of the well-kept farm, "but I think I know. The other day I had some trouble with another farmer while threshing. He thinks I am the cause of his getting his jaws boxed, and so, through spite, he has reported this. Gentlemen, go into the barns and see if I am starving my stock."

The barns contained fifty tons of hay and several hundred bushels of oats and other grain.

The grass in the big pasture field, where a number of horses were turned loose did not look any too good, but there was an adjoining meadow of several acres which the farmer said would soon be turned into pasture.

"Of course, you can see my pasture is a little short there in that field, but there's the woods back there. They can go back into that and get all the grass they want. I am a farmer and I admit that I work my horses hard, but they get all they want to eat."

Nowhere about the big place was there any evidence of cruelty toward dumb brutes, and as the humane officer drove away he remarked that eight out of ten of all such cases reported from the country were the result of spite work and nothing more.

When a girl "wishes" on a load of hay it is the most insipid wish in the world—a wish for a box of caramels of a pair of gloves, or something of that kind. But when a boy "wishes" he wishes for something that would make his mother scream if she knew it.

ERNEST MILLER IS INJURED AT AGOSTA

Clothing Is Caught in a Pulley in Elevator.

FOURTEENTH ANNUAL PICNIC OF FARMERS

Big Affair Is Held in Grove at Prospect.

CROWD ESTIMATED AT ABOUT 10,000

Farmers from Fifteen Miles Around Are in Attendance—Some Fine Addresses Are Delivered by Speakers Secured for the Occasion—A Big Picnic Dinner.

Farmers from every section of the county attended the fourteenth annual picnic at Gast's grove at Prospect, Thursday. Some say that it was the biggest gathering in the history of the association. George E. Lawrence, of this city, one of the principal officers of the association, who has participated in every outing for the past fourteen years, estimates the crowd at 10,000.

"Why, there are farmers present from fifteen miles away," said Mr. Lawrence in speaking of the crowd. "It was the biggest in point of numbers and there have been some pretty large crowds at the farmers' picnics in the past."

Early Thursday morning, the farmer and his family began to arrive at the grove. By 9 o'clock the place was dotted with vehicles of all kinds.

The C., D. & M., which inaugurated an hourly service, carried more than 600 people from this city. The majority of these remained until evening. The candidates for offices moved through the grove and shook hands with hundreds of farmers.

At 10:30 o'clock there was music by the Knights of Pythias band of Prospect and the Star band of Bethlehem. Following prayer by Rev. Mr. Vicker, of Prospect, Mayor J. L. Huff, of Prospect, delivered an address of welcome. G. W. Parks, of this city, president of the association, made the response.

After music by the bands, President Parks adjourned further exercises until 1:30 o'clock. The speakers' stand was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

From 11:30 to 1:30 o'clock dinner was enjoyed by the picnickers, who brought huge baskets of good things to eat.

President Parks called the gathering to order at 1:30 o'clock and introduced Judge B. G. Young, of this city, who delivered an able address on the importance of the farmer and the workingman. They alone represent true source of all our wealth, he said, and stand for all that honesty and patriotism imply.

Judge A. Z. Blair, of Portsmouth, was the next speaker. He delivered a stirring temperance argument, heartily endorsing the local option movement among the farmers.

The afternoon's program included music by the two bands, a song by a quartet and selection by a chorus of young women. A ball game was also played. It was called at 4 o'clock and furnished considerable amusement for the spectators.

In the evening at 7 o'clock, Judge Blair delivered another address, in which he praised the farmer and held out to him the golden promise of a bright future. He gave a great many statistics to show the advancement of the farmer socially and educationally.

Following Judge Blair's speech a fine display of fireworks was given. Many of the picnickers departed for their homes before dark, with the result that the attendance in the evening was comparatively small.

According to G. W. Parks, president of the association, and W. H. Klinefelter, secretary, the picnic will go down in history as the largest gathering ever held by the association.

Your use of leisure throws a light on the whole of your life.

HE WAITS FORTY-SIX YEARS FOR HIS MONEY

The Government Pays Captain H. H. Harrison $4.95.

SERVICE RENDERED DURING CIVIL WAR

Captain Harrison Forgets that He Serves Nine Days as a Private Before He Is Promoted and Is Much Surprised When He Gets a Check from Uncle Sam.

Forty-six years ago Captain H. H. Harrison, residing at No. 423 Franklin street, enlisted as a private in the army of the Potomac. A private only nine days, he was promoted to the captaincy of his company. The other day, after a lapse of nearly half a century, he received a letter from the war department containing a check for $4.95. The letter explained that the check from Uncle Sam was in payment for services rendered as a private in the civil war. Captain Harrison was greatly surprised, as the fact that he had served at all as a private had entirely slipped his memory.

Captain Harrison's career in the army was unusual. He was a member of F company, 172d Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry. He enlisted as a private at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, October 22, 1862, and on the tenth day following was made captain of the company over the heads of several old army men who had expected to be given the appointment.

"The 172d was organized by Colonel Charles Kleckner, who was at the time a second lieutenant in the Forty-Eighth Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry and acting as provost marshal of Harrisburg," said Captain Harrison, in speaking of his experience. "I think he had considerable to do with my being made captain.

"A week or ten days after my appointment, the Harrisburg papers announced that Governor Curtin was going to Bellfont, his old home, to take a few days' vacation, so the day after I went to Harrisburg to get measured for a uniform. On my return to Camp Curtin, which was composed of about 6,000 raw troops, under command of Captain Tarbutton, I found the camp in great excitement. The men were all under arms, but had no ammunition. The cause of all this was that General Thoms had learned of the governor's absence, and, taking advantage of it, brought several lieutenants from Washington. These lieutenants would have been promoted to captains, providing they could have gotten their companies filled up to the proper quota.

"General Thoms sent one of his aides out to Camp Curtin and ordered my company and I company to report at the deport forthwith. My orderly was a man of sand and he refused to obey the order, and the general's aide left before I reached the camp. I immediately returned to Harrisburg and employed a lawyer by the name of Kunkle, who advised me to swear out a writ or habus corpus, which I did, and got Sheriff Hoffman after the general, but he got wind of the matter, gathered up his lieutenants and struck out for Washington. His intention was to get the men away in the absence of the governor, but the scheme did not work."

Captain Harrison tinkered about his shop a little bit, his head bowed in thought.

"There were more in my company than the law allowed, I guess," the old veteran continued, looking up with a smile. "We were only supposed to have 100 men, but we had 108 in my company. No, I wasn't wounded, and my company was pretty fortunate. Seventy some of us were mustered out. I guess there are fifteen or seventeen of us still living.

"How the war department ever discovered that the government owed me for nine days' service I don't know, unless it was through an attorney with whom I have been in correspondence about back pay."

Captain Harrison moved to Marion four years ago. He receives a pension of $12 a month. He will be seventy years of age August 24, when, under the age system of pensioning, he will receive $15 a month.

THE SIFRITT FAMILY HOLDS A REUNION

A Company of Fifty Is Nicely Entertained.

The annual reunion of the Sifritt family was held at Greenwood lake, Wednesday. About fifty were in attendance and the day was pleasantly spent. A nice picnic dinner was enjoyed. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Lawrence Sifritt, of Columbus, honorary president; J. W. Sifritt, of LaRue, president; J. E. Sifritt, of Marion, secretary; Mrs. S. B. Shough, of London, assistant secretary; Dr. N. Sifritt, of LaRue, treasurer.

ARE MARRIED AT MINISTER'S HOME

Miss Cora M. Cline and Mr. D. J. Baird.

Miss Cora M. Cline and Mr. D. J. Baird, both of Claridon township, were united in marriage at the Epworth M. E. parsonage, at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, Rev. D. H. Bailey officiating. They will reside on a farm in Claridon township.

MEN ARE RELEASED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Frank Freidly and Joseph Olsworth Are Free.

Frank Freidly and Joseph Olsworth, arrested for train jumping, were released from jail upon the order of County Auditor Charles L. Allen, Thursday. Each of the men was fined one dollar and costs in the court of Justice C. E. Gompf and committed to jail until the fine and costs were paid.

Freidly, according to two detectives from Pittsburg, who came here after Arthur McCabe, is wanted in the Smoky City for non-support. At the time McCabe was taken back to Pittsburg to answer to the charge of robbing a club-house, the officers requested that Freidly be held here. As nothing has been heard from the officers since their departure, two weeks ago, Freidly's release was ordered. He has been in jaill now over a month.

SELECTING ROUTE FOR AN AUTOMOBILE RUN

Fifty Cars Will Make Trip Through This City.

An automobile containing R. K. Davis, of Detroit; Charles A. Baldwin and Howard Spohn, of Toledo, passed through this city Wednesday at noon. The party was from Toledo returning home by way of Kenton, Columbus and Cleveland. The object of the trip was to map out a route for the three-days reliability run to be made from Toledo through Columbus and Cleveland and back to Toledo, September 7, 8 and 9. Fifty touring cars will be entered. Mr. Davis will have charge of the trip, while Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Spohn will mark out the route and make the measurements. Mr. Spohn is connected with the Toledo Times.

THE SECOND ANNUAL CORN ROAST ENJOYED

Elks Nicely Entertained at Lincoln Park.

ABOUT 500 GUESTS ARE IN ATTENDANCE

A Big Feast of Green Corn, Potatoes and Cider Served—The Bellevue Elks Defeat the Marion Elks in a Baseball Game During the Afternoon—Affair a Success.

Three barrels of sweet potatoes, 175 dozen ears of sweet corn, 750 slices of cornbread and fifty gallons of sweet cider—wouldn't that be enough to satisfy the appetite of one of the mighty ogres described in the Arabian Nights? Well, that is what was prepared for the Elks and their friends at the second annual corn roast and picnic at Lincoln park, Wednesday afternoon and evening. And there was little of it left when the hungry hordes had done gorging themselves.

The corn, with the husks on, and the sweet potatoes, were roasted in a huge oven made of hot stones, over which was thrown a heavy canvass. Early Wednesday morning, the big pit was filled with stones and a fire started, and in the afternoon the corn and the potatoes were allowed to cook for hours.

While the corn and potatoes were being prepared for the feast, the Bellevue Elks and the Marion Elks played a game of ball. The visiting team and the local team, attired in their uniforms, marched to Lincoln park at 1 o'clock. The procession was headed by Dowler's rube band. Mayor Louis Scherff and Police Chief Cornwell. Every man in line carried a green cornstalk.

The game was called at 2 o'clock. In baseball parlance there is an expression, now proverbial, that tells the whole story—"a comedy of errors." The visitors walloped, lambasted and squelched the home club by the startling score of twenty-five to six. The game consisted of seven innings. Had it gone the limit Bellevue, perhaps, would have been batting yet. Bellevue's pitcher had it on the locals. Captain Harry S. Elliott derricked Mason and himself, then put in Starr, who twirled fairly well, but was accorded poor support. When it was all over the Marion team had eleven errors and six hits, while Bellevue had one less hit than runs and three errors. The rube band was tationed near the diamond and played whenever Marion made a run.

The ball game afforded great sport for the spectators.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the corn roast, with its trimmings, was served to over 500 men, women and children.

An old-fashioned cider mill was on the ground and into this was poured twenty-five bushels of the fruit that, in the language of one of the picnic committee, made Adam the world's first "undesirable citizen."

Following the feast, dancing was enjoyed in the pavilion until 10 o'clock, Dowler's orchestra furnishing the music.

The affair was a big success in every way, and the committee in charge was profusely congratulated by members of the lodge and visitors. The committee was composed of Albert Howe, chairman; E. T. Ault, Harry S. Elliott, Harry Krause and John H. Clark.

THE HOSKINS FAMILY HOLDS BIG REUNION

About Seventy Members of Family Are Present.

THE DAY PASSED VERY PLEASANTLY

The Barn of Norman L. Hubbard Is Struck by Lightning and Is Burned to the Ground—Two Valuable Work Horses Are Burned to Death. But Little Insurance.

Richwood, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Seventy members of the Hoskins family gathered at the Hamilton farm, just north of Richwood, Saturday afternoon, and held their annual reunion, being guests of S. A. Hoskins and family, of Wapakoneta, who live at the Hamilton farm each summer. Those present from a distance were William Hudson and family and Samuel Hudson and family, of Plain City; Frank Hudson and family, of Bellefontaine; Mrs. Ollie Melching and son, of Lima; Mrs. J. R. Hoskins and son, of Bartlettsville, Oklahoma; Miss Ethel Mather, of Akron; Perry Hoskins, of Galion; Louis Wolfley and family, of Radnor; Lon Hoskins and family, of Prospect. The day was happily spent by all and a picnic dinner was enjoyed on the beautiful lawn at the Hamilton farm. It was decided to hold the reunion at Eagle park, Magnetic Springs, next August, the date to be determined later.

At the celebration held by the Homestead Land Company, Saturday afternoon, at the new allotment in the eastern part of Richwood, little Norman Cowgill, the three year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cowgill, held the lucky number in the drawing contest and was given a building lot worth about $130 as a prize. The lot lies on Blain avenue in the new addition. The allotment consists of forty-eight fine lots, all of which have been sold. It is said that four new homes will be erected there yet this summer and fall.

The large barn of Norman L. Hubbard, who lives between Richwood and York, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed by fire, Monday afternoon, during the severe storm which passed over northern Union county. Two valuable work horses burned to death, a large quantity of hay, oats and several sets of harness were consumed, besides numerous small articles. The loss is a severe one to Mr. Hubbard, the insurance on the building and contents amounting to only $250.

Rev. S. S. Fleming, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church in Richwood, during the past year, preached his farewell sermon Sunday morning. Rev. HIS VIEWS ON TEMPERANCE

Are Defined by Governor Andrew L. Harris,

IN INTRODUCING GOVERNOR HANLY

One of Speakers at Lancaster Assembly

He Denounces the Attempt of the Liquor Interests To Secure the Repeal of the Rose County Local Option Law—Does Not Look for Repeal of Laws of Last Assembly by the Next

Lancaster, O Aug 20—Governor Harris, in introducing Governor J Frank Hanly of Indiana as one of the speakers at the Lancaster assembly took occasion to define his position on the temperance question by denouncing the attempt of the liquor interests to secure the repeal of the Rose county local option law

Wayne B Wheeler of Columbus president of the Ohio Anti Saloon league, delivered an address on "How We Got Local Option and How to Keep It He was followed by Bishop L B Wilson of Chattanooga president of the Anti Saloon League of America and one of the greatest temperance workers of the country Governor A L Harris presided at the meeting and introduced Governor J Frank Hanly of Indiana who made a temperance address

Refers to Rose Law

Governor Harris said Before introducing the orator of the day I wish to say that some of the temperance legislation passed by the present general assembly is being severely criticised and vigorously condemned by interested people I refer particularly to the Rose county local option law This law does not take effect until the first of September and when it is in force it will not of itself close a single saloon It gives the electors of the different counties the right to say for themselves whether the saloon shall remain or go whether the county shall be wet or dry The majority rules on every other question pertaining to the public good then why not on this question'

"An organized effort is being made by the liquor dealers and their friends to bring about a repeal or a modification of the Rose law and of other temperance laws objectionable to the liquor interests I do not believe these organizations with all of their misrepresentations and the lavish use of their corruption fund will succeed in electing a legislature that will do their bidding I have an abiding faith in the honesty and intelligence of the electors of Ohio

I do not believe that these laws passed by the Seventy seventh General assembly in the interest of law and order and good government and happy homes will be repealed by the Seventy eighth General assembly

JOHN WORTH KERN OF INDIANA

SOMETIMES—not frequently indeed but sometimes—on hearing for the first time the name of a newly made vice presidential nominee it has been necessary for the average American citizen to 'inquire further' The reason for this is to be found in the unfortunate disinclination of most of those who have arrived at political eminence to serve in the comparatively insignificant office—insignificant that is in comparison with a four year tenancy in the White House

Possibly there were those who were driven to Who's Who in America at the announcement of the recent Democratic national convention that it had nominated Mr John Worth Kern for second place on its ticket If that be the case I may be asserted with absolute confidence that not one of those belated inquirers hailed from the state of Indiana There is no one within the boundary of that progressive commonwealth who would have balked at the mention of the vice presidential candidate Every man woman and child in the Hoosier State knows John Worth Kern Some of them call it Curren and even spell it that way but they know their man just the same and they are proud of him

This tendency of his fellow citizens to make him Curran is almost epidemic in some parts of Hoosierdom The very day after the nomination the victim received the information that a Curran club was being organized in Posey county

All right he laughed good naturedly 'As long as it is likely to be spelled correctly on the ballot I guess I'll have to stand it

It does not always get into print correctly Only a few months ago a case in which Mr Kern appeared as a witness was taken to the supreme court When the judge began reading over one of the briefs submitted he discovered that one John W Curran figured quite conspicuously

'Still masquerading I see' observed the judge with a chuckle Mr Kern who chanced to be present was visibly annoyed at the blunder 'Twice a candidate for governor of Indiana and still Curran his honor went on bantteringly Such alas is fame'

Yes such is fame Kern admitted with a sigh

* *

It is current belief in the state of Indiana that the game of politics is John W Kern's supreme diversion that the hurly burly of a hot political campaign is the one form of stimulant on which his system thrives Yet he has been singularly unsuccessful in securing for himself those rewards for lifelong party devotion which make the struggle attractive in the eyes of most men Since the early days of his political career he has experienced a series of defeats which must have been sickening to a man inspired solely by personal ambition That he has accepted defeat about as cheerfully as others accept victory is proof sufficient that the Democratic candidate is not a politician of the ordinary type It is his consolation that the political reverses which have been so frequent and so emphatic have never brought humiliation or even disappointment The odds against which he has been pitted have as a rule been too heavy to admit of hope

Thus it has happened that defeat has done more for John W Kern than victory has done for many another His willingness to bear the burden of a hopeless campaign often at great personal sacrifice has endeared him to his party It may be said that his failures have been brilliant failures they have become political assets and have done their part in thrusting him to the fore and have made him the first Democrat of Indiana

* *

Of course there is a reason beyond all this why John W Kern has been nominated to the vice presidency How did it happen that he was singled out from the scores of men many of wider fame, who were declared to be fit for presiding officer of the United States senate and in case the need should come, for the chief magistracy itself The answer is not difficult to find nor is it complete when it is affirmed as a political probability that he will come nearer than any other man who could be named to carrying his state for his party Practically every delegate from the Hoosier State to the Denver convention was quite certain of that As a spellbinder there is not his peer in the middle west but notwithstanding his reputation as a magnetic stump speaker and vote getter he would not have been chosen for the vice presidential nominee but it not been for his unswerving loyalty to the head of the ticket

Kern is heart mind muscle and soul a Bryan Democrat Ten long years ago than that eventful day on which Mr Bryan's cross of gold oratory set the Democracy aflame the Indiana man had been sitting at the feet the Nebraskan whom he regards as the one ideal Democrat In both campaigns led by the Nebraskan Mr Kern bore aloft the Bryan banner and gave freely of his strength and substance Never was there a more devoted champion a more unselfish friend Never has a Bryan disciple subscribed to the creed in larger letters or Hamlet like Through both campaigns Mr Bryan did not lose sight of the man who was his tireless promoter He recognized the genuineness of Kern's faith in him and it touched him deeply

That is why John W Kern is slated to bare any political prize which may be won by the head of the Democratic ticket In their friendship the two men are like affectionate brothers Never does the 'Nebraskan pass through the Indiana capital without visiting the modest home of the Kerns and his is a family place at the Kern board and fireside It was Kern who sent abroad two years ago to meet Mr Bryan and to tell him of the great reception which would be given him at Madison Square Garden on his homecoming

When Mr Bryan was in Indianapolis last February to deliver an address in the regular course of the Young Men's Christian association he went to the Kern home as usual Mrs Kern is a model housewife and it occurred to her that a strawberry shortcake would be a pleasant surprise to the distinguished guest who was always very appreciative of her culinary efforts in his behalf To that end she invested in some especially fine and rather costly hothouse berries Shortly before dinner was served she happened to remember the tendency of her two small boys to make audible demonstrations at the appearance of anything unusual at the table and she feared that the sudden presence of a luxury like mid winter strawberries might provoke some rather startling comment from them To provide against this probability she decided to prepare them for the occasion

Now boys don't let mother hear you say a single word when the strawberry shortcake comes on the table she admonished with motherly firmness Promise me that you won't speak

The youngsters promised faithfully

When the delectable tidbit made its appearance it was Mr Bryan who opened his eyes in astonishment and ejaculated

What! Strawberries this time of the year! Well well this is something unusual

Mrs Kern took a stealthy glance at the boys and saw that they were gazing at Mr Bryan in open mouthed wonder They kept their promise however and the danger period passed without disaster After dinner the youngsters continued to remain speechless until the guest observing their remarkable quiet took the large one on his lap and inquired blandly

Does this little boy like strawberry shortcake?

Yeth thir I doth but I've got too good manners for to thay tho the hopeful lisped virtuously

In spite of the Milesian ring of his name Mr Kern comes from good old German stock his paternal great grandfather having emigrated to America from the Fatherland and settled in Virginia laying out the little hamlet of Kernstown near Winchester Mr Kern's grandfather Jacob Kern went from Virginia in 1806 and settled in Shelby county Ind His son father of the candidate became a physician and lived the life of a pioneer country doctor at Alto near Kokomo That was the birthplace of John W Kern and to it Dr Kern and his family returned after a sojourn of ten unprofitable years in Iowa John was then fourteen and had already made the discovery that he must be the architect of his own fortunes

He accepted the duty manfully in time receiving the rudiments in arts at the University of Michigan and later being licensed to practice law He opened an office in Kokomo served as city attorney for ten years and in 1885 took office as reporter of the state supreme court During his incumbency he published eleven volumes of reports which stand well for his industry

Then he removed to Indianapolis and served as state senator four years and as city solicitor for six In 1900 he was nominated for governor and defeated Four years later he repeated the venture again unsuccessfully Two years ago he was Senator Beveridge's defeated opponent and that brings his political record up to date Of the two children of his first marriage only one Julia is living The son, Frederick Richmond Kern died of fever contracted in Cuba during the Spanish war The present Mrs Kern is the mother of two very interesting little boys—John W Jr aged eight, and William Cooper aged five The family, including Miss Julia, lives at 1826 North Pennsylvania street in a modest frame house and all attend the Tabernacle Presbyterian church, although Mr Kern is a Methodist

The Men Who Conduct Presidential Campaigns

THE regular business of the presidential campaign will begin this month For the last twenty years the business managers of both parties have devoted all their energies to the conventions during June and the early part of July After convention week it is the custom of all parties to take a rest It is not thought worth while to open headquarters at once Even in August the work done amounts only to a beginning The office force is organized the plan of the campaign is outlined and discussed and some literature is prepared but it is a fact that the managers do not roll up their sleeves and go to work until September What would be the use Even that huge body of voters known to writers on sociology as the proletariat cannot be roused to enthusiasm during the heated term It is immune from the arts of the spellbinder while the mercury is soaring in the nineties

It was in 1884 the year of the Cleveland Blaine contest that national headquarters began to be managed on a strictly business basis something in fact like an overgrown department store In this clever arrangement all the features of the business are divided and subdivided into numerous branches each of which is under the immediate supervision of a competent head who in turn is responsible to the national chairman One man looks after the literature bureau which has expanded into a feature of vast proportions another makes the assignments of the campaign orators a work demanding much judgment and accurate knowledge and others are intrusted with the management of the campaign funds the distribution of which is a very important and delicate matter All this business requires a small army of employees and it has become necessary to provide a large space for the housing of this expansive although temporary business

Until the first Bryan campaign in 1896 national headquarters of both great parties had been established in New York city In his speech of acceptance delivered at Madison Square Garden Mr Bryan declared that New York was the enemy's country and the chairman of the Democratic national committee Senator James K Jones of Arkansas opened his headquarters in Chicago A diminutive branch conducted by the late Elliot Danforth was maintained in the Empire City although little business was done on the premises Danforth was a born humorist and one day when the reporters called on him he told them he had no news but that if they would give him ten minutes he would try to think up a story for them After the time had elapsed he lighted a cigar and shook his head You can look through my mail box and use anything you find to make up an article he said There were about a dozen letters on his table and after going through them the reporters found that they contained nothing worth while of interest except a few one dollar bills which had been sent as campaign contributions

A Joke on Mark Hanna

In that campaign the Republicans opened headquarters in New York and Chicago and Mark Hanna had duplicates both of their sprawling establishments in Chicago The chairman was so certain of the result that a fortnight before the election he made arrangements for a banquet at the Waldorf for the New York and Chicago political reporters at which they were to receive gold medals emblematic of the gold standard theory The dinner went off happily and the medals were handed round by Perry Heath A short time afterward one of the newspaper men who knew something of metallurgy discovered that the medals were made of silver with a gold washing When the truth became public it caused a laugh throughout the country and no one seemed more amused over it than Mark Hanna

In 1888 when Cleveland and Harrison were the leading candidates for the presidency both national headquarters were opened in New York Calvin S Brice afterward senator from Ohio was at the head of the Democratic office and Senator Quay directed the Republican campaign Senator Quay's chief assistant was the Colonel Dudley of Indiana who made himself famous by the 11 ks of five letter sent to a county chairman in the Hoosier State It was intended to instruct the chairman to divide floaters into groups of five and to see that they went to the polls and voted Although there was no mention of money in the letter it was not specified that the blocks of five were to be influenced solely by goodfellowship and it was not the popular belief that such was the case A copy of the letter fell into the hands of the Democratic committee and much publicity was made of the matter Colonel Dudley brought suit for libel against several newspapers for publishing the letter but nothing came of them and they were dismissed eventually at the instance of the plaintiff

Capable Senator Quay.

Senator Quay did not need help especially He was quite competent to manage the business successfully, and he did By his message to congress the year previous Mr Cleveland had made tariff reform the sole issue of the campaign It was a message which solidified the great manufacturing interests of the country against its author and there was no lack of capital to combat it Senator Quay conducted the campaign quietly seldom talking and never writing for publication few American politicians have ever been so successful in evading the professional interviewer One of the few instances in which he was known to have answered a question put to him by a reporter has been recorded as follows

At that time it was current report that Quay then state treasurer of Pennsylvania and political boss of the state had been seen lobbying at Harrisburg for some railroad measure and had been buttonholing legislators at the capitol The reporter asked him if this were true The shrewd politician smiled rather sardonically and answered Young fellow you must be a new hand at the business or you would know that if I wanted the legislature to do anything I shouldn't go to the capitol I should just send for the legislature and one by one it would come to see me

That is precisely the manner in which the Republican campaign of 1888 is reputed to have been conducted Mr Quay did not go to the manufacturers He simply sent for them and they went to see him willingly enough under the circumstances

The Scout of the Administration

There can be no uncertainty in regard to the business capacity of Mr Taft's manager Chairman Frank Harris Hitchcock He had already demonstrated his ability to do things before he was selected by Mr Taft to conduct his preconvention campaign As first assistant postmaster general he made it evident that he would be a coming man anywhere His taste for the peculiar duties of a political manager is so decided that it sets him apart from those who engage in such business perfunctorily and with little enthusiasm

Mr Hitchcock has always interested Washington and now he is in a fair way to interest the country His rise began when he became associated with George B Cortelyou in the department of commerce and labor and made it evident that he was one of the most promising young men in the employ of the government He made such a hit with the secretary that when Cortelyou was chosen to manage the Roosevelt campaign he selected Hitchcock as his chief assistant After the election Cortelyou was given the office of postmaster general and Hitchcock became first assistant In due time he made himself so all pervasive in Republican politics that he was known as the scout of the administration It seems that after he was vigorously opposed to the candidacy of Taft that he was for a third term first last and all the time When the president refused positively Hitchcock found him elf with a crowd of delegates on his hands It was at Mr Roosevelt's suggestion that Mr Taft sent for Hitchcock and asked him to manage his campaign Mr Roosevelt sounded the right Democratic note which he obviously Mr Cortelyou felt called to add his strength to one or the other After due deliberation Hitchcock accepted rolled up his sleeves and went to work

Mr Hitchcock has just turned forty but he doesn't look thirty five He is as big framed and broad shouldered as the young man pictured in the clothing advertisements and quite as good looking He is an Ohio man, an alumnus of Harvard, and best of all, it may be said of him that no one has ever accused him of an unclean, a low or an improper action

Arthur I Vorys is another Ohio man who has come to the front as a campaign manager His services as a delegate getter in the recent Republican contest for the nomination were so successful that he has been retained to supervise the campaign in Ohio, George R Sheldon is the New York banker and man of affairs who has been appointed treasurer of the committee a position which required superior business ability

A C HEDGES.

HARDER THAN STEEL.

The diamond is the hardest mineral in existence though metal tantalum, used for electric lamp filaments, comes very near it Although so hard, the diamond is very brittle, so that a sharp blow will often fracture it But Sir William Crookes who has devoted much time during many years to the scientific study of the diamond, has shown that if a good one is placed between the steel jaws of a hydraulic press and the pressure is applied without jerk so as to avoid fracture due to brittleness, the jaws may be made to meet without the slightest injury to even the edges of the diamond, the hard steel closing round it and taking an impression of the much harder diamond just like so much wax This experiment no doubt, in the hands of a skilled scientist would be all right, but we would not advise readers to try it on with their diamond rings.

He Hasn't the Slightest Desire To Speak,

But the Action of the Committee Impugns His Loyalty to the Republican Party, the Success of Which It Has Always Been His Pleasure To Promote—Full Knowledge and Approval of Taft.

New York, Aug. 19.—Reticent as to political issues, Senator Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio, who is here today on his way to Washington and his home town, Cincinnati, yet makes it plain that little aid or comfort will be gleaned from him by the Taft forces.

Discussing his invitation to "sit on the platform with his mouth shut," at the opening of the Ohio campaign at Youngstown, September 5, Senator Foraker betrayed some heat in announcing his determination not to appear "among those present." He said:

"I frankly confess that I feel deeply humiliated; not that I had any desire to speak, but because the action of the committee impugns my loyalty to the Republican party, the success of which it has always been a pleasure to me to promote, and does it in the midst of a campaign when I cannot defend myself without appearing to disregard party harmony.

This humiliation is intensified by the fact that the action of the committee appears to have been taken with the full knowledge and approval of Mr. Taft. I shall not do any speaking in the campaign and will not be at Youngstown."

PRESIDENT WILL SAIL ON CELTIC

March 7 Is Set for the Date of Sailing.

New York, Aug. 20.—President Roosevelt, it is reported today, will leave on his African hunting trip on the White Star steamer, Celtic, March 7, 1909.

If this plan is unaltered, special arrangements for Roosevelt and his party will be made on the Celtic, principal among which will be the installation of a gymnasium and shooting gallery that the president may get a start on his expedition in prime physical condition.

Fully a dozen persons, it is said, will sail with the president to Madeira, where they will be transferred to a Castle line steamship for Capetown.

MANACLED BOTH LEG AND WRIST

Two Oilers Elude Guards and Swim Ashore at New York.

New York, Aug. 20.—Two oilers of the battleship, New Hampshire, arrested on the Bowery, are today back in irons on the warship after a most remarkable escape. The two, who were manacled with both leg and wrist irons in the vessels brig, eluded their guards and ironed as they were, swam ashore. Their irons were filed off on the Bowery and the men started to celebrate, but were captured within an hour.

A NEW VARIETY OF WHEAT GROWN

The Wheat Is Expected To Yield 200 Bushels to the Acre—A Discovery.

W. W. Ward, a wheat farmer near Dayton, Wash., has discovered a new variety of wheat that has seven distinct heads united to a common base. Each head is considerably larger than the ordinary wheat Ward figures, says the Kansas City Star, that the new variety will yield as high as 280 bushels to the acre, with an average of 200 bushels.

Hundreds of farmers in the vicinity of Dayton have visited the Ward ranch to see the new wheat. All have asked for a few pounds of the seed, but Ward is figuring upon further experiments and plans to plant all of this year's crop next season, enlarging his present area to about three acres.

MANY TAKE OWN LIVES

Suicides Play Important Part In News of the Day.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 21. — Mrs. N. Snellenberg, wife of N. Snellenberg, millionaire department store proprietor of Philadelphia, committed suicide at the Oaks home in this city by eating strychnine tablets, which had been prescribed for her as medicine. Mrs. Snellenberg was afflicted with consumption and it is believed this affliction produced melancholia.

Wealthy American Suicides.

Bournemouth, England, Aug. 21.—John Pedman Reid, said to be a wealthy American, was found dead in his apartments here. He had shot himself with a revolver, which was found at his side. An inquest has been held, the verdict of which was "self-destruction during temporary insanity."

Kills Wife and Self.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21.—Philip Weir, 34, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. The couple had been separated three months and Weir had married again. It is said they quarreled over the wife's challenge of the legality of the second marriage.

Morphine Victim Ends Life.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 21.—Collis F. Huntington, formerly manager of the Ansonia Clock company in Chicago, committed suicide by shooting himself in the temple at the Riverview hospital, a private institution. He had been taking treatment for the morphine habit.

Child Ends Her Life.

Arthur, S. D., Aug. 21. — Using a double-barreled shotgun, with which Andrew Gogoloin killed himself several months ago, the 10-year-old daughter of John Stoltz committed suicide.

REFUSES TO TALK

Hitchcock Is Mum as to Nature of Conference With President.

New York, Aug. 21. — Contrary to expectations, no announcement was made by Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, as to the sentiment developed at the Oyster Bay conference concerning the renomination of Governor Hughes. Mr. Hitchcock and James S. Sherman, the Republican candidate for vice president, returned to New York on the yacht of George J. Smith, treasurer of the New York state committee. Not only did Mr. Hitchcock fail to give out any statement, but he went to his apartments at the Manhattan hotel without seeing any newspaper men, in spite of the fact that he indicated at Oyster Bay that he might have something to say about New York politics after the conference with the president.

Lusitania Lowers Record.

New York, Aug. 21.—With the best previous record for a transatlantic voyage lowered by more than three hours, the Cunard turbine steamship Lusitania arrived off Sandy Hook lightship at 10 o'clock, having made the run across the Atlantic over the short course in 4 days, 15 hours and 25 minutes. The Lusitania's former record, which was also the ocean record, was 4 days, 18 hours and 40 minutes, the steamer by her new performance lowering her former mark by 3 hours and 15 minutes.

CITY IS RIPE FOR TROUBLE

Springfield's White Population Aroused by Rumors.

WITNESS IS REPORTED SHOT

Newspaper Bulletins Attract Crowd and Authorities at Once Take Extra Precautions to Prevent Renewal of Rioting—True Story of Affair Develops Fact That Boy Was Accidentally Shot by Companions—Negroes Alarmed at Demonstration.

Springfield, Ill., Aug 21.—Inflamed by the report that Rolla Keys, a 17-year-old boy who testified before the grand jury that indicted George Richardson for an alleged assault upon Mrs. Mabel Hallam, had been shot by friends of the accused negro, the white population of the city was on the point of renewing its attack on the black belt, when it was learned that the shooting was the result of an accident, the wound having been inflicted by a young companion. The Keys boy may not recover. According to the story first told by Keys' companions, Harold McLaughlin, 14, and Chester Brown, 16, the bullet struck Keys while he was fishing in the Sangamon river, near the city waterworks. They asserted that they had left him for a few moments, and that when they returned they found him wounded.

Police Remove Bulletins.

This was the version which was posted on the newspaper bulletin boards. Instantly crowds began to collect and the excitement was increased when the police ordered the removal of the notices. The act was interpreted as an attempt on the part of the authorities to conceal the facts so as to minimize the possibility of the renewal of the local race war.

When the fresh bulletins appeared, however, and the true story of the affair became known, the excitement gradually subsided.

Because of the excitement caused by the first reports of the accident, extra precautions were taken by Colonels Moriarity and Foreman, in command of the two military sections of the city, to prevent the gathering of crowds. The members of the patrols were also instructed to spread the true version of the accident and to arrest any persons discovered counseling violence to negroes.

Parental influence caused McLaughlin and Brown to confess the facts. The former's father found a pistol, with the only chamber discharged, in a buggy in which the boys had driven to the waterworks. When confronted with this evidence the son admitted that he was holding the revolver when it was discharged. He could not explain how the revolver was discharged, and said that the boys concocted the first story because they were frightened.

The occurrence caused fresh fears in the "black belt" despite the efforts of officials to maintain quiet. There was a large number of negroes who slept at Camp Lincoln, under the protection of a guard from the Seventh regiment, under Lieutenant A. J. L. Vandandaigue.

TWO ARE INDICTED

Grand Jury Returns True Bills Against Two Alleged Mob Leaders.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—Two of the alleged mob leaders were indicted on 10 counts by the special grand jury of Sangamon county.

Six of the counts are against Abraham Raymor and four are against Kate Howard. Raymor is charged with murder, four cases of malicious michief and one of riot. The charges against the Howard woman are for malicious mischief and are identical with those against Raymor on these counts.

The murder charge against Raymor is based upon his alleged participation in the lynching of William Donigan, the 80-year-old negro who fell a victim to the mob's fury on Saturday night. Much of the evidence upon which this was voted was secured by a military court of inquiry which has been sitting under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel Chipperfield of the First cavalry, and which turned over to the state's attorney the result of its investigations.

WILL BOOST PRICES

Big Coal Combine Will Have St. Louis At Its Mercy.

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—Announcement was made that a corporation is being formed, to be known as the Commonwealth Fuel company, embracing 153 Illinois coal mines within a radius of 59 miles of St. Louis, supplying practically all the bituminous coal consumed in St. Louis and East St Louis, Ill. It is stated that the new combination proposes not only to control the output of the mines, but also the prices. According to dealers, if negotiations are consummated, an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in the price of coal may be expected, meaning an increase from $600,000 to $1,000,000 in the coal bill of St. Louis and East St. Louis.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Live News Notes of the Buckeye State. Blacksmiths Elect Officers.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 21.—By a vote of 41 to 33 Philadelphia won out over Niagara Falls as the next meeting place for the International Blacksmiths' association, which has been in convention here since Tuesday. Toledo, Atlantic City, Milwaukee and Birmingham were also in the race. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, J. W. Russell, Renovo, Pa.; first vice president, George W. Kelly, Elizabeth, N. J.; second vice president, John Conners, Montgomery, Ala.; secretary and treasurer, A. L. Woodworth, Lima, O.; chemist, George Williams, Boston.

Brest Wins President's Contest.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 21.—Sergeant A. Brest of the United States infantry won the president's contest, the closing event in the National Rifle association tournament. He made a score of 304 against a field of 277 other contestants. Last year the gold medal was won by Sergeant Berg of Washington by a score of 310. In the contest Captain F. W. Allen of Massachusetts took second prize, the silver medal, with a score of 302. Third place and the bronze medal was taken by Lieutenant S. A. Harris, United States infantry, with 300.

Vets Protest Against Sacrilege.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 21.—If it is necessary to stop what they deem a sacrilege, Todd post of the G. A. R. will go into the courts to prevent the use of the flag as an advertisement by a moving picture show. The flag is dragged through the streets daily behind an old stage coach. An ordinance will be offered forbidding the use of the flag for any advertising in the city.

Explosion Injures Two.

Newark, O. Aug. 21.—While driving a traction engine to the farm of William McCarthy, near Union Station, William Fulk, the driver, struck the front wheels of the engine against a low pressure gas line, causing it to break. The gas ignited from the fire in the engine and John Good and Hollis Hanby were very badly burned about the face and arms.

Bulldog Has Brain Storm.

East Liverpool, O. Aug 21.—Maddened by the intense heat, a bull terrier owned by J. C. Hart attacked Hart's 12-year-old son John and inflicted four bad wounds on the boy's left leg and one on his arm. Bystanders came to the lad's aid and saved him from being torn to pieces.

Druggists Object to Tax.

Lima, O., Aug 21.—Nine of the 10 druggists who were suddenly placed on the list of the Dow-Aikin tax have filed suits against County Treasurer Thomas Jones asking for a temporary restraining order and a permanent injunction against collection.

Boston Gets Convention.

Put-In-Bay, O., Aug. 21. — At the morning session of the National Fraternal congress, which was devoted to a discussion of the recommended reform bill it was decided to hold the 1909 congress at Boston.

Old Soldier Suicides.

Dayton, O., Aug. 21.—Believing in the Osler theory that his days of usefulness were over, Ebenezer Coalwell, an inmate of the Soldiers' home, committed suicide by slashing his throat with a razor.

Strikers Frustrate Plot.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 21. — T. H. McVety, chairman of the Canadian Pacific railway strikers' committee, made the announcement that the lawless foreign element working in the Canadian Pacific railway shop, but sympathizing with the strikers, had plotted to destroy the extensive railway system of shops here. Mr. McVety said the discovery was made by the strikers and by them was frustrated.

DESERTS FAIRVIEW FOR TALKING TOUR

Bryan Will Deliver Many Speeches in Seven Days.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 21.—For seven days Fairview will drop out of the limelight, William Jennings Bryan having started on his speaking tour. During his absence he will also hold a conference with his campaign managers in Chicago.

The first stop will be at Des Moines, where tonight he will discuss the tariff. Saturday, Sunday and a part of Monday he will spend in Chicago, and on Tuesday he will be present at the notification in Indianapolis of John W. Kern, the Democratic vice presidential nominee. At Indianapolis he will speak on the subject of trusts. Two days later, at Topeka, Kan., he will deal with the question of the guaranty of bank deposits. He will return to Lincoln on Aug. 28.

The moving picture man was early in evidence at the Bryan home, having, as he said, come direct from Oyster Bay. He carried away with him a number of films illustrative of Mr. Bryan's home life.

King Opens Croquet Lawn.

Marienbad, Aug. 21.—King Edward officially opened the new croquet lawn here and played a game with Anthony Drexel of Philadelphia.

RECONCILIATION RUMORS DENIED

Attorneys in Hains' Case Try It in Newspapers.

ONE TELLS OF AUTO RIDE

Says Murderer Sought to Convince Public of His Faith In Wife's Honor and Denies Story of Her Being Drugged at Time of Alleged Confession—Other Says Woman's Character Is Above Reproach, Confession or No Confession.

New York, Aug. 21.—Lawyers involved in the case of the Hains brothers, now awaiting indictment in the Queens county jail for the killing of William E. Annis, continue to try the case in the public press by issuing contradictory statements.

Frank Wild, Mrs. Hains' attorney, issued a formal denial of the allegations made against his client, insisting that signed confessions to the contrary notwithstanding, Mrs. Hains had never been guilty of improper conduct with Annis.

As to a published story to the effect that his client was trying to effect a reconciliation with her husband and would testify in his behalf at the trial, Mr. Wild was equally positive. His client had never considered a reconciliation as possible, he said.

Refuses to Comment.

Weldon C. Percy, the first lawyer called in to defend Captain Hains and his brother, refused to comment on the various statements. Concerning the automobile ride in which Captain Hains took Annis just after his return from the Philippines, however, Mr. Percy threw a new light.

"The captain," he said, "returned with the conviction that all the gossip connecting Annis and his wife was without foundation. He studied upon a way to speedily silence the detractors of the woman he loved and decided the best way would be to openly invite Annis to dinner at the fort. He did this, trusting in the word of his wife. That night Annis came to the fort with his wife, and after dinner the four—Mrs. Hains, the captain and Mr. and Mrs. Annis—went out together for an automobile ride. Subsequent to that the captain discovered the truth. The talk of Mrs. Hains not having been in full possession of her faculties when she signed the confession is ridiculous. Fully 12 hours elapsed between her oral and her written confessions."

Bishop McQuaid Collapses.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 21.—At the close of the banquet, with which the exercises of new hall of theology at St. Bernard's seminary was concluded, Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid suddenly collapsed, and it was feared for a time that death was imminent. The exercises involved the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the bishop's episcopate and the sixtieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

SIX ARE DEAD

Flames Devour Children During Absence of Parents.

Colfax, Wash., Aug. 21.—Six children are dead and two others are burned so seriously that recovery is doubtful at the H. W Schultz ranch, between Colfax and Palouse, resulting from a fire that destroyed their home.

Four of the dead children are those of Schultz and two were the children of W. W. Fox, a brother-in-law. The men were away harvesting and the mothers were attending a theatrical performance. The two oldest Schultz girls attempted to rescue the children, but lost the way to the door and were forced to drop the babies to make their own escape.

Three Mines Will Continue.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 21.—By the miners agreeing to a temporary continuation of the checking-off of miners' union assessments and dues, three Evansville mines and the Chandler mines in the Evansville field will continue to work the remainder of the present week.

Wellman Visits President.

Oyster Bay, Aug 21.—Walter Wellman, who planned to reach the north pole in an airship, came to Oyster Bay and spent a few hours with President Roosevelt.

THIS AND THAT

Governor Johnson has accepted the renomination tendered him by Minnesota Democrats.

Two men were fatally and three seriously burned by the explosion of an automobile near Lafayette, Ind.

The works of the German-American Petroleum company at Basle, Switzerland, were destroyed by fire. Loss $50,000.

The finding of an empty sailboat confirms the report of the drowning of David Gifford, Herbert Lambourne and Edith Turneck in Lake Winnipeg.

Judge William H. Taft will address a joint reunion of Athens county (O.) civil war veterans and the Seventh regiment of Spanish war veterans at Athens, Aug. 29.

ARRESTS MADE

Mrs. Stein and Mother Wanted by Loudonville Authorities.

Ashland, O., Aug. 21. — While the coroner's inquest on the death of Morris Stein and Miss Hester Porter at Loudonville is not yet completed, it has advanced to such a stage that the prosecuting attorney wired the authorities at Des Moines to hold Mrs. Morris Stein and her mother, Mrs. Sarah Bayard, as witnesses. Affidavits have been prepared by the prosecutor and application will be made to the governor for extradition warrants as soon as the coroner's verdict is rendered. According to the prosecutor's statement both women are charged in the affidavits with complicity in the murder of Stein and Miss Porter.

Held at Omaha.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Morris Stein and Mrs. Reuben Bayard were placed under arrest here. They are the wife and mother-in-law of Morris Stein, the well-known young Des Moines man who was one of the victims in the double shooting at Loudonville, O. The Des Moines police were asked to detain Mrs. Stein and her mother on a charge of complicity in the double murder of Morris Stein and Hester Porter. Colonel Johnson, head of the Des Moines detective department, stated that he could not do so without a warrant or knowing that a warrant would be issued for their arrest by the Ohio authorities. The Ohio authorities replied that a warrant had been issued and that a copy would be forwarded by mail to Colonel Johnson. The request that the Des Moines authorities make the arrest was repeated.

Congo Question Settled.

Brussels, Aug. 21. — After several months of bitter struggle the chamber of deputies adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 55, and although the action probably will insure the solution of the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

REGULATIONS SET ASIDE

American Marines Parade Sydney Streets Carrying Their Arms.

Sydney, Aug. 21.—American bluejackets and marines took part in the parade through the streets of Sydney today in spite of the fact that for a time it looked as if imperial regulations promised to make it impossible to carry out the program as originally planned.

The imperial regulations forbid the landing of armed men in Australia. This fact was communicated to Admiral Sperry, who in reply informed the government that he would not allow his men to participate in the processions and reviews unless they came ashore armed. This was followed by a conference between Admiral Sperry and the commonwealth government, after which it was announced that the government had granted permission for the American sailors and marines to land armed, but without ammunition. This proviso was accepted by the admiral, and the program was therefore carried out unaltered.

Columbus Man Defeated.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug 21.—D F. Elbert of Des Moines won the western handicap championship event of the Great Western handicap shoot, defeating Fred Shattuck of Columbus, O., after a sensational match. One hundred and fifty crack shots entered the event, which was for 100 birds. Five of the 150 came through with a score of 96 birds each, Mulford of Missouri, Beach of Nebraska, Vermillion, Shattuck and Elbert of Iowa. Of these two came through the shoot-off with 19 out of 20 birds. These two were Elbert and Shattuck. They banged away at another 20 birds, Elbert getting 19 and the championship, while Shattuck got only 15 of his 20.

RECEIVES MANY INVITATIONS

Arrives In Washington After Vacation Spent In Maine and Tells Reporters He Is Tired of Discussing Attitude Toward Republican Leaders—Says If He Delivers Speeches During Campaign He Will Discuss Issues According to Own Views.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Fresh from a vacation spent in Maine, Senator Foraker has arrived in Washington. En route here the senator stopped in New York city for two days, but did not confer with any of the Republican leaders there.

Senator Foraker, on his arrival here, found a dispatch from Frank H. Hitchcock, Republican national chairman, expressing regret that they had not met in New York and conveying the hope that when Mr. Foraker was in that city again they would meet.

The senator was a much sought man by the reporters, who desired an expression from him relative to his nonparticipation in the opening of the Republican campaign at Youngstown, O., Sept. 5, when Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Governor Hughes of New York are to sound the campaign keynote. He dwelt upon this subject to some extent while in New York, and was disinclined to go over the same ground, deprecating, as he said, with a smile, feeling under the necessity of "talking every time he changed cars."

The senator, however, expressed his view regarding the action of the state committee of Ohio in inviting him to attend the opening and his prospective attitude in the campaign.

Never Received Invitation.

"I don't know," said Senator Foraker, "what action the state committee took, except as I have been advised by the newspapers. I see by the morning papers that Chairman Williams says he mailed me an invitation last Saturday, but I have not received it. All I know, therefore, is that, according to the newspapers, I do not appear to be either needed or wanted at Youngstown, except to sit on the platform and listen to the speeches that are delivered by the orators chosen for that occasion.

"I would, of course, be glad to hear these speeches. As I have already said, I can hear them in the newspapers."

Continuing, he said: "The fact that I do not care to make any speeches, under the circumstances, under the auspices of the state committee, will not necessarily interfere with my making speeches under other auspices. I find on my desk a number of invitations to speak, some from Ohio and some from other localities. If I should see fit to accept any of these invitations, while I would certainly try to speak in such a way as to help the Republican cause, I yet feel that I shall be at liberty to express my own views on important questions about which there probably will be more or less discussion during the progress of the campaign."

SAYS WHY FORAKER WAS NOT INVITED

Judge Woodmansee Throws Side Light on Affair.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 21.—One of the late arrivals here is Judge Woodmansee of Cincinnati, a cousin of Judge Taft, who in 1896 was president of the National League of Republican Clubs. He gave out an interview relative to the action of the Ohio state committee in not inviting Senator Foraker to speak at the Youngstown opening, Sept. 5.

He said: "Aside from the fact that we have had openings in Ohio without our senator taking part, it can at once be understood that a very important question of party policy arose this year. Everyone can appreciate that it was an embarrassing situation. Senator Foraker, in his chamber of commerce speech, delivered in Cincinnati a short time ago, made a severe attack on the policies of President Roosevelt. How could the party which intends to wage the fight standing squarely on these policies, as declared in its platform, consistently invite him to take the most conspicuous part in the campaign? It was practically impossible, and most of Mr. Foraker's friends see it that way.

"I will yield to no one in my admiration for Senator Foraker. The splendid services that he has heretofore rendered in behalf of the Republican party can not and must not be forgotten, and no one shall regret more than myself if he finds it impossible to serve the party during this important campaign."
